WASHINGTON STATE PRISONINMATES GIVE UP

WITH OFFICIAL

Men in Control of Most of Institution for 26 Hours in Protest Over Discipline and Parole Practices.

WALLA WALLA, Wash., July 6 (UPI)—Convicts at Washington state penitentiary ended their revolt today and released nine prison employees they had held hostage for 26 hours. The rebellion ended at 3:30 p.m.

The first hostage released was Theodore Bezzerides, associate warden. He looked extremely pale and weak as he emerged from the cell block where he had been confined.

The revolt ended after the state director of institutions, Dr. Thomas Harris, negotiated with five convict ringleaders from the 33 "maximum security" inmates who started the riot and took over all the prison except the walls.

(An Associated Press dispatch said the eight other hostages remained in the hands of the inmates.)

WALLA WALLA, Wash., July 6 (AP)—Nine Washington State prison officers, seized at knifepoint yesterday in a sudden revolt against discipline, were held captive today as officials and inmates argued over terms for their release.

A check by penitentiary authorities disclosed that 11 men were seized yesterday morning when 33 of the toughest convicts rioted in an attempt to force changes in parole and classification procedures and other practices.

The two employees overlooked in the first count were identified only as a guard and a supervising cook who felt victim to the rioters when they seized the prison kitchen. Of the 11, two were released shortly after the revolt started, but one was beaten severely.

Prisoners in Control.
With the prisoners practically in control of the big institution near Walla Walla, a series of conferences between state and prison officials and leaders of the revolt ended shortly before last midnight without any agreement to free the hostages. The talks were resumed today.

(The United Press said ringleaders said they would release the seven hostages this afternoon if prison officials showed "sincerity" in dealing with their demands.)

(The convicts were believed to have enough food to last them a week. They have access to shops, control room, kitchen and dining room and can freely roam through half the prison.)

Uneasy Calm.
An uneasy calm settled over the penitentiary.

Prison guards reinforced by state patrol and county and city officers armed with rifles and sub-machine guns patrolled the walls and the area surrounding the prison. A National Guard unit was on duty.

FEE FOR TOWING ILLEGAL PARKERS
DROPS TO $4.45

St. Louis parking law violators got an unexpected break yesterday when the Board of Police Commissioners opened towing bids for the year starting next Sunday.

The low offer for automobiles was $4.45. That is $1.30 less than the $5.75 which Cy's Service, Inc., has charged under the contract which expires this week.

Nelson Towing Service, 3730 Olive street, submitted the low bid. The charge is $2.23 below the $6.68 Nelson got under the first towing contract—let without competitive bidding—two years ago.

Under the proposed rates, illegal parkers can get three tows for what two cost in 1953, with a penny left over. Fines, however, make the practice somewhat more expensive.

UPSETS TRUCK, 513
CRATES OF EGGS
WHEN BRAKES FAIL

BECKET, Mass., July 6 (AP)—Although driver Wallace Danson of Grand Rapids, Mich., knew his tractor-trailer was loaded with 513 crates of eggs he deliberately caused his truck to turn over on its side.

Police credited Danson's move with saving life and limb—even if it did smash the eggs.

Danson brought the truck over on its side when he discovered his brakes were out of order on a downgrade. The truck skidded 150 feet but Danson was unhurt.

FOUR BOYS CROSS MILE-WIDE RIVER IN TWO INNER TUBS

DETROIT, July 6 (AP)—Four boys from Riverview, Ontario, crossed the mile-wide Detroit river yesterday in two inner tubs.

"We just came over for a bottle of pop," one of the boys told harbor police who nabbed them as they waded ashore.

The four, Robert Pattison, 13 years old; Richard Fritch, 14; Robert Greenwood, 15, and John Rickett, 14, were returned home in a border patrol car.

Pravda Praises San Francisco,

But Not New York or Knowland

MOSCOW, July 6 (AP)—The Communist party newspaper Pravda said today San Francisco—Pravda called it Frisco—is a wonderful town.

"Especially," said Pravda's correspondent D. Kraminov who covered the United Nations tenth anniversary ceremonies there, "San Francisco seems wonderful after gray, monotonous New York with its dirty streets and humid oppressive heat reminding one of a Turkish bath."

"But San Francisco appeared to be unusually beautiful and clean and so refreshing. During nearly all the 10 days we lived there in the mornings the skies were heavily clouded and from the ocean came a cold wind. But by noon the clouds faded and the wind died down and it became warm as Indian summer back home in Russia."

Kraminov, who often severely criticizes the American people, also fell in love with San Francisco. But not with Senator William F. Knowland (Rep., California). Kraminov bracketed Knowland with Senator Joseph R. McCarthy (Rep., Wisconsin).

"We were struck in San Francisco," Kraminov wrote, "not only by the outer beauty of the city and its climate. We liked most of all San Francisco's people—its air of hospitality, the people's sincere peacefulness, the people's friendly attitude and friendship to the faroff lands of the Soviets which they—regardless of what the bourgeois papers write—link with the fight for strengthening peace and international co-operation."

"During our stay in San Francisco we visited many places, met and spoke to many people. And we are convinced that the inhabitants of this beautiful city sincerely want peace and co-operation between the two great peoples—the Soviet and the American."

"Speaking with a San Francisco politician it was noted the people are dead tired of the 'cold war' and the talk about a hot war, tired of taxes for war expenditures and war hysteria. They want peace and again and again peace... they are sick of McCarthy and his hysterical dramatizations... Knowland is also now trying to mend his position and is actively maneuvering, but the people well know his efforts in the end will not help him."

MO. PAC. PLAN
OF ITS INVESTORS

ICC Says 12 of 16
Classes of Creditors
Approved Reorganization by Big Margin.

A large majority of Missouri Pacific Railroad bond and stockholders has approved the reorganization plan intended to end the railroad's 21 years of bankruptcy proceedings, the Interstate Commerce Commission announced yesterday in Washington.

The I.C.C. said the vote showed that 12 of the 16 classes of creditors and security holders approved the plan by percentages ranging from 92.23 to 100.

Two other classes favored the plan by majorities less than two-thirds, and two minor categories did not vote at all, the agency reported.

Up to Judge Moore.
Acceptance by two-thirds of the voters in each class would have made it mandatory for United States District Judge George H. Moore of St. Louis to put the plan into effect. However, he has the authority to approve the plan without such a blanket two-thirds vote.

Judge Moore, who earlier this year found the plan "fair and equitable," has scheduled a confirmation hearing for July 21. All objections are to be filed in writing by July 18.

Guy A. Thompson, trustee for the railroad, said the reorganization under the plan may be carried out this year, unless there is delay because of action by dissenting groups.

Two groups of bondholders have filed an appeal in the court.

REPORTS OF PLAN
BY KOENIG TO TAP
WORTMAN WIRES
UNDER INQUIRY

Telephone Battery, Wire
Coils Found in Raid
May 12 on Apartment Occupied by Havey and Mueller.

Reports that J. Fred Koenig and two of his close associates were planning to tap wires of Frank (Buster) Wortman's rival racing information service were being checked by East Side authorities today in their investigation of Koenig's murder.

Equipment which could be used for wire-tapping—a telephone battery, one large coil of telephone wire and a small coil of wire—was found in the apartment occupied by Birney T. (Chick) Havey Jr. and Kenneth Mueller at 601A North Fortieth street in a raid by East St. Louis police May 12. Also found was a baseball betting sheet and a racing form.

In a raid an hour earlier at Koenig's downtown apartment, police found a telephone wire and two telephones through which calls could be made to St. Louis handbook operators without tolls. Havey and Mueller were fired at on an East St. Louis street five days later and Mueller was wounded.

Havey's Explanation.
Capt. Virgil Ballez, who led the raid, told the Post-Dispatch today that Havey said the wire and battery were in his apartment because he liked to "tinker with electricity." Havey added he had received electronics training when in military service.

Exploring the "tinkering" theory, Capt. Ballez said he received reports that the battery and wire may have been obtained for the purpose of tapping Wortman's racing results service, permitting Koenig and his two associates to supply a rival service.

Another possibility, Capt. Ballez added, was that extensions were to be run from Koenig's telephones to the apartment of Havey and Mueller without consulting the telephone company.

Authorities are seeking a man described as "Gordon Richards," who is reported to have brought word to Koenig last April 1 that the racing information service he had built up with Wortman's sanction was to be taken away.

A promise that Koenig would receive some compensation was not kept, the Post-Dispatch was told.

Koenig is reported to have announced plans to "get even" when he went to the Red Rooster roadhouse, near East St. Louis, the night of June 20. His body, shot in the chest and head, was found in the trunk of his Cadillac parked on an East St. Louis street two days later.

Story of Former 'Runner.'
The name of Richards was brought into the investigation yesterday by Ernest (Red) Noe, who worked part-time as a "runner" for Koenig in the distribution of betting cards. Noe told police Koenig's wife informed him Richards appeared at the Koenig apartment at 10 a.m. April 1 and announced that "they are taking over the racing information service."

Noe also assured Koenig he would take care of him with a job. Noe reported, Noe was questioned six hours, and released.

When the job, from which Koenig was to receive $150 to $200 a week, failed to materialize, Koenig is reported to have set up his rival service. Police were told he received warnings he would be harmed unless the service was discontinued immediately.

The evening following Koenig's disappearance Noe accompanied Mrs. Koenig to the Red Rooster, where she asked Gordon Foster, the manager, about her husband. Foster, a relative of Wortman, denied knowing anything about Koenig's whereabouts.

Mrs. Koenig Questioned.
Mrs. Koenig, questioned by police and St. Clair county authorities, furnished only meager information. She has insisted she last saw her husband alive when he left her at the bar to

MARRIAGE EXPERT
TIRED OF HIS TALK

LOS ANGELES, July 6 (AP)—A marriage counselor's wife obtained a divorce yesterday and the judge commented that her husband's credo seemed to be: "Don't do as I do; do as I say."

Mrs. Arthur Globe, 39 years old, testified her husband "would barrage me with words until 4 or 5 o'clock in the morning."

The judge asked if Globe, 37, ever struck her.

"Yes, but I'd rather not talk about that," she said.

The judge asked Mrs. Globe's daughter by a previous marriage, Esther Rosenshine, 19, if she ever asked her stepfather for matrimonial advice. She said no.

"Take my advice," said the judge, "and don't."

President Rejects Idea
Advanced by Senator Flanders That He 'Cannot Refuse to Run'—Other Topics.

WASHINGTON, July 6 (UPI)—President Eisenhower today rejected the idea that he would be forced into running for a second term in 1956. He said this is a decision he will have to make himself.

The President smiled when he was told at his press conference that Senator Ralph Flanders (Rep., Vermont), said in a July 4 speech that Mr. Eisenhower "cannot refuse to run" for a second term.

Asked whether he could refuse, the President said that for himself, he did not believe he had ever said what anyone else had to do.

Then, a bit more seriously, the President said that whether he runs again is a decision he will have to reach for himself. And as an afterthought, he added—sometime.

Flanders's Statement.
Flanders made his statement Monday night in Bemont, Ill. He said Mr. Eisenhower would have to run again because "he has established leadership in the nation and leadership in the world."

"The President is the kind of man who will not give up a responsibility," Flanders said. "He cannot refuse to run."

Eisenhower was told today that some of his friends do not share his desire for a moratorium on discussion of his 1956 plans.

Told that Flanders said he could not refuse in 1956, the President was asked the simple question, "Can you?"

This came at the start of the conference, attended by 180 reporters, most of whom started perspiring in the extreme heat and humidity a few minutes after the doors to Mr. Eisenhower's non-air conditioned conference room were closed.

After the one question and answer about 1956, questioning veered from politics and concentrated for the most part on pending legislation and the coming Big Four meeting.

The room got hotter and hotter. Mr. Eisenhower's face took on a steamy appearance, although he did not drip perspiration as many of the reporters did. Some of the reporters had difficulty making notes because of their sweat-soaked notebooks.

Other Conference Topics.
Among other matters the President touched on were these:
Congress—The President said with a laugh he does not think it necessary for Congress to extend its session—now slated to wind up at the end of this month—in order to complete action on his legislative program. When it wants to, he said, Congress can do a lot in a short time.

Minimum Wage.—He said an increase in the nation-wide minimum wage from 75 to 90 cents an hour still is well up on his list of wanted legislation. He added that he is convinced a dollar-an-hour minimum, which has been passed by the Senate, is more than is needed at this time. He declined to say whether he would veto a bill calling for the larger amount.

Desegregation.—The President said he does not think anti-segregation restrictions should be written into his proposed school construction program—that he wants the schools built and that segregation is a separate problem.

ELEPHANT ON WAY TO CARDS' OWNER,
BUT IT CAN'T PITCH

A baby elephant, still bottled, is expected to arrive here by air from California tomorrow to join the animal collection at Grant's Farm, home of August A. Busch Jr., on Gravois road.

The little elephant, not quite a year old, has been resting on an animal farm near Los Angeles since yesterday following a flight from Thailand, where it was born.

A spokesman for Busch, president of Anheuser-Busch, Inc., and the St. Louis Cardinals, said the elephant was being imported as a companion for Tessie II, three-year-old elephant now at the farm. The new animal, which stands 34 inches tall, has tentatively been named Peggy.

Cardinal fans can gain no hope from the arrival, however. Peggy can't pitch.

Matinee Movie Goers

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER leaving special matinee showing of "Cinerama" with LOWELL THOMAS, the movie's producer-narrator.

PRESIDENT SEES
IN CHOIR SEQUENCE

WASHINGTON, July 6 (UPI)—President Eisenhower took time off from his official chores yesterday to view a private showing of "This Is Cinerama."

Commentator Lowell Thomas, narrator and one of the developers of Cinerama, said Mr. Eisenhower was impressed by the realism of the low-level aerial shots.

"He said he had never taken an airplane flight of that kind before and knew he was going to come out all right," Thomas said.

Part of the sound track of the film is the singing of the choir of the Mormon Temple at Salt Lake City. Thomas said Mr. Eisenhower joined the choir in singing the words to "America the Beautiful" and "The Battle Hymn of the Republic."

Thomas told the President he was now working on a Cinerama film, "The Seven Wonders of the World."

GIRL IN WET BATHING SUIT
KILLED OPENING FREEZER

DETROIT, July 6 (AP)—A 9-year-old girl, wearing a wet bathing suit, was electrocuted yesterday as she opened a self-serve freezer in a dairy store.

Sharon Kirm and a playmate had been called from a backyard swimming pool to run an errand for Sharon's mother, Mrs. Gertrude Kirby, a clerk, said she saw the girl approach the freezer.

"The next thing I knew, she just fell over backward," Mrs. Kirby said.

Police said the freezer had a short-circuit.

AIDS CHECKING FEASIBILITY OF MUNICIPAL PLAN FOR POWER PLANT

President Expects Study to Be Complete in Two Weeks When He Will Make Final Decision.

By JAMES DEAKIN
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 6—President Eisenhower said today he would cancel the Dixon-Yates contract if the city of Memphis, Tenn., demonstrates it can go ahead with construction of its own steam generating plant.

The President told his news conference investigations now being conducted by the Attorney General and the Budget Bureau would determine whether Memphis was legally able to build a municipal power plant.

Mr. Eisenhower said the inquiries would take about two weeks to complete. He indicated a final decision on whether to cancel or continue the contract would be postponed until then.

Defends Banker.
The President said he regarded as entirely proper the role played by Adolph Wenzell, an investment banker, in the negotiations which led up to approval of the Dixon-Yates contract.

Asked if he thought Wenzell's role was proper, the President replied with an emphatic yes.

Senator Estes Kefauver (Dem., Tennessee), chairman of a Senate anti-monopoly subcommittee investigating the contract, has charged that Wenzell was a financial adviser to the Dixon-Yates power combine at the same time he was serving as a Budget Bureau consultant on the contract, under which the private power group planned to build a $107,000,000 steam generating plant to replace TVA power in the Tennessee Valley.

Mr. Eisenhower said he was delighted that Memphis had announced plans to build its own plant. He described this as right in line with his philosophy that local communities have responsibility for production of power where other factors, such as navigation and flood control, were not involved.

No Longer Practical.
The President noted that directors of the Tennessee Valley Authority had informed him the proposed Dixon-Yates plant at West Memphis, Ark., would no longer be practical if Memphis builds its own plant. TVA power now used by Memphis is needed for nearby atomic energy installations.

However, Mr. Eisenhower said, if there was no study made of Memphis's plans, it might be discovered later that there were legal barriers preventing the city from building its own plant.

If the investigations bear out there is no need for the Dixon-Yates plant, he would think the contract would be canceled, Mr. Eisenhower added.

A few minutes before the press conference started, the President said, he received an interim report from Budget Director Rowland H. Hughes, who has made a study of the contract at Mr. Eisenhower's direction.

The President did not divulge contents of the report but said at this point that the investigations by the Attorney General and the Budget Bureau were still in progress.

Mr. Eisenhower was asked about Hughes's refusal to let five employees of the Budget Bureau testify before the Kefauver subcommittee, which is investigating the contract.

Tells of Wenzell Report.
First off, the President replied, he thought Wenzell was entitled to tell the subcommittee exactly what he did for the Budget Bureau. Mr. Eisenhower recalled that Wenzell prepared a report comparing power benefits achieved by TVA with those of private power utilities.

The President said he had no doubt whatever that Wenzell would show this report to the Senate investigators if they want to see it, although he did not believe it had any bearing on the Dixon-Yates deal.

The report is one of the documents being sought by the subcommittee. Hughes told the subcommittee last week it would be available, but when subcommittee staff members went to the Budget Bureau they were denied permission to see any documents not already published.

The President went on to say that any time anyone in an official position in the Government

WEST PREPARING GENEVA 'PACKAGE' INCLUDING CUTS IN ARMAMENTS

German Reunification, European Security System in It—Experts to Start Final Touches Friday.

By ARTHUR GAVSHON
LONDON, July 6 (AP)—Western proposals for possible consideration at the Geneva Big Four conference were being worked out in several European centers today. They included plans for arms cuts, German reunification and a European security system.

British, French and American experts are scheduled to meet in Paris Friday to begin putting final touches on the proposals, in preparation for their review at a pre-conference parley of the Western foreign ministers July 15.

If approved by the Big Three governments, the ideas will be presented as a basis for discussions at the Geneva talks, scheduled to begin July 18.

Diplomatic informants in London said last night that the Allies were near agreement on a limited disarmament plan. This was described as the first installment of a possible package deal with the Soviets which the West hopes eventually will include a German settlement and a continental security agreement.

Census of Arms, Armies.
The plan calls for a census of arms and armies maintained in Europe by both East and West, and an agreement to cut down these forces in phases. It also provides for establishment of zones in which there would be either no troops at all or only troops of the nation ruling the territory.

The informants said that even in the absence of an agreement on German reunification, the West believes it possible to arrange some kind of an arms standstill and even a cutback later in both West and East Europe.

On the German problem, a committee of Allied officials said a senior German official said "no changes of substance" were made in the plan put forward by British Prime Minister Eden at last year's Big Four Foreign Ministers' conference in Berlin. This provided that German reunification and a freely negotiated peace treaty with a united Germany should be handled in these stages:

Free nation-wide elections of a national assembly to draft a constitution and prepare for peace treaty negotiations; adoption of the constitution and formation of an all-German government; conclusion of a league treaty.

Two Strasbourg Meetings.
In Strasbourg, France, members of the European Consultative Assembly today took up a program suggested as a guide for the Western powers at Geneva.

In addition to calling for disarmament and German unification, the suggestions called for enrollment of all European nations, including the Soviet Union and its satellites, as members of the Council of Europe.

Supporters of the plan contended the latter point would eliminate a source of East-West friction.

Exiles from nine eastern European countries, meeting in Strasbourg also, have drawn up a three-point petition to the Western leaders going to Geneva. Their "Assembly of Captive European Nations" demanded yesterday that liberation of their homelands be a condition for any general European settlement. The refugees were from Albania, Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, Estonia, Hungary, Latvia, Lithuania, Poland and Romania. Soviet press organs already have said the Russians would refuse any suggestion to discuss the East European states at Geneva.

FIRST W. GERMAN OFFICERS TO JOIN SHAPE AND NATO

BONN, July 5 (AP)—Lord Ismay, secretary general of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, announced yesterday that the first West German officers will join Supreme Allied Headquarters in Europe (SHAPE) within two to three weeks.

In addition, Germans will take over six or seven posts on Lord Ismay's staff at NATO headquarters in Paris.

United States Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther is the SHAPE commander.

Lord Ismay, a Briton, spoke before German and foreign correspondents after two days of conferences with Chancellor Adenauer and his defense advisers on West Germany's plans to rearm in the Atlantic alliance.

Former Gen. Hans Speidel, who was chief of staff to Field Marshal Erwin Rommel in the Normandy invasion, will head the mission to SHAPE.

"I regard the accession of Germany to NATO as a very definite milestone on the road to peace," Lord Ismay said.

ANTI-PERONISTAS SEEK 'DEEDS, NOT WORDS' ON TRUCE

Radical Party Says It Stands on Declaration of 'No Pacification Without Liberty.'

BUENOS AIRES, July 6 (AP)—The opposition Radical party asked for "deeds, not words" last night in reply to President Peron's broadcast call for a political truce.

The national committee of the biggest opposition party said it stood on its June 29 declaration—issued after the quelling of the revolt by naval and marine units—that "there can be no pacification without liberty."

The committee added that Peron could demonstrate his sincerity by letting it reply over the state radio network to the speech he made yesterday over the same hookup.

Peron in his broadcast absolved the major opposition political parties of any participation in the revolt. He invited "responsible men" among the anti-Peronista factions to come to terms with him.

Talks on Settlement.
Government leaders in both houses of the Argentine Congress reported that talks had been started in an effort to settle outstanding issues between Peron and the Radicals. One congressional informant even said leading Radicals might be taken into the new government.

Peron's broadcast was designed to silence rumors that his hold on the Argentine government was seriously weakened by the June 16 revolt.

No Reference to Church.
The President made no reference to his quarrel with the Roman Catholic church which caused dissension in Argentina for almost eight months before the revolt.

The tone of Peron's speech was almost entirely conciliatory, but he demonstrated his accustomed attitude of firm control of the situation.

HOLIDAY DEATHS NOW 805—RECORD FOR THE FOURTH

CHICAGO, July 6 (AP)—Late reports show 407 died in traffic accidents in the Fourth of July weekend. The National Safety Council's pre-holiday estimate was 380. The previous record for a three-day July 4 holiday was 366, in 1952.

In the 78-hour period from 6 p.m. local time Friday to midnight Monday, 251 persons drowned and 144 died in miscellaneous mishaps, for an overall total of 805.

The over-all total was a record for a Fourth of July holiday.

BOMB IS EXPLODED DURING AMERICAN SHOW IN ISRAEL

TEL AVIV, July 6 (AP)—A bomb exploded last night in the garden of the Zionist Organization of America grounds during a Yiddish performance of "The Witch" starring the American Dina Halperin.

Two persons were injured slightly. The bomb apparently was placed on the nine-foot garden wall as the performance began. It hurled an iron bar into the fourteenth row of the audience.

Police said they believe the bomb was planted by anti-Yiddish fanatics.

SEGGI FORMS PRO-WESTERN ITALIAN CABINET

Two-Week Crisis Ends—Parliament Must Approve Three-Party Coalition Group.

ROME, July 6 (AP)—Christian Democrat Antonio Segni formed a pro-Western coalition cabinet today, ending Italy's two-week-old political crisis.

A lawyer, teacher and land reform expert, Segni called on President Giovanni Gronchi early this afternoon to present the names of his cabinet ministers. They will take office tonight.

The new three-party government must still win approval of both houses of the Italian Parliament.

Segni said he will take his new government before the Chamber of Deputies and the Senate for the necessary votes of confidence on July 13.

The new cabinet will hold its first meeting tomorrow. One of the new premier-designate's first official acts will be to greet India's Prime Minister Nehru, when he arrives here tomorrow.

Italy's new government, insofar as political parties are concerned, is little different from that of outgoing Premier Mario Scelba which resigned on June 22 under pressure from a section of his own Christian Democrat party.

Scelba's defunct government and Segni's have the same party representation—14 Christian Democrats, four Social Democrats and three Liberals.

Gaetano Martino, a Liberal, remains as foreign minister and Paolo Emilio Taviani, a Christian Democrat, as defense minister. Altogether eight members of the Scelba cabinet are kept in office.

The scholarly, 64-year-old Segni said his cabinet would have the support of the Republicans, although not represented in the cabinet.

With Republican aid and the full support of the three parties participating in the government, Segni has the backing of just over 300 of the 590 deputies in the Chamber of Deputies. All four parties are pro-Western in foreign policy.

VIEWS CONFLICT ON REDS' DESIRE TO END COLD WAR

Most U.S. Officials Think Russia Is Ready to Make Real Concessions at Geneva.

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP)—A difference of opinion has developed among United States officials as to whether Moscow's current peace talk shows that Russia genuinely wants to end the cold war.

A majority of policy makers seems to believe such recent Russian gestures as the unprecedented apology for shooting down an American plane mean Moscow at least plans to offer concessions aimed at easing East-West tension.

The Geneva summit conference opening July 18, in the view of these officials, promises to lead to a series of negotiations which could slow down the arms race and make a start toward solving critical European and Far Eastern problems.

An evidently smaller group of officials, however, describes this view as dangerously optimistic. They argue that no end to the cold war is in sight and that any concessions Russia may make will be superficial.

Russia's soft talk is explained by them as another and more skillful Soviet maneuver to block German rearmament.

Both sides appear to agree on one major point: apparent agricultural difficulties and the arms burden are straining Russia's economy, and the Kremlin leaders would like a breathing spell to concentrate on mechanizing farms and building up Russia's industrial base.

These two groups disagree, however, on how much Russia is prepared to give up in order to gain such a breathing spell.

The most optimistic officials say Russia could be pressed to pay a sizable price—an arms reduction plan including adequate inspection, German unification on terms suitable to the West and a slight easing of Russia's grip on its eastern European satellites.

In opposing this view, many intelligence officials contend there is no evidence Russia's economy is hurting badly enough to require it to make such sweeping concessions.

On the contrary, these officials say that despite considerable difficulties Russia is making substantial progress in stepping up farm output and in turning

Council of Europe Is Urged To Admit Russian Satellites

French and British Foreign Ministers Back Plan—Pinay Promises There Will Be No Sell-Out at Geneva.

STRASBOURG, France, July 6 (AP)—French Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay and British Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan joined today in urging expansion of the Council of Europe to include states beyond the Iron Curtain.

Both ministers, who spoke to the European Consultative Assembly, will be key figures in the Big Four conference at Geneva.

Macmillan led with the suggestion that the Council's statute be revised to open its doors to all European states. Pinay followed with a statement that such a development could be received by western Europe without fear.

"Our accords on a regional basis can open the way to accords on an interregional basis," Pinay said.

'Won't Sell Out on Unity.'
Pinay reassured assemblymen that the Big Four will not sell out on European unity in the Geneva summit conference.

"We are not going to Geneva, in effect, as salesmen," Pinay said. "There will not be at Geneva either a sellout of Europe or a sellout behind Europe's back."

Pinay declared that European cohesion, bulwarked by the Atlantic alliance, is a "necessity because we must not allow a zone of uncertainty to exist anywhere in the world."

"We will not permit this cohesion to be put at stake," he said, adding: "We must not give in to the illusions of facility nor to the seductions of a false independence."

The British Foreign Secretary appeared to suggest that the Council's statutes be amended to admit nations which do not have a parliamentary democracy in the Western sense of the term. This is a requisite for membership at this time.

'Are Rules Too Strict?'
"Are our regulations governing the type of new member who may be selected too onerous?" he asked assemblymen. "I think this is a matter that does require your study and on which ing out new jet planes and modern land weapons.

The surprise remarks of Communist Party Secretary Nikita S. Khrushchev at the American Embassy's Fourth of July party in Moscow appears to have aroused conflicting interpretations from these two schools of thought.

Khrushchev's statement that Russia would attend the Geneva meeting from a position of

I hope the rainmakers would wish to have your views.

"For if this re-creation of Europe is to be one of the main hopes of the Council for the future, it must not stultify itself by a too pedantic point of view."

The assembly already had before it a report on the East-West issues, prepared by France's Francois de Menthon and unanimously approved by its general affairs committee.

Among its recommendations, the report urged the admission of all European states—including the Soviet satellites—to the Council of Europe.

The committee also urged the Western powers to emphasize security and disarmament when they begin talking with the Russians in Geneva on July 18.

It said security was more important than German reunification or European unity since "the benefits of peace can be obtained only when peace really exists."

Opposes Neutrality.
Opposing any move to neutralize western Europe, the report said United States and British troops cannot be withdrawn from the Continent unless Soviet forces and control are pulled back into Russia's own frontiers.

Referring to the Geneva meeting, Macmillan urged the West to maintain "a certain flexibility of maneuver" and not to fear "novel ideas."

He pledged that the Western Big Three will consult their partners before taking any decision in the negotiations with the Kremlin.

The Western powers are going into the Geneva negotiations with "a position of equality, or something like equality," thanks to the buildup of defensive strength among the Atlantic Allies, the Foreign Secretary said.

"All this time we have been opposed by a monolithic immobility in the East. Now we are moving into something more; at least, we hope so," he added.

Macmillan said the Council of Europe's main functions should be to open debate on the great European issues and to represent the principle of universality.

strength was seen by the first group as indicating that Russia's agriculture and industry are really suffering or Khrushchev would not have made it a point to deny that they are.

The explanation of the other side is that Khrushchev was being basically factual in telling the West that Russia is not nearly as weak as some recent speeches by Westerners would have the world believe.

CHINA REDS SAY INDUSTRY SOON WILL BE DOUBLED

People's Congress Given Figures on First Five-Year Plan, Now Half-Way Completed.

TOKYO, July 6 (AP)—Communist China's second annual national People's Congress was told yesterday that China's industrial output will increase 98.3 per cent as a result of its first five-year plan, now about 2½ years old.

A Peiping radio broadcast heard here said the report on the plan was made by Li Fu-chun, vice premier and chairman of the state planning commission of the state council.

"This rate of industrial development," Li said, "is undoubtedly relatively rapid and neither exists nor is possible in capitalist countries."

He said steel output in 1957 would be 4,120,000 tons compared with 1,350,000 tons in 1952. He forecast these other production increases for 1957 as compared with 1952: Electricity, 15,920,000 kilowatt hours as against 7,260,000; coal, 113,000,000 tons as against 63,530,000; generators, 227,000 kilowatts as against 30,000; electric motors, 1,050,000 kilowatts as against 640,000; cement, 6,000,000 tons as against 2,860,000; cotton piece goods, 163,720,000 bolts as against 111,630,000; machine processed sugar, 686,000 tons as against 249,000.

It was one of the rare instances where the Communists listed actual production figures instead of percentages only.

"The wholehearted, disinterested and fraternal assistance from the Soviet Union was an important factor for China to embark on planned economic construction rapidly," the broadcast quoted Li as saying.

"The assistance given China by the government and the people of the Soviet Union in designing new enterprises and supplying whole ranges of other items of aid represented a concrete expression of the noblest and loftiest spirit of internationalism."

By the United Press
Soviet Russia will provide atomic know-how to Communist China, the Peiping radio reported today.

A Chinese Red broadcast heard in Tokyo said this was announced to the People's Congress in a report by Li Fu-chun, chairman of the state planning commission.

NEW DIXON-YATES ROW OVER USE OF FBI TO CHECK ON MEMPHIS PLANS

Kefauver Calls Inquiry by Agents 'Shocking' — Both Sides Claim Victory in OK of Power Line Funds.

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP)—The Dixon-Yates contract swirled into new controversy today over the Eisenhower Administration's use of Federal Bureau of Investigation agents to check on plans by the city of Memphis to build its own power plant.

Senator Estes Kefauver (Dem., Tennessee), called it a "shocking misuse of the FBI," and asked in a statement:

"Is there no limit to which this politically-minded Administration will go in order to carry water for the private power interests?"

The Justice Department said the FBI men were simply assigned to get facts helpful to a determination of whether the Dixon-Yates contract should be canceled, and were not making an investigation.

Kefauver, saying he would "demand" a full accounting, declared the FBI was intended to enforce laws and "not to investigate the good faith of city administrations."

Brownell May Be Called. The Senator said he would consult his colleagues on the Senate anti-monopoly subcommittee "about the advisability of calling Attorney General Brownell to explain."

Justice Department officials said in response to an inquiry today that the use of FBI agents was "the easiest information which the Administration needs in considering the whole picture."

These officials re-emphasized that "nobody is being investigated." They said the agents were obtaining facts on Memphis's power plant, such as the size of the planned installation, the kilowatt capacity, and details of the proposed bond issue.

This information is being transmitted to the Budget Bureau in connection with the Eisenhower Administration's "second look" at the Dixon-Yates project.

Both Sides Claim Victory. Meanwhile both sides in the Dixon-Yates controversy claimed victory in the Senate's approval — with strings attached — of $6,500,000 for a power line to link the proposed private plant with the Tennessee Valley Authority system.

The Senate passed yesterday the appropriation bill containing funds for this line, but with language stating it cannot be used if the city of Memphis makes a "definite commitment" in 90 days to build its own power plant, as it has said it will do.

Senator Gore (Dem., Tennessee), a Dixon-Yates opponent, called this a full victory satisfying to him although he conceded some on his side wanted "unconditional surrender."

Senator Knowland of California, the Republican leader, insisted that Memphis's decision to fill its own needs was a triumph for President Eisenhower's "partnership policy" on electric power.

Discussed at White House. Knowland said after this morning's weekly White House conference of Republican congressional leaders that there had been a discussion of the Dixon-Yates contract at the meeting. He added that the situation seems to be developing along the lines of President Eisenhower's original recommendation that the city of Memphis build itself a steam plant.

If there is a firm commitment that the city will do so, Knowland said, then "obviously" it will not be necessary to go ahead with the Dixon-Yates project.

Gore said there was no question but that Memphis's plan to build its own plant rather than take Dixon-Yates power had sounded the death knell for the controversial project which President Eisenhower ordered.

Citing Memphis's notice to the Tennessee Valley Authority that

It will not renew its contract for TVA power beyond June 1958, Mr. Eisenhower last Thursday ordered a new study to determine whether the contract should be canceled. The Dixon-Yates plant had been designed largely to fill Memphis's needs through TVA lines.

In addition to the $6,500,000 transmission line item, the $1,377,571,000 money bill passed by the Senate contained $27,053,000 for the TVA, $575,000,000 for the Atomic Energy Commission, $203,755,000 for reclamation projects, and $571,763,000 for rivers and harbors and flood control projects. Most of these items were not controversial.

The bill now goes to conference with the House.

TVA supporters did not seek yesterday to knock out entirely the funds for a transmission line to link Dixon-Yates to the TVA system. They said they lacked the votes and that it was unnecessary anyway in view of what they claimed was an all-but-certain Administration decision to cancel the contract.

However, Democrats sought to make some political capital. Senator Kefauver said Mr. Eisenhower moved to drop the contract because he "has finally discovered that he had on his hands an incipient Teapot Dome."

He said the President had personally ordered negotiation of "this iniquitous contract" and showed "incredibly bad judgment" in doing so.

Kefauver scheduled a new hearing today by a judiciary committee he heads to inquire further into the Dixon-Yates contract. Called as witnesses were officials of the First Boston Corp.

Kefauver and other Senators have said Adolph Wenzell, a former vice president of First Boston, served as a consultant to the Budget Bureau on the Dixon-Yates contract and that his company became financial agent for the private power group.

Administration officials have contended Wenzell did not influence the contract negotiations.

Tresekow Syndicate Hopes to Build Memphis Plant. The syndicate that lost to the Dixon-Yates group in bidding on a new TVA power supply plant last year disclosed last night it hopes to build the power plant the city of Memphis plans to construct.

Walter von Tresekow, a New York financier and economic consultant, said the syndicate heads is entering final negotiations for construction of Memphis's 600,000 kilowatt power station.

Yon Tresekow said his group had been negotiating with Memphis officials for more than a year and that he and those associated with him would go to Memphis next week for an important conference.

He said his group consisted of the same persons who joined him in seeking the contract that finally was let to Dixon-Yates.

APART 14 YEARS, YUGOSLAV FAMILY REUNITED HERE

The reunion of Dragoljub Lazarevitch, a former Yugoslav army major who came to this country in 1949 as a liberated prisoner and displaced person, with his wife and two children was being celebrated here today after 14 years of separation caused by the war.

Lazarevitch, an engineering draftsman, lives at 2163A Russell boulevard with his brother, Branimir, who had a similar war experience and succeeded in getting his wife and 13-year-old daughter here from Belgrade two years ago.

Dragoljub's wife and children, a daughter, Gordana, 19, and a son, Vlađeta, 17, arrived here Monday. He became a United States citizen last March, and that helped solve the immigration problem.

Dragoljub was in the artillery, and was captured by Italians, and Branimir, a captain first class on the general staff, became a prisoner of Germans, both in 1941. They are employed by the same firm here, and both came on vacation this week to make the most of the long-delayed reunion.

DRIVER ELUDES TWO MEN WHO FORCE WAY INTO AUTO

John H. Walker, a switchboard operator at Police Headquarters, eluded two men who forced their way into his automobile early today when he stopped at Tower Grove and Magnolia avenues, he reported to police.

Walker, who lives at 4356 Beck avenue, said a man staggered out from the sidewalk as he halted for a stop sign. Walker paused, thinking the man might need help, when an accomplice approached from the right, pointing a revolver. The two got in and ordered Walker to drive into Tower Grove Park.

In the park, Walker stopped the car and jumped out, slamming the door on the robber sitting next to him, who tried to follow. "Shoot him, John!" the man said. "I can't," the intruder with the pistol replied, and then both got out of the machine and ran, leaving Walker, 21 years old, unharmed, he related.

DETECTIVE CHIEF CHAPMAN, HURT JUNE 7, BACK ON DUTY

Chief of Detectives James E. Chapman, injured June 7 in an automobile accident, returned to his duties yesterday. He still requires morning therapy sessions for his legs and back, however.

Inspector of Police George Parker, injured in the same accident, will be forced to remain at home for some time. The accident occurred as the officers were responding to the riot alarm at City Workhouse.

RAIN COOLS CITY BUT MORE HEAT IS PREDICTED

Temperatures fell 20 degrees in St. Louis yesterday after seven-tenths of an inch of rain, which brought temporary relief from plus 90-degree weather. Meteorologist Harry F. Wahlgren predicted continued hot weather through tomorrow.

A chance of more rain today, tomorrow and Friday. The mercury dropped here from 92 at 5 p.m. to 72 at 6:30 p.m. At the weather station at Lambert-St. Louis Field temperatures topped from 90 at 5 o'clock to 69 at 5:45 p.m. Winds up to 12 miles an hour accompanied thundershowers.

About 10,000 homes in the Clayton, University City and Overland areas were without electricity for 15 minutes after the wind downed a sub-transmission line, a Union Electric spokesman said. Most of Granite City, including St. Elizabeth's Hospital, was without electricity for about 45 minutes.

Three small fires were started by lightning under a roof at 8440 St. Charles Rock road. Damage was estimated at $200. Several trees were blown down, one across an automobile which blocked the Barnes road entrance to St. Louis Country Club. At Municipal Opera, 7000 persons saw "Guys and Dolls" without an interruption after the performance was delayed for 32 minutes.

FIVE WITNESSES CALLED IN ALLEGED POLICE PAY-OFF

Five witnesses were scheduled to be called today as the Circuit Court grand jury resumed its investigation of alleged pay-offs to police officers by a brothel operator.

Assistant Circuit Attorney Joseph M. Settle said the witnesses summoned to appear before the jury today are not policemen.

The investigation was started after Miss Pauline Cloin charged that Mrs. June Lytz, murdered operator of June's Bath and Massage Parlor, 308A North Theresa avenue, had paid off policemen. Miss Cloin was an employee at the establishment.

NAVY BOSS WANTS ABLE YOUNG MEN MADE ADMIRALS

Thomas Favors Line Taken by Eisenhower in Jumping Adm. Burke to Top.

WASHINGTON, July 6 (UP)—Navy Secretary Charles S. Thomas does not want well-qualified captains to be deprived of promotion to rear admiral because they are young and lack seniority.

The Navy's civilian chief told the Admirals' Selection Board in an open letter yesterday to start putting the emphasis on youth and ability in making promotions.

He thus made it clear to old line officers that he favors the line which President Eisenhower took recently in naming Adm. Arleigh A. Burke to be Chief of Naval Operations, jumping Burke over 92 senior admirals to four-star rank.

Thomas said in his letter that seniority should be disregarded where there are captains who "stand head and shoulders above their contemporaries."

Breaks With Custom. Thomas broke with custom also in allowing his letter to be made public. Instructions to selection boards usually are confidential.

Thomas told Adm. Jerauld Wright, Atlantic commander and selection board president, that he had "no intention of interfering in any way" with the selection of officers for promotion, but he said he had given his views "a great deal of thought."

Selection boards normally consider only captains within certain "promotion zones," which are determined by serial numbers denoting seniority. A captain with a lesser number has almost no chance of promotion.

Thomas said, however, that Congress intended that rear admirals should be selected from among the "best qualified."

"If the board should limit its serious consideration to officers in the promotion zone, it would not be carrying out its intent of Congress or, in my opinion, serving the best interests of the service," Thomas said.

He added that the time-honored tradition of promoting captains who had commanded major warships should no longer be the test. He said the number of ships now in commission is "too small" for that and boards should consider the overall "experience, performance and attributes" of officers in handing out promotions.

The secretary said an admiral should be "adept in relations with officers of other services, other governmental officials, the Congress and the general public."

State Will Issue Tax Order To County Today or Tomorrow

Commission to Direct Officials to Boost Assessments 64 Pct., to Total of $769,891,000.

By BOYD F. CARROLL

Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, July 6—A formal order calling for a $301,000,000 increase in assessed valuations of real estate in St. Louis county is expected to be issued late today or tomorrow by the State Tax Commission.

The commission order will direct St. Louis county officials, who fixed the real estate valuations at $468,946,360, to increase total assessments to $769,891,000, a jump of 64 per cent.

The state tax agency previously notified the county that it would order real estate assessments to be increased to 30 per cent of market value. In an earlier study, based on statistics submitted by public utilities, the commission found that county real property was assessed at an average of only 18.12 per cent of market value.

Boost in Valuation. The commission's expected figures would increase the overall valuation of St. Louis county property from $665,100,620 to $966,046,000.

Under the order, the valuation of urban real estate would be raised from $390,635,390, the figure certified by the county, to about $625,016,000, an increase of 60 per cent. Farm land assessments would be raised from $78,310,970 to $144,875,295, a boost of 85 per cent.

The state tax commission is expected to accept with only minor modifications the county's assessment of personal property at $123,115,070. The valuation of distributive properties of public utilities assigned to the county, which is fixed by the commission, is expected to be about the same as the 1954 total of $44,576,570.

The rest of the county property valuation is represented by $28,462,820 in the merchants' and manufacturers' assessments.

This figure is fixed by the county board of equalization, and it will not be changed by the state commission.

The state commission has refused the request of county officials for a delay in the reassessment order. The St. Louis County Council, however, plans to go ahead with its parcel-by-parcel real estate revaluation program, which is expected to take 30 months to complete.

County Supervisor Luman F. Matthews has said a blanket increase in real estate assessments this year would be necessary to carry out the commission's order. St. Louis county taxing authorities are expected to lower their levies to a level which will bring in about the same amount of revenue when the commission's order becomes effective.

At Clayton today Matthews said the county should comply because litigation over non-compliance could delay collection of taxes, because the tax commission is a "higher authority" in such matters, and because refusal to comply could result in ouster proceedings by the state against the county officials concerned.

It is expected that the order will be addressed to County Clerk Leo E. Sievers, who is waiting for the county council's order to advise him as to his duties and responsibilities in that regard.

Sievers said he planned only to pass the order on to County Assessor Phil Deuser and the county board of equalization.

The clerk estimated that an across-the-board percentage increase can be put on the books this year for less than $5000. He said that if it is applied, taxpayers should be notified of their right to appeal to the equalization board.

TRANSIT WAGE DISPUTE TO GO BEFORE PANEL

Mediation Board Head Unable to Get Agreement Between Company and Union.

Daniel C. Rogers, chairman of the State Mediation Board, announced today he had been unable to settle the stubborn wage dispute between the St. Louis Public Service Co. and its 2800 AFL operating and maintenance employees.

As a result of the failure to get the parties together on wages, Rogers summoned the other four members of the Mediation Board to a meeting at Hotel Jefferson at 10 a.m. tomorrow to draw up a list of three or five names from which a chairman of a hearing panel may be selected. The hearing panel, of three members, will hear evidence presented by both sides and the n recommend terms for a new wage contract.

Rogers sought through conferences with union and company committees to effect a settlement on wages, and avoid a long and costly panel hearing. The effort failed to produce a wage offer substantially greater than the eight cents an hour increase rejected by union members June 15, it was reported.

Prior to the conferences, the AFL Local 788, designated Malcolm Barley, an attorney, as its representative on a hearing panel. The company will be represented on the panel by O. W. Rexford, operating vice president.

Negotiations have been in progress for several months.

RUSSIA REFUSES TO RENEW FISHING TREATY WITH BRITAIN

LONDON, July 6 (UP)—Russia today barred British fishermen from Soviet coastal waters. Shipowners radioed messages to their vessels warning of the danger of capture.

The Soviet government refused at the last moment to renew a 25-year-old treaty which allowed British trawlers to operate up to three miles from the Russian coast. The treaty ended at midnight.

Moscow's refusal to extend the 1930 agreement meant that the British fishermen can approach no closer than 12 miles of the coast, the territorial sea limits claimed by Russia.

EISENHOWER WILL

blum on which the Supreme Court has already ruled.

Transit strike—Mr. Eisenhower said a strike by Capital Transit Co. employees is interfering with Government operations because it is making it harder for federal employees to get to work. He urged that both sides hold continuous negotiating sessions in an effort to settle the five-day-old walkout. The transit company operates both street-car and busses in Washington.

Comment on Martial Law.

Martial Law—He said he ordered simulated martial law during the recent civil defense test, "Operation Alert," because the Federal Government would have no recourse except to take charge instantly in event of a real disaster such as the pretended one of the test—that is, if more than 50 major cities were destroyed by atomic attacks and Congress was not in session to cope with the situation.

He said the decision to issue the mock declaration was taken after an exhaustive study of the precedents to find an action that would meet the situation and at the same time do the least possible violence to the American form of government.

The President added that in any real attack the cities and individuals would have the basic responsibility for meeting an atomic attack—for evacuating cities, for instance. He made this statement when asked for comment on a recent recommendation by the Commission on Inter-governmental Relations that civil defense be made the primary responsibility of the Federal Government.

may be a discussion of the best channels the four great powers can use to progress toward a solution of the problem.

In the long run, the President said, the kind of peace we are seeking can be achieved only when nations have reached the point at which they can trust one another. We are at an interim stage in which we are trying to reduce the burdens and dangers of war and find ways to progress toward mutual trust and peace, he said.

The President was asked for a statement of this country's position with respect to whether it is moving away from a desire for total disarmament toward a freezing of the present situation. He replied that he did not want anything he said in this field to be regarded as authoritative, because the more one studied the disarmament problem the more one feels he is in a squirrel cage and is chasing himself around.

The matter gets back to an acceptable method of enforcement, the President went on. There is the question of examination by international inspectors and of what measures the people of the United States are ready to accept. There is the question of whether military tensions or political tensions should be tackled first.

Wants the Answers.

We earnestly want to find the answers, Mr. Eisenhower said, because it is perfectly stupid to put so much effort into programs that cost so much and are so useless in the event there is no war.

Asked whether he thought it possible to have a system of inspection so efficient that all violations of a possible nuclear weapons production bar would be discovered, the President said it would not be possible to find items already manufactured.

In the case of nuclear reactors being used for peaceful purposes, he went on, there would be no assurance these reactors might not be turned to military purposes, and there would be no way of determining whether they might not be producing perhaps a little extra fuel for atomic explosives.

But there are other methods of control, the President said. One is the matter of delivery of explosives to the target. Large air fields and large planes are needed for long-range bombing and those could be detected.

To an observation that nuclear weapons are becoming smaller in size, the President said there was added danger in that but pointed out if a country was found making prohibited bombs that would amount to a declaration of war and both sides would be aware of the consequences.

As to whether the danger is not greater from guided missiles launched from inconspicuous sites than from bombs dropped from intercontinental planes, the President said such missiles could scarcely be made in a small factory and if they were the character of the plant could be identified readily. He said he did not think a decent guided missile program could be concealed.

submits a formal report, the report is a proper subject for investigation.

But beyond that, he said, he did not believe personal opinions, personal exchanges and informal opinions expressed in the give-and-take of office discussion were subject to the scrutiny of others. If we did that, he said, we would wreck the Government.

Must Protect Views.

If a commander is going to get responsible opinions and co-operation from his subordinates, Mr. Eisenhower declared, he must protect their views. He drew an analogy with the privileged relationship of a lawyer to his client.

Mr. Eisenhower thus repeated his refusal to let the staff of the anti-monopoly subcommittee see unpublished documents relating to the part played by Wenzell, his assistant, Paul Miller, and Wenzell's former employer, the First Boston Corp., in the Dixon-Yates negotiations.

The President has stated previously that all pertinent documents in the Dixon-Yates negotiations were made public in chronologies issued by the Budget Bureau and AEC. The contract was negotiated at Mr. Eisenhower's personal direction.

He ordered Hughes to restudy it last week, after the TVA directors said Memphis's decision to build its own plant would make it "impracticable" to utilize Dixon-Yates power elsewhere in the TVA system.

Firm Declined Fee.

First Boston Corp. arranged for private financing for the Dixon-Yates combine and was to have been paid a $150,000 fee for this and one other transaction. However, the investment firm later declined the fee.

Kefauver has charged that Wenzell's role was "a shocking piece of duplicity." The Tennessee Democrat said Wenzell testified before the Securities and Exchange Commission that he took part in important discussions leading up to the contract. The President and Hughes have denied that Wenzell had any part in Government policy on the contract.

go to the washroom in the roadhouse, and did not see him walk out the front door. Foster told authorities that Koenig returned from the washroom and told him he was going outside to "meet someone."

Suit for $17,500 damages for false arrest was filed at Clayton yesterday against Sheriff Arthur C. Mosley and two of his deputies by Havey's estranged wife, Shirley. Mrs. Havey, who was placed under bond May 19 after she was questioned about the disappearance of her husband and Mueller, charged violation of her constitutional rights.

Named in the suit with Sheriff Mosley are Deputies Harry Newbold and Philip Moeller, and two bonding companies. The petition seeks $12,500 actual and $5000 punitive damages for Mrs. Havey, for "humiliation, disgrace and injurious publicity" resulting from the questioning. After Mueller was wounded he and Havey flew away in Havey's plane, returning last month.

Vital Sought by Police.

John J. Vitale, Anthony (Tony) Giardano and Ralph Calico, notorious St. Louis gangsters, are being sought by police for questioning in the murder investigation. Maj. James F. Thompson, head of the St. Louis police gambling squad, said he had information the three gangsters were the secret backers of Koenig's racing results service.

Giardano and Calico are under federal indictment for alleged income tax evasion in connection with their operation of the Twin City Distributing Co., cigarette vending machine concern which has been charged with evading city taxes by use of counterfeit tax stamps.

Capt. John A. Buck of Central District also instructed his men to redouble efforts to enforce a long-standing order to arrest Wortman whenever the gang boss comes to St. Louis. He said he had received information that Wortman had been visiting the Plaza Amusement Co., automatic phonograph and pinball machine firm at 1912 Washington avenue, about twice a week.

Wortman surrendered to East Side authorities Saturday and denied under extensive questioning that he had any knowledge of the Koenig murder. He offered an alibi that he was

The reorganization plan is the first of four proposals made since the railroad went into bankruptcy which recognizes the interest of present common stockholders.

Victory for Young.

As such, it represents a victory for Robert R. Young's Alleghany Corp., which holds almost half of the outstanding common stock.

Under the plan, which received I.C.C. approval a year ago, one share of new Class B common stock with a stated value of $100 a share would be issued for every 20 shares of the old common.

Voting control, however, would be given to the present holders of preferred stock, who would receive new Class A common at the rate of one share for each $100 par value of present preferred stock, plus an additional one share for each $100 of claims for unpaid dividends.

GRAHAM SAYS MOVIE STARS

SHUN GOD, ARE MISERABLE

GOTEBORG, Sweden, July 6 (AP)—Billy Graham says Hollywood movie stars are "the most miserable people in the world." Bringing his European crusade to Sweden, "the American evangelist told an audience of 19,000 last night, the film actors are 'rich, successful and popular, but they are unhappy because they live apart from God.'"

"The world's problems today are not H-bombs," Graham continued, "but our human weaknesses. Human nature must be fundamentally changed before there can be peace on earth, he said."

INQUEST IN DEATH OF MAN

An inquest into the death of Kenneth W. Milano, whose body was found beneath MacArthur Bridge Saturday, will be resumed Friday, Coroner Patrick E. Taylor said today.

The inquest was suspended after an hour and a half of testimony yesterday in which 15 witnesses were heard, Taylor said. He added that the purpose of delaying the inquest until Friday was to give police more time to find a blond girl who was seen with Milano several hours before his body was discovered.

Six acquaintances of Milano testified yesterday that they saw him in the neighborhood of Jefferson and Lafayette avenues between 10:30 p.m. the night before his death and 2:30 a.m. Saturday. Witnesses included his mother, Mrs. Marcella Roloff, 2347A Albion place.

BRITISH GOVERNMENT TO END

SUGAR IMPORT MONOPOLY

LONDON, July 6 (AP)—Prime Minister Eden's government today made public a bill to end its monopoly over the importation of sugar and to restore the prewar competitive market.

While freeing the trade, the bill maintains the government as a major buyer through the agency of a sugar board which will purchase commonwealth and home produced sugar.

The legislation is framed so Britain can meet its obligations under the commonwealth sugar agreement which runs until 1962.

IN WESTMINSTER
ABBEY'S CHAPEL

LONDON, July 6 (AP)—The body of Chris Blaney, once a streetsweeper, lay in state today in Westminster Abbey, the shrine of England's great. Across his coffin lay a richly embroidered pall. At each end stood golden candlesticks.

For 28 years Blaney swept streets beneath the abbey's shadow. Then for 18 years he was a gatekeeper at Britain's Premier church.

Eight months ago, his sight failing, he gave up his job. He was 74 years old.

Three days ago Blaney died. In accordance with a tradition for abbey servants, church officials took his body to lie amid the nation's illustrious dead.

A funeral service was read over the coffin in an abbey chapel yesterday. Later today the body was to be taken to suburban Streatham for cremation.

MARTIN D. KAMEN TO GET PASSPORT

Court Is Told State Department Will Issue It — Seized His in 1947.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
WASHINGTON, July 6.—The State Department has decided to issue a passport to Martin D. Kamen, a wartime atomic bomb scientist, who had been refused a passport for eight years. The decision was disclosed today by Assistant United States Attorney Joseph Rafferty in the court of United States District Judge Richard B. Keech, before whom Kamen's suit to have the court void the department's past refusal is pending.

Kamen, a wartime atomic bomb scientist, has been trying to get a new passport since 1947. In that year, his passport for travel in France and Israel was seized by State Department agents while it was in the hands of a travel agency.

Nathan David, attorney for Kamen, said the reason given for the seizure was simply that Kamen's projected trip was against the interests of the United States. Kamen has denied allegations against him.

Kamen made continued efforts to obtain the passport. He got an oral interview and signed non-Communist affidavits, but no passport was issued. When his appeal was turned down by the board of passport appeals in January 1954, he filed suit.

In view of the State Department's decision to issue the passport, Rafferty asked today that action by the court on Kamen's suit be postponed until Friday. It was expected the case would be dismissed with issuance of the document.

Since Kamen's suit was filed, the United States Court of Appeals held in another case that the Secretary of State must give valid reasons for denial of a passport.

Kamen is associate professor of radiochemistry at the university.

Kamen's best-known contribution in the field of physical chemistry is his work in helping isolate Carbon 14, radioactive isotope of natural carbon widely used in medical and biological research. Kamen is engaged in research work at the University of California at Berkeley this summer. His St. Louis address is 7209A Tulane avenue, University City.

SEPTEMBER DRAFT QUOTA 10,000; ALL TO GO IN ARMY

WASHINGTON, July 6 (UP)—The Defense Department today announced that 10,000 men will be drafted into the Army in September.

The September quota is the same as that for each month since April. It will bring to 1,938,430 the number of men drafted since the Korean war started.

All the draftees have gone to the Army except 81,430 who were drafted into the Marines early in the Korean war.

MOTORIST FINED $100

Lester Jones, 1900 block of Cole street, was fined $100 today after being found guilty of driving while intoxicated by Provisional Police Judge Richard Daly.

Police testified Jones, a Negro, was arrested last Friday in the 2000 block of Franklin avenue after his automobile had hit a parked car. Jones said he had drunk some beer but denied that he was intoxicated.

U.S. THEFT CHARGES AGAINST HOMER F. LITTLE DISMISSED

Four charges of theft from interstate shipment against Homer F. Little, of Granite City, were dismissed in United States District Court yesterday for lack of evidence. Frank H. Spinelli, 1500 block of Angelrodt street, entered a plea of guilty yesterday of re-

Revolt Ends at Washington Prison

Inside the prison, most of the more than 1700 inmates, remained in their cells, apparently in obedience to a white-shirted convict-leader of 33 persons directly involved in the revolt.

The hostages, including associate warden Ted Bezerides, were believed to be in no immediate danger. Prison officials said, however, until arrangements could be made for their release, the main prison was in control of the convicts.

Besides Bezerides, hostages included Bert Jenkins, a guard; Harold Innes, correctional officer; W. A. Storey, parole officer; and Jesse Beale, vocational counselor. Four others were not identified by name.

Dr. Thomas Harris, state director of institutions, said some of the nine had talked to other prison officials and reported they were well treated.

Two other prison officials seized by the convicts at the start of the trouble were freed without explanation. One of them, Boots Fain, of the prison athletic and recreation department, was badly beaten. Captain of the guards Al Remboldt was freed unharmed.

Warden Lawrence Delmore Jr., who was out of town when the revolt started, returned to start an immediate investigation. His only comment: "Somebody goofed."

His investigation centered around the question of how the 33 were able to break out of the segregation center and take their hostages. He said that so far he was unable to find out exactly what happened.

The trouble developed about 9:45 a.m. yesterday. The 33 prisoners, all of whom had been held in a segregation center reserved for the prison's toughest inmates, broke out of the center and converged on Bezerides' office in the same building.

Guard Capt. Remboldt said Bezerides and he were "holding court" when the door popped open and three men seized Bezerides and two men grabbed me and shoved me against the wall."

Control Room Seized.

He said the convicts seized the control room and sent him to tell the warden's office that no one would be hurt "if you send Dr. Harris down for a conference."

"How they got into the control room, I don't know," Remboldt said.

Dr. Harris said at conferences the men were demanding changes in disciplinary procedures and had presented a long list of grievances. They also set a deadline of 4 p.m. today for improvement of treatment by custodial officers but attached no "or else" terms to the deadline, he said.

"I didn't promise them anything," Dr. Harris said. "No commitments or promises can be made under the present circumstances. I did point out to them it would not be physically possible for us to clean up some of the things they complain of while they are in physical control of, say, 50 per cent of the prison."

He said he hoped to reach an agreement today. Harris would not identify leaders of the revolt.

By the United Press
The main grievance centered on isolation in "the hole." The rioters also assailed the classification and parole plan-

SNAKE GETS LOOSE IN ANOTHER PLANE; THIS ONE IS CAUGHT

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, July 6 (AP)—Pan American Airways officials disclosed yesterday the second of two snake incidents on their planes Monday.

When a flight from Rio de Janeiro stopped here en route to New York an attendant entered the baggage compartment and saw a loose snake. An airport radio technician, wearing asbestos gloves, grabbed the reptile and returned it to its box.

In the first reported incident, Capt. Cameron T. Walker of Massapequa, N. Y., killed a poisonous snake in the forward luggage hold of his trans-Atlantic airliner just before the plane landed at Shannon, Ireland. He dispatched it with a jungle knife.

The snake apparently managed to escape from a crate containing 26 reptiles, all believed to be poisonous, being shipped from New York to Düsseldorf, Germany.

18-MONTH LIMIT PROPOSED FOR E. ST. LOUIS SALES TAX

The East St. Louis City Council was urged today to place an 18-month limit on a proposed half-cent municipal sales tax, and to draw up a detailed program outlining uses to which the revenue would be put.

The requests were made by John R. Henne, executive vice president of the St. Clair County Taxpayers' Association, on behalf of the association. He said his group opposed the levy, but would confine its efforts to working for the time limit in view of the apparent determination by the city administration to impose the tax.

Mayor Alvin G. Fields said he opposed the 18-month suggestion, pointing out that state enabling legislation set a two-year limit. He declared that the money would not be wasted. The tax, he said, would be used to pay the city's operating debt and for much-needed repairs. An ordinance levying the tax is expected to be introduced this month.

DAILY WORKER EDITOR DENIED PASSPORT TO GENEVA PARLEY

WASHINGTON, July 6 (UP)—The State Department has tentatively refused to give an editor of the New York Communist newspaper, the Daily Worker, a passport to attend the Big Four conference in Geneva.

Joseph Clark, the Worker's foreign editor, requested the passport so he could accompany President Eisenhower and the United States delegation to the July 18 parley. After the request was rejected tentatively, Clark asked the department to permit him to leave the country without a passport. A spokesman said this request is "under consideration."

14 FACING CHARGES IN JUVENILE KILLING

Murder Indictments of Chicago Teen-Agers Will Be Asked.

(Picture in Everyday Magazine.)
CHICAGO, July 6 (AP)—The state's attorney's office moved yesterday to obtain indictments against 14 members of a juvenile gang accused of the killing of 17-year-old Kenneth Sleboda with a shotgun.

Irwin D. Bloch, first assistant state's attorney, said he will ask the grand jury to vote three true bills, including one charging murder, against all of the youthful defendants.

Bloch made his announcement at the state's attorney's office as Coroner Walter McCarron, at the county morgue, was conducting an inquest into the Friday night killing of young Sleboda.

The inquest was thrown into an uproar when one of the young defendants jeered at the victim's grieving father and another relative punched the sneering youth. Police restored order.

The incident began when a private investigator ordered photographers to stop taking pictures, saying "there ain't no news here."

Young Sleboda's father, Bruno, who overheard the remark, stood up and cried: "My boy was murdered. No news, eh? Who do you think this is? These gangs of kids are out to kill your boy and mine."

One of the 14 youths muttered at the distraught father.
"Aw, shut up."

An uncle of the dead youth, sitting behind the heckler, rose and cuffed him. Police and deputy coroners calmed onlookers who began shouting and pushing.

Lt. Edward O'Malley testified that Sleboda was killed by a shotgun charge fired by Clement Macis, 14, after the gang had waylaid their victim outside a neighborhood sweet shop.

SICK BABY RUSHED 109 MILES HERE WITH POLICE AID

An ailing baby, born on the fourth of July, was in serious condition at St. Louis Children's Hospital today following a 109-mile race from Mexico, Mo., in which the child was escorted by the Missouri State Highway Patrol, and Richmond Heights and St. Louis police.

The baby, Russell Blair Jr., suffering from a respiratory condition, started out from Mexico in an undertaking establishment's limousine. The vehicle had an oxygen tent. A physician went along with state troopers leading the way.

Richmond Heights police took over at Eager road and Brentwood boulevard. The Mexico vehicle broke down and the baby was transferred to a Richmond Heights ambulance-type police cruiser, which radioed ahead for a new tank of oxygen.

At Clayton road and Skinner boulevard, St. Louis police were waiting by prearrangement. The Blair baby was whisked through city traffic on the final lap of his journey, arriving at the hospital at 8:20 p.m.

PRESIDENT HAS NOT FOUGHT FOR HIS PROGRAM, A.D.A. SAYS

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP)—Americans for Democratic Action said today President Eisenhower "hasn't fought for what little there was" in his legislative program.

"He asked for little, did little and is getting little from Congress," A.D.A. said.

A.D.A. Chairman Joseph L. Rauh Jr. put out a statement calling a list of proposals on which Mr. Eisenhower has urged action "a pale imitation of a legislative program." A.D.A. calls itself an anti-Communist, progressive organization favoring "democratic planning, enlargement of fundamental liberties and international co-operation."

BRITISH MINE UNION BACKS BEVAN'S LABOR PARTY RIVAL

LONDON, July 6 (AP)—The National Union of Mine Workers dealt a blow yesterday to left-winger Aneurin Bevan's chances in his campaign for treasurer of the Labor Party.

The miners' convention endorsed moderate Hugh Gaitskell, former Chancellor of the Exchequer and present party treasurer, for re-election.

Bevan and Gaitskell opposed each other for the post last year. Gaitskell won then by 4,338,000 votes to 2,032,000.

Not Hep to the Times. BROOKLYN, Mich., July 6 (UP)—Brooklyn's village council is sponsoring a campaign to pick a new slogan for the community. Council members said they didn't think the present slogan—"The Square Town"—was fitting.

MANSFIELD SEES 'SHENANIGANS' IN FOREIGN AID MOVE

Senator Says Defense Department 'Spent' Half Billion to Avoid Turning It Back.

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP)—Senator Mansfield (Dem., Montana), accused the Eisenhower Administration today of "incredible shenanigans" in connection with the foreign military aid program.

Saying he will seek a thorough investigation by Congress, Mansfield said the Defense Department on a single day had obligated for spending—more than half a billion dollars in past foreign aid appropriations not yet spent. He said this occurred June 30, the last day of the 1955 fiscal year.

There was no immediate comment from the Defense Department. Both the House and Senate wrote into the new foreign aid authorization bill a restriction to forbid the Administration from carrying over into this fiscal year, which started July 1, more than $200,000,000 of aid money voted in past years but not spent or obligated by mid-June 30.

Legally Spent. Mansfield said in an interview the "maneuver" of obligating this amount—earmarking the money for specific military items to be bought in the future—has the legal effect of spending the money even though it may not actually be paid out for months or even years.

The practice of deadline spending by Government agencies, usually on a smaller scale, has been a subject of congressional criticism for years.

Mansfield said the amount obligated last Thursday was $575,000,000 and that this was more than half the total amount earmarked in all of June. He said the Defense Department thus gained authority to carry the $575,000,000 into the present fiscal year and avoided the congressional order for a turnback of all except $200,000,000 on hand.

Mansfield, a Foreign Relations Committee member, said last Thursday's transaction "amounts to nothing more than deliberate shenanigans, incredible shenanigans practiced on the American people and on Congress."

The Defense Department he said, "apparently thinks it can avoid an express prohibition of Congress by the pretense of obligating huge amounts of aid money on the last day of the fiscal year and then, if it so desires, unobligating the same amount later and keeping it lying around available for some future time."

Senate-House Conference. A Senate-House conference committee on the foreign aid authorization bill arranged to meet today in an effort to iron out minor differences in the two bills. Mansfield indicated it was too late for any further action on this bill.

But the authorization must be followed by a separate bill to appropriate the actual funds, and Mansfield said the appropriations committee will demand an explanation of how the money came to be obligated right at the deadline.

President Eisenhower asked for about $3,500,000,000 for foreign aid spending in the new fiscal year. The House passed an authorization of $3,285,000,000; the Senate, about $139,000,000 more.

RESERVATION DEADLINE FOR NURSING SCHOOL PARTY Saturday is the last day on which reservations may be made for the 1955 scholarship benefit party to be given next Wednesday by the Friends of City Hospital School of Nursing.

Reservations may be made with Mrs. B. J. Frederick, 7339 Princeton avenue, University City. Ticket cost is $5 a person. Funds raised at the annual benefits are used for scholarships to the nursing school.

The party will be given at the home of Mrs. T. M. Sayman, 5399 Lindell boulevard. The theme will be German. A buffet supper will be served, with physicians and surgeons acting as waiters.

Reds Filming 'Othello' in Color. LONDON, July 6 (AP)—Shakespeare's "Othello" is being filmed in color by a Soviet movie studio, the Moscow radio announced today. Sergei Bondarchuk plays the title role. The park of Desdemona has been given to a 1955 graduate of the Moscow Dramatic Art School, Irina Skobtseva. The director is Sergei Yutkevich.

Flashes of Life

Kittenish Trick. VICKSBURG, Miss. (AP)—Deputy Sheriff Clyde Smith got a call from a man who saw a light flick on in Vernell's Grocery long after the store closed. The caller feared it was a burglar.

Smith saw the same thing—a light flicking on in the rear of the store. Revolver in hand, Smith eased into the store. A cat was jumping on and off the grocery scales. This turned on and off an automatic light on the weight indicator.

Keeping Posted. CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP)—Hot weather scene: Man walking down the street with a room thermometer sticking out of his hip pocket.

Holding Operation. DETROIT (UPI)—A reporter called police headquarters and asked the switchboard operator for the holdup squad, but the line was busy. Reported the operator: "Holdup is held up. Hold on."

UNION OPPOSES TAX BOOST

A resolution opposing a proposed increase in excise taxes on truck tires, tubes, trucks, gasoline and diesel fuel was adopted by delegates of 20 Teamsters Union locals in eastern Missouri at a quarterly conference at the Chase Hotel yesterday.

It denounced House Bill 4260, which would increase the tax on tires over 90 pounds from 5 cents to 50 cents a pound, on tubes from 9 cents to 50 cents, on trucks 2 per cent, on gasoline 1 cent a gallon and on diesel fuel 4 cents a gallon.

BOY KILLED IN EXPLOSION WHEN PLAYING WAR GAME

NORTH SACRAMENTO, Calif., July 6 (AP)—War games which resulted in an explosion caused the death of 13-year-old Jimmy Whitley yesterday. Jimmy's brother Michael, 10, told firemen: The boys were playing war games, using a small shed containing gasoline, kerosene, paint thinner and paint as their ammunition dump.

Suddenly there was a fire. Michael thought he kicked over a can of gasoline in scrambling out. Jimmy was trapped inside. Firemen found a fireworks cap which they presumed started the fire.

SUBVERSIVE QUIZ FOR NEW YORK'S TEACHERS UPHELD

The New York Herald Tribune Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch
NEW YORK, July 6.—School teachers must answer questions about possible Communist party membership but they need not name other such suspects, State Commission of Education Lewis A. Wilson ruled yesterday.

He made that ruling in upholding the dismissal of five New York City school teachers by the board of education. They are Benjamin H. Baronofsky, Henry Danielowitz, Mildred Grossman, Maurice Kurzman and Abraham Squire. He rejected their appeal.

Wilson noted that the courts had sustained the right of school boards to examine teachers on possible subversive activities and to discipline those who refused to answer the key question as to whether they were Communists. He observed that Baronofsky had maintained that he refused to answer because he feared the board would question him about possible Communist activities of other persons.

"In my opinion," the commissioner said, "a board of education is without power to require a teacher to answer questions relating to his possible knowledge of other persons who may have been associated with the Communist party."

BELGRADE, July 6 (AP)—The Belgrade radio said last night seven Yugoslav journalists would leave July 13 for a two-week visit to the Soviet Union.

YOUTH WOUNDS POLICEMAN AND FLEES CHICAGO LOCKUP

CHICAGO, July 6 (AP)—A 16-year-old youth escaped from a north side police station last night after he shot and seriously wounded Policeman Albert H. Brown, the lockup keeper.

The shooting occurred in the Shakespeare avenue station lockup where Ronald Charles Dean, who was held for tampering with an auto and petty theft, was the only prisoner.

Brown was shot with his own revolver when he returned to the lockup and found Dean out of his cell. Brown said Dean had taken his pistol from a desk drawer and that when he lunged at the youth, Dean fired two shots at him.

WESTERN EUROPEAN UNION ASSEMBLY ELECTS BRITON

The W.E.U. is the alliance of seven nations which provides the framework for West Germany's participation in the common defense of western Europe. Its assembly is meeting for the first time. The member nations are Britain, France, West Germany, Italy, The Netherlands, Belgium and Luxembourg.

MacLay, 49-year-old conservative, was the only candidate for the presidency. He served for a time in the Churchill government as minister of transport and civil aviation.

DIEM'S TROOPS REPORT KILLING 247 OF HOA HAO

South Viet Nam Government Says It Is Eliminating Rebels in Cochinchina.

SAIGON, Indochina, July 6 (AP)—South Viet Nam army troops killed 247 Hoa Hao rebels and captured 160 others in a series of "violent battles" in the rugged Seven Mountains area, the army high command announced today.

The high command said an additional 827 of the rebel warlords forces deserted to the loyal troops.

A "considerable" number of wounded were taken to military hospitals after the battles, the announcement said. It did not give any government losses or disclose when the action took place.

A government announcement yesterday said that reports from the western Cochinchina front indicated that the army of Premier Ngo Dinh Diem is eliminating the last pockets of rebel resistance. Rebel warlords of the religious-political Hoa Hao sect had held control of much of the area for months.

SOUTH VIET NAM FAVORS ELECTION

SAIGON, South Viet Nam, July 6 (AP)—Vietnamese Foreign Minister Vo Van Mau said today his government accepts the principle of an election next year to unify Viet Nam but only if it is a free ballot, held under the direction of the United Nations.

Mau's declaration was the first official statement by a member of Premier Ngo Dinh Diem's cabinet on the election, which the Indochina armistice last July specified should be held throughout north and south Viet Nam not later than July, 1956.

The official Viet Nam press agency said Mau voiced his stand to a visiting group from the Moral Rearmament movement.

The agency said the minister told the visitors although the South Viet Nam government did not sign the Geneva armistice, it favors the peaceful reunification of the country.

Ho Chi Minh's Communist government in North Viet Nam announced last month it was ready to hold preliminary discussions on arrangements for the elections.

There had been speculation recently that Diem would refuse to join in the voting on the ground that the Red government in the North would not really permit free elections.

The Geneva agreement calls for the voting to be supervised by the International Armistice Control Commission, composed of India, Poland and Canada.

'INTENSE DESIRE' TO HAVE AUTO ENDS IN PRISON TERM

Burl F. Kirkpatrick of Litchfield, O., was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary today by United States District Judge Fred L. Wham at East St. Louis on Kirkpatrick's plea of guilty of interstate transportation of a stolen automobile from Terre Haute, Ind., to Effingham, Ill.

Assistant United States Attorney Jack Morris told the court that Kirkpatrick's father, an alcoholic, had killed his mother, a brother also was sentenced to prison for car theft and the prisoner had previously served a number of reformatory terms for the same crime.

In support of a plea for probation, Kirkpatrick's court-appointed attorney attributed his trouble to "an intense desire" to have his own car. Morris reminded the court that the prisoner is sought by Ohio authorities for a probation violation in that state.

PROTEST ON PROPOSED TRUCK FREIGHT RATE RISE UPHOLD

The Interstate Commerce Commission has upheld a protest by the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce against a proposed truck freight rate increase of more than 25 per cent on the minimum charge for small shipments of manufactured items going from Greater St. Louis to cities in southwestern states.

The commission directed the truck lines to delay action on the proposed increase pending an investigation, the chamber has announced.

Local commercial groups had contended the new rate would put St. Louis at a competitive disadvantage with Memphis, Dallas and Denver, because no increase was proposed between those markets and southwestern points.

CASINO GIVING GAMBLERS BREAK IS HELD A 'CHARITY'

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP)—A federal judge has ruled against the Government's effort to collect more tax on the horse-betting profits of a gambling casino which permitted its customers to place wagers on their choices until they passed the quarter-mile post.

Judge Marion Harrah of the United States Tax Court, in a decision made public today, quoted a Nevada tax official, Edward J. Price, as saying any organization that gives horse players such an advantage is a "charitable institution."

The ruling was in a proceeding involving the 13 partners in the Yorkshire Club, Newport, Ky. The Internal Revenue Service has been trying to collect $1,255,713 from the 13 in alleged back taxes and penalties for 1946 to 1950.

SHOPPERS' TRAIN SERVICE URGED IN WEBSTER GROVES

Webster Groves shoppers would gladly leave their cars at home if commuter train service to downtown shopping were available at convenient hours, a survey taken by the Webster Groves Monday Club indicated today.

The results of the survey of Monday Club members were announced in a letter sent by Mrs. Lloyd R. Koenig, first vice president of the club, to attorney John W. Giesecke, member of the city-county transit study committee. Of 120 women polled, all said they would use train service for downtown shopping trips.

Mrs. Koenig made clear in her letter that a terminal in the shopping district would be necessary for such commuter service. Those surveyed "would much prefer fast, efficient public transportation rather than battle traffic and pay the high parking fees," she said, if a subway station in the shopping area were available.

Asked what departure time would be preferred if a new commuter service were established, 48 of those surveyed named 9 a.m. and 34 said they would like 9:30 a.m. A total of 88 of the 120 women polled picked 3:30 p.m. as the best hour for a return trip. An additional group of 20 business men was also polled by the club, with 18 expressing their preference for commuter train travel.

CIO TO CONTINUE TO SEEK LARGE WAGE INCREASES

But Sidesteps Question of Whether It Will Ask Extension of Guaranteed Wage.

A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 6.—The CIO has indicated it will continue to seek "substantial" wage increases this year but has sidestepped the question of whether the guaranteed wage pattern set by the United Auto Workers will be sought in other lines in the near future.

In the current issue of its publication, "economic outlook," the labor organization says: "substantial wage and salary increases are needed this year to sustain the national economy's forward momentum."

The publication, which usually reflects thinking of top CIO officers, says wage increases will provide new consumer purchasing power "to lift the economy to full production and employment" and will help erase the losses of the 1953-54 recession. However, the eight-page article makes only one brief reference to the modified guaranteed wage plan recently won by CIO auto workers at the Ford Motor Co. and General Motors. CIO President Walter Reuther also heads the auto workers.

Line on Guaranteed Wage.
Discussing the need for higher wages in general terms, the article says at one point: "Guaranteed wage plans can aid in developing a firm basis for growing consumer markets throughout the year."

There is no elaboration of this statement. The article continues with the assertion: "Wage and salary improvements can be granted by most companies without price increases."

This can be done, the publication contends, because of increased production, improved efficiency in production, reduced production costs and lower taxes, particularly the elimination of the excess profits tax last year.

"Production and sales have been rising since last September," the article states. "With lower business taxes and increasing productive efficiency, corporate profits have been booming."

Profit Comparisons.
To support this contention, the CIO publication lists comparisons of profits of 29 major American corporations, including the Monsanto Chemical Co. of St. Louis, in the first quarter of 1953, '54 and '55. All show improvement. In another graph, first quarter reports of 475 large firms show this year's profits up 29.6 per cent after taxes.

The article asks: "Will consumer spending continue to rise in the coming months to sustain increasing levels of business investment, production and employment?" It says strong consumer spending helped keep the comparatively mild business downturn of 1953-54 from "developing into a tailspin."

Consumer spending power—the amount of money the average person has to buy goods with—will play an equally crucial role in the months immediately ahead, the article says. If consumer spending power drops, the business and industrial advance will collapse of its own weight, the publication contends.

"The condition of consumer markets in the coming months will largely depend on collective bargaining gains in wages and salaries and whether or not the legal minimum wage, under federal law, will be raised considerably above the present 75 cents an hour," the publication concludes.

FIRM IS ORDERED TO REPAY EXCESS PROFITS TO U.S.

CHICAGO, July 6 (AP)—An Elgin (Ill.) firm was ordered yesterday to repay to the United States Government $385,317.76 in excess war profits. The company is the Erie Basin Metal Products, Inc., which the government contended made excessive profits on war contracts for mortar shells and other items during the company's fiscal year ended Nov. 30, 1943. United States District Judge Joseph Sam Perry in drawing the order denied a government claim for more than $210,000 in interest. He said the company "believed its liabilities were discharged."

Still pending against the company is a government suit to recover $2,200,000 in alleged excess war profits for the fiscal year ended Nov. 30, 1944.

Erie Basin was a unit for the brothers who were convicted of former munitions combine of bribery and conspiracy to defraud Murray and Henry Garsson, fraud in 1947.

DENIES POWER LINE RULE WAS ILLEGAL

Interior Official Testifies About Regulations Democrats Criticized.

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP)—Any contention that the Department of the Interior acted illegally or contrary to the wishes of Congress in revising regulations for the issuance of power line rights-of-way across public lands "is completely unjustified," Under Secretary Clarence A. Davis said today.

Davis was the only witness as a House Government Operations subcommittee reopened its inquiry into the revisions which Chairman Earl Chudoff (Dem., Pennsylvania), has characterized as favorable to private power utilities.

One of the major revisions eliminated a requirement that private utilities obtaining a right-of-way across public land agree to move Government-generated power if excess line capacity was available.

Defines Controversy.
The controversy over the regulations, he said, boils down to "a question of whether it is right to take a lease and write into it complete regulatory powers."

Chudoff conceded it was within the Secretary's power to change the regulations but said he "certainly ought to change them on his own and not because some utility asked him to."

An earlier witness, James D. Geissinger, former assistant to Davis when the under secretary was department solicitor, testified he drafted the proposed changes, adopting verbatim the language of 10 recommendations which had come to his desk anonymously. He said he learned later they had originated with the Pacific Gas & Electric Co., San Francisco.

Clears Up Mystery.
Davis cleared up the mystery of how the recommendations reached Geissinger's desk. He said either he "or one of my girls" put them there.

Davis said the recommendations were not actually prepared by Pacific but by counsel for other utilities.

He referred to a 1948-49 meeting of department and utility representatives prior to the drafting of the original regulations and said he asked Herman Kruse, who represents Pacific at the department, to get another expression of opinion from the utilities in 1953.

Questioning of Davis was continued until tomorrow after Representative Clare E. Hoffman (Rep., Michigan, accused Chudoff of trying to "gas" the Republican members by blocking their questions. Hoffman moved to adjourn, seconded his motion with a proxy of an absent Republican and then outvoted Chudoff who was the only Democrat present.

HUSBAND 'KILLED,' SHE REWEDS, THEN NO. 1 REAPPEARS

SEOUL, July 6 (AP)—Ten years ago Shin Kum Soon received a box of ashes from Japanese army authorities. Her husband, they said, had been killed in the war. Two years later, Shin married again.

But husband No. 1, Cho Pyung Ki, wasn't dead. He was hiding out in the jungles of Peleliu island. He learned only recently that Japan had surrendered.

Cho returned last night, to be met only by newsmen. Cho said he wants to be reunited with his wife and their 15-year-old son.

In a little village 80 miles southeast of here, Shin had said she wanted to go back to her first husband. Husband No. 2, Song Shin Bae, said he was willing to let her go.

This week, when Cho returns to his native village, the elders will meet to straighten out the war-tangled family relations.

COUNTY MAN FALLS DEAD WHEN RIDING SURFBOARD

Rex Kerby, 432 Barron lane, Webster Groves, suffered a heart attack and died yesterday when he was riding a surfboard on Mille Lacs lake near Garrison, Minn.

Authorities there were told that he shouted for help but died before he could be brought to shore. Mrs. Kerby, who was with him on vacation, was taken to a hospital in nearby Brainerd for treatment of shock.

Kerby, 47 years old, was supervisor of the Robertson warehouse of the General Motors Corp. Electro-Motive Division. In addition to his wife, he is survived by three sons, Paul D. Kerby, 5818A Mardel avenue; Jack Kerby, who is in the Navy; and James Kerby, who is in the Marine Corps.

Democratic Promises Boost Hope For Part of President's Program

But 4 of 5 Bills on Which Eisenhower Says He Wants Action Are Still Roadblocked.

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP)—Democratic promises of support appeared today to herald early approval of some of the major elements of President Eisenhower's congressional program.

At least four of five of the bills on which the President has said he wants Congress to act before it adjourns remained behind roadblocks.

Senator Earle Clements of Kentucky, acting Democratic majority leader, promised yesterday that his party will push for early Senate action on a House-passed military reserves bill.

Although not in the same form Mr. Eisenhower had asked for to carry out a reserve strengthening program he described as "vital," the House bill is regarded as generally satisfactory to the Pentagon.

Senator William F. Knowland of California, the Republican minority leader, said the President repeated at lunch yesterday "his great interest" in passage of adequate reserve legislation. Knowland mentioned also as among those discussed measures to authorize an atom-powered cargo ship and highway and housing aid.

Will Back Foreign Aid.
Clements made it clear he will back foreign aid authorizations and appropriations which the President has said ought to "go through in a hurry." Clements, just returned from a 17-day survey of foreign aid operations in Asia, indicated he was impressed by a need for continuing the program.

Clements is filling in as majority leader for Senator Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, who suffered a heart attack Saturday. Republican leaders were reported working in an attempt to pry a housing bill out of the House Rules Committee. Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn (Dem.) Texas, put it squarely up to the Republicans yesterday to end this impasse. The Rules Committee, a sort of traffic control center, has held up the Housing bill on a 6 to 6 vote. Opponents reportedly include all four committee Republicans and two Democrats.

This bill, approved by the House Banking Committee, is more in line with Mr. Eisenhower's public housing recommendations than a companion measure passed previously by the Senate. The Senate voted to authorize 135,000 low-rent public housing units in each of the next four years. The House bill would authorize what Mr. Eisenhower had asked for—35,000 units in each of the next two years.

Backbone of Housing Boom.
It is generally agreed that some housing measure will be passed, since the bill also contains added lending authority to continue the FHA-insured mortgage program, backbone of the booming private home building industry.

The Senate Finance Committee has called public hearings on a House-passed bill to simplify customs. A highway construction bill appeared likely to start moving soon in the House. The Senate scrapped Mr. Eisenhower's proposal and passed a rival Democratic bill.

Neither did they give any signs of lessening opposition to his proposal for an atom-powered ship designed to show the world advances in the peaceful use of nuclear fuel. Both the House and Senate have turned this proposal down once.

Knowland named the atomic ship proposal first of all today in listing 20 bills he said the Administration would like to see passed by the end of the month. He talked with reporters after a conference of Republican leaders with the President.

Both Knowland and House Republican leader Joseph W. Martin of Massachusetts said this should not be regarded as a "must" list, but that they expected "a considerable portion" of the bills would be passed by the end of the session.

Not an Exclusive List.
Knowland said, too, the list was not an exclusive one—that other bills might be mentioned as well. He said the list includes "what the President considers among the most desirable legislation and the Republican

60,000 RIFLES DISAPPEAR FROM PHILIPPINE DEPOTS

MANILA, July 6 (UP)—About 60,000 Springfield rifles are missing from Philippine army depots throughout the country, Col. Blas Alejandro, chief of the armed forces announced today. Alejandro's announcement coincided with the smashing of an arms smuggling ring led by a former army sergeant which it was feared had been supplying the Communist Huk with arms and munitions.

The armed forces chief said today that a preliminary check showed that some 60,000 and possibly more old Springfield rifles were missing from arms depots. The rifles were given to the Philippine army before World War II by the United States.

KATY BOARD CHANGE LIKELY TO INCLUDE NEW GROUP

Realignment of the board of directors of the Missouri-Kansas-Texas Railroad Co. to give representation to a new stockholder group owning about 500,000 shares of common stock is expected at a special meeting of the board here July 14. The new group controls about one-third of the voting shares of the railroad, and is reported to be the largest single stockholder. A railroad spokesman has denied reports that the new shareholders, the New York firms of Bear, Stearns & Co., State Street Investment Corp., and Pennroad Corp., are attempting to take over management of the railroad. The investment companies have expressed opposition to a stock reorganization plan filed by the company with the Inter-

MAILED BOMB KILLS SLOVAKIAN ANTI-RED

Woman Also Dies as Refugee in Germany Opens Package.

MUNICH, Germany, July 6 (AP)—A dark-haired foreigner with a Slavic accent was suspected by West German police today as the bomb assassin of Matus Cernak, anti-Communist Slovak leader and World War II collaborator with the Nazis.

The 50-year-old minister of culture in wartime Slovakia who became a foe of Czechoslovakia's present Red government was blown to bits when a two and one-half pound parcel addressed to him exploded in a Munich post office yesterday.

An aged German housewife also was killed instantly. Thirteen other bystanders were injured, two of them gravely. Police said "political motives" presumably were behind the mailing of the bomb parcel. Cernak headed the National Council of Slovakia, which refugees established here in recent years to campaign for Slovakia's independence from the Prague Communist regime and integration in a united Europe.

Cernak fled to the American zone of Germany in 1947 after serving a two-year sentence for collaborating with the Germans. Offering a 5000-mark ($1190) reward, police announced today that the bomb had been mailed to Cernak last Monday from Frankfurt by "a man with dark hair, oval face, age 40-45, middle weight, who spoke broken German with a Slavic accent." Cernak had appeared at the post office after receiving a routine notice from postal authorities that a parcel and a registered letter awaited him.

Dr. Ferdinand Durcansky, wartime Slovak foreign minister, said that "the Black Hand," a Red underground active in Western Europe, had sent threatening letters to a number of prominent Slovak exiles, including Cernak. "Only Communist circles can be responsible for the crime," Durcansky said.

GERMAN V-2 EXPERT JOINS U.S. ARMY ROCKET STAFF

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP)—The Army has obtained the services of another German rocket and space flight expert, Prof. Hermann Oberth.

Oberth, who took part in the research which resulted in the development of the V-2 missile used by Germany in World War II, recently arrived in this country and has been engaged by the Army Ordnance Corps to work on guided missiles at Redstone Arsenal, Huntsville, Ala.

At Redstone, Oberth will work with more than 100 other German rocket scientists under the direction of Dr. Wernher von Braun, once a leading figure in Germany's missile work and now director of the guided missile development division at Redstone.

Time Lost in British Strikes. LONDON, July 6 (UP)—Prime Minister Eden said yesterday the recent wave of railway, dock and coal-mining strikes cost the nation about 2,000,000 working days. He told the House of Commons it would be impossible to evaluate the total monetary losses for some time.

Mt. Etna Spouting Up Flames And Rock Every 8 or 10 Minutes

Europe's Highest Volcano Showing Most Activity in Four Years — Chunks Rise 100 Feet.

By ANDREW NAMAS
IN A U.S. NAVY PLANE
OVER MOUNT ETNA, Sicily,
July 6 (AP)—A little crater inside the big one glows dark red, then every eight or 10 minutes pops like a chestnut on a hot fire.

Flames and chunks of molten rock spout up 100 feet or more. Those are the fireworks from Mount Etna, which for five nights have been visible for 30 miles or more along the tourist-crowded east coast of Sicily.

It is the most activity Europe's highest volcano (10,735 feet) has shown for four years. But looking into the crater from only 500 feet away, there is no sign that a major eruption has begun. A U.S. Navy R4D two-engine plane was piloted for this flight over the crater by John Risings of Bluefield, W. Va., an aviation chief machinist mate. The copilot was Lt. (jg) R. M. Biggenho of Verona, Pa.

The new activity is inside a crater 250 feet by 300 feet formed 44 years ago. It is on the northeast side of the mountain. Three hundred feet above it, the huge main crater now is quiet.

Inside the northeast crater is a bed of black lava. The new volcanic mouth is a red pimple in the center, about 50 feet wide. Smoke boils out in puffs and is whipped away by a 30-mile-an-hour wind. A dark red glow brightens to cherry red every eight or 10 minutes. That is when the flames lash up and the chunks of molten rock are hurled into the air, to fall back into the crater.

Dr. Salvatore Cocuzza of the institute of volcanology of the University of Catania reported the activity "considerably increased" in the last 24 hours.

If the spouts continue to go higher, some lava will begin spilling over the rim of the crater. But authorities reported villagers living in the possible path of a lava flow were showing no signs of fright.

PUBLISHER GARDNER COWLES, WIFE SEPARATE QUIETLY

NEW YORK, July 6 (AP)—Publisher Gardner Cowles and his wife Fleur Cowles, associate editor of Look Magazine, have separated, it was disclosed today.

"It's a very amicable, friendly separation," a spokesman for Cowles Magazines, Inc., said. "It became a fait accompli several weeks ago, very quietly. They have no immediate plans for divorce."

Cowles heads the publishing enterprises which include Look and Quick magazines, the Des Moines Register and Tribune and the Minneapolis Star and Tribune.

Mrs. Cowles has moved into her own New York apartment. She has signed a new three-year contract to continue as associate editor of Look. She also will remain a member of the company's board of directors.

NEW FUNDS GIVE RESERVISTS MORE DRILL HOURS THIS YEAR

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP)—Army reservists in many units will train more hours this year than previously because the new defense budget provided more money for that purpose.

The Army estimated that about one-half of its 7000 recognized reserve units drilled at the rate of 48 hours a year in the fiscal year which ended June 30. Many of the remaining units were on a 24-hour drill status. An Army spokesman said the goal is to increase the organized drills to 48 hours yearly for all reserve units which would be called to duty at the outset, or soon thereafter, of a national emergency.

Most of the units given a mobilization day assignment have been increasing their drill periods during the last two years. The additional money provided in the new fiscal year started last Friday.

WASHINGTON, July 6 (UP)—The House voted yesterday to pay a reward of up to $500,000 to anyone who uncovers an effort to smuggle atomic bombs or nuclear material into the United States. There were no votes in opposition.

The measure, which now goes to the Senate for action, was aimed at protecting the nation against sneak atomic attack. Officials have warned that a single saboteur armed with a "suitcase" A-bomb could cause untold damage.

The Joint Congressional Atomic Energy Committee, which recommended the reward, said it is possible for a saboteur to "smuggle" nuclear devices or special nuclear materials into this country and "destroy vital targets" prior to an enemy attack. The President would have to approve any reward of more than $50,000.

"It must be assumed that potential enemies can now devise small atomic weapons, so constructed as to minimize the chance of detection by customs, by counter-intelligence or defense personnel," the group said.

In addition, the legislation would grant permanent sanctuary in this country to any alien who tips off this country to atomic smuggling efforts.

SENATE APPROVES WAR PRISONER TREATMENT CODE

Pacts Negotiated in 1949 Already Ratified by Russia, 47 Other Nations.

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP)—The Senate today approved 77-0 four treaties designed to establish a pattern of decent international conduct toward prisoners of war and civilians captured by an enemy.

The pacts, already ratified by the Soviet Union and 47 other nations, were negotiated at Geneva in 1949.

In a brief Senate discussion, Senate Republican Leader Knowland of California hit at Russia for "well-substantiated" reports that "thousands" of German and Japanese prisoners of war taken during World War II are still held as "slave labor" in Russia.

Knowland said no one could know "if the Soviet Union will comply" with terms of the new treaties on such matters as quick repatriation of prisoners after the end of hostilities. Knowland, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee which reported the treaties to the Senate, said they contain provisions which "any civilized nation should be glad" to comply with.

Senator Barkley (Dem.), Kentucky, also a committeeman, told the Senate the treaties provide for the kind of "humane practices the United States has followed over a long period of time."

The treaties deal separately with the status of prisoners of war, civilian persons, wounded and sick military personnel, and sick and shipwrecked members of the armed services at sea.

Several Reservations.

The senate wrote several reservations into its approval of the pacts. One would enable United States concerns which have used the Red Cross emblem as a trade-mark since 1905 to continue doing so, provided it is not placed on buildings or other conspicuous places.

In another, the Senate reserved to the United States the right to impose death penalties for severe offenses by citizens of United States-occupied nations during wartime, whether that nation's own law would call for the death penalty or not.

The Senate also made clear that United States ratification would not compel the United States to recognize reservations entered into by other signatory nations, mainly the Soviet bloc.

'Le Monstre' and Its Crew

3 Youths on Downriver Trip Stop Here to Fix Complex Raft

Craft Powered by Complicated Arrangement of Automobile Wheels Has Brought Students From St. Paul.

Three University of Minnesota youths who share a Rubie Goldberg turn of mind were hard at work today at the Mound City Boat Yard, 932 North Wharf street, repairing "Le Monstre Formidable," the complexly powered raft on which two of them reached St. Louis at 7 p.m. yesterday from St. Paul.

The third, David Rutford, met them here at 11 p.m. after making the trip by train. He had left the others, Fred Hallberg and Donald (Sam) Gray, at Clinton, Ia., earlier to attend a wedding.

"We've been having a little more trouble than we anticipated," Hallberg conceded. "Our power source is a 1939 Chevrolet sedan that cost us $15. This is mounted on the raft and the rear end of another automobile is mounted under the raft, with a propeller attached to it. The two sets of rear wheels make contact with each other.

"Well, wet rubber on wet rubber makes excellent contact at slow speeds. It's just like gears that mesh perfectly. But skids result, we learned, when we get excited and try to apply too much power, as we tend to do when we meet a towboat and barges. Then those darned wheels scream like a banshee!

"We're grinding valves today because that old motor ate four quarts of oil in two minutes Monday night as we kept going all night to try to keep our appointment with Dave Rutford.

"Also, we have a few repairs to make on our water pump. It's been spewing chips of brass. After retooling, we hope to improve on our average speed, only four miles an hour so far.

"We're glad Dave's with us. He has played around with old autos in his backyard all his life. Besides, though Sam and I are engineering students, Dave is majoring in philosophy. We figure we'll also need some of that on our way to New Orleans, which we hope to hit in late July.

"No, we aren't counting on the contraption falling apart when we get there. It's pretty valuable—cost us a total of $160. And, besides, we plan to drive back to St. Paul in that Chevy."

The full power you pay for when you buy high octane gasoline

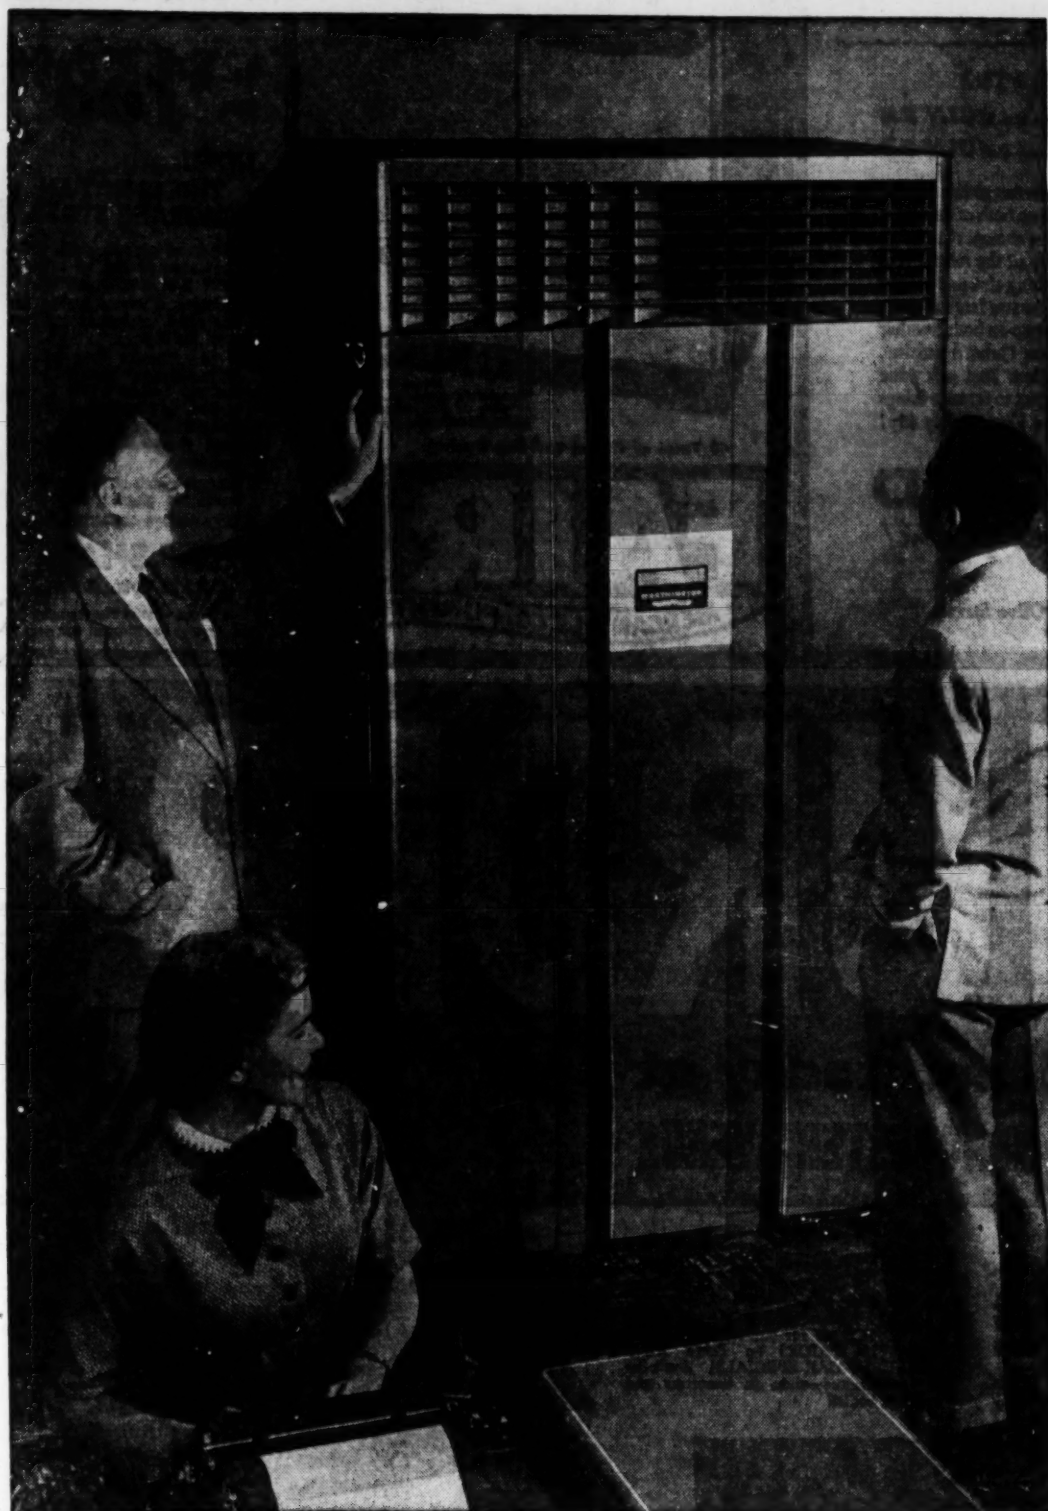

- Did you know that the greater the need for high octane, the greater the need for TCP*? Here's why! In your everyday, short-trip driving, engine deposits build up and cause pre-firing and spark plug "miss." This is a major source of power loss.
- Shell Premium with TCP delivers the full power of high octane because it overcomes these engine deposits and stops the pre-firing and spark plug "miss" that rob you of top performance.
- Only Shell Premium Gasoline has both TCP additive and top octane. It's the most powerful gasoline your car can use!

*Shell's Trademark for this unique gasoline additive developed by Shell Research. Patent applied for. The above statements may also apply to other companies which produce high octane gasoline if they are licensed by Shell to use TCP.

NEW AIR FORCE ACADEMY OPENS NEXT MONDAY

First Class of 301
Cadets to Study at Lowry Field Pending Building of School.

DENVER, July 6 (UP)—The United States Air Force Academy goes into business next week with a first year class of 301 cadets who will study and live for the next couple of years at the Lowry Air Force Base here.

The permanent site for the academy, a 17,000-acre tract of rolling ranchland at the foot of the Rockies just north of Colorado Springs, should be completed in 1957.

The official opening ceremony Monday will mark eight years of intensive planning, research and organization and the culmination of the dreams of military airmen going back to the early 1920s.

Main speakers will be Secretary of Air Harold Talbot, Lt. Gen. Hubert R. Harmon, the academy's first superintendent, and Gen. Nathan Twining, U. S. Air Force Chief of Staff.

There also will be brethren from West Point and Annapolis, founded respectively in 1802 and 1845. A corps of 50 cadets from the Military Academy and 35 midshipmen will march for the newly sworn air cadets.

Drive Started in 1947.

The drive for an academy of the air to turn out the top flight military aviation men of the future began in earnest in 1947 when the Air Force won its "independence" from the Army.

First studies were by a committee headed by Dr. Robert Stearns, Colorado University president, and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, then head of Columbia University.

Their report ultimately led to a congressional authorization of $126,000,000 to establish the academy. President Eisenhower signed the law on April 1, 1954, and brought out of retirement one of his classmates at West Point, 66-year-old Gen. Harmon, to take over as first superintendent.

In the meantime, plans had gone ahead to work out a curriculum. It was devised over a period of five years by faculty head Brig. Gen. Don Zimmerman. The courses were chosen and reviewed by professors from Columbia and Stanford universities and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Gen. Zimmerman said the cadets will spend most of their time in "the areas of social humanities and scientific studies." There will be more emphasis on English courses than at West Point or Annapolis. The students will spend the regular four years, spread over eight 17-week semesters and 2799 hours of classes. They will receive Bachelor of Science degrees.

Aerial Navigator.
In addition they will master a course in airmanship which will lead to a rating of aerial navigator.

But they will receive only 25 hours of light plane pilot training. The skills of flying today's supersonic jets is something they will learn after graduation from the academy.

That was one of the disputes when arguments were hot and heavy over the permanent site of the academy. Critics of Colorado Springs, nestled right against the towering mountains, said it was no place to teach flying. It took some time to get over the point they would not be flying there.

There were also arguments that water supplies were not adequate and that Colorado Springs was too cold and the air too thin for the cadets.

The Chamber of Commerce had scarcely refuted these objections when criticisms began of the architectural designs for the buildings unveiled in scale models by the firm of Skidmore, Owings and Merrill. Talbot and other Air Force officials approved them in general.

But one critic said the academy would look like a "mammoth drugstore on stilts." Frank Lloyd Wright, who lost out on the bidding, said it looked to him like a "factory for bird-men." The accordion-shaped chapel drew blasts from clergymen and Colorado Gov. Edwin C. Johnson termed it "an insult to religion."

Talbot wearily replied that there would be changes and modifications before construction began.

Service in Two Wars.

The new superintendent has been flying since 1917 and saw aerial service in both wars. He also has a long record as an instructor. Now Gen. Harmon undertakes the tremendous task of getting a third military academy on a par with with Annapolis and West Point.

As at the other academies, Congressmen will nominate candidates. For the first six years the Air Force is approving 10 nominations instead of the usual two. That will produce more than 5000 applications each year from which a class of somewhat more than 300 per year will be chosen.

The academy already has plans for a big athletic program including 15 separate sports. The football team, necessarily a freshman one this year, has former San Francisco Forty-Niner coach Lawrence (Buck) Shaw and an eight-game schedule for this fall.

$20,883,000 Given Colleges.
CHICAGO, July 6 (UP)—Alumni gave American colleges and universities $20,883,000 last year, according to Chancellor Lawrence A. Kilmington of the University of Chicago.

7700 MANCHESTER AVENUE

Cold-blooded, wholesale MURDER! That's the crime committed today by Bob Wolfson, President of Feld Chevrolet, when he literally MURDERED PRICES AND PROFITS on NEW AND USED CARS in the big Feld stock at 7700 Manchester.

Wolfson, confronted on every hand by his slaughtered prices and slashed profits readily admitted his guilt. "I'm not ashamed," he boasted. "I want everyone in St. Louis to SEE the crime I committed." And if YOU attend this tremendous PRICESLASHING SALE, you'll see for yourself the UNBELIEVABLE PRICES on Feld's NEW AND USED CAR SPECIALS! Don't delay one minute—come in tomorrow and view the bodies!

Bob Wolfson of Feld Chevrolet being "arrested" by Maplewood Chief of Police, Leo Buck, on a charge of "wholesale murder," in the presence of Sterling P. Davidson, Mayor of Maplewood. ## Russia Likely to Open Borders To Americans Within a Year as It Does Now to West Europeans Meager Hotel Facilities Might Be Limiting Factor—'Intourist' Agency, Operated by Government, Arranges Trips and Provides Guides and Interpreters.

By RAYMOND P. BRANDT
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
(Copyright, 1955.)

BERLIN, July 6.
ABUNDANT evidence indicates that within a year Soviet Russia will be opened to American tourists as it is already to individuals and groups from France, England and other western European nations. The number of foreigners admitted probably will be determined by the limited hotel accommodations in the larger cities.

The arbitrary official rate of exchange of four rubles to the dollar—a realistic rate would be about 12 to the dollar—would make this travel prohibitive were it not for the government-operated travel agency "Intourist," an abbreviation for International Tourism, which offers a top category rate of $19 a day for a hotel room with bath, where available, three meals a day plus afternoon tea, and two sightseeing tours. The last named is a flexible term and includes an automobile with chauffeur for individual use.

A second category of $11 a day, with poorer accommodations and less choice of foods, is widely sold to students and others who feel young and strong enough to forego some of the limited creature comforts at present obtainable in cities where Intourist operates its own hotels. In cities where Intourist does not operate, the top category tourist has to take what he can get, which isn't much by Western standards.

Function Is Political.
The great advantage Intourist has over similar tourist agencies in Europe and in the Western Hemisphere lies in the fact that as a government agency it can obtain privileges that would generally be denied privately-owned outfits in other parts of the world. Its function is political rather than money-making, and for all of its clients its objective is to show Communist Russia in its most favorable light.

If tourists know what they want—and a few of them do—Intourist tries to meet their desires, and usually succeeds if given enough time. It should be remembered, however, that before an American can go to Russia and use the Intourist service, he must first get a Russian visa, usually for two to four weeks, and then have his passport amended by the United States State Department to permit travel behind the so-called Iron Curtain. Visas are being more liberally granted to American newspaper men, perhaps a portent for other visitors. The Kremlin prefers groups over individuals, but once a visitor is in Russia and buys the Intourist service, his movements are far less restricted than generally believed in the United States.

In the spring, Intourist advertised in France for clients, aimed at workers with middle or low incomes, and has recently offered higher-priced trips in British papers. It also manages the trips of visitors to the government wants especially to impress—Indians, Japanese, Chinese, North Koreans, West Germans and those from the satellite countries. The Kremlin itself handles the top visitors, such as Prime Minister Nehru of India and parliamentary delegations.

A Good Bargain.
Even if the distorted dollar rate of exchange were made realistic, the $19 a day Intourist charge would still be a good bargain. When I used it in 1937 the cost was $15 a day and despite the world-wide rise in prices, the service this year was better. If the booklets of coupons are bought in Helsinki with Finnish travel marks, the cost is about $14 a day. In accordance with Russian currency custom, there is no refund for unused coupons.

At best, the Intourist guides or interpreters are only adequate. They have memorized the facts about the places on the usual sight-seeing tours and their English is understandable. Most are young and many have college or junior college educations. Off the beaten path to them seem to try to get what their clients want and sometimes deliver.

Their greatest prestige is in Moscow. They arrange for foreigners to get into the Lenin-Stalin tomb ahead of the thousands of Russians who stand queued up for hours for this greatly envied privilege; they have a backdoor entrance to the exhibition of captured German art, known as the "Dresden

TOP SECRET BRITISH JET FALLS IN TRIAL, PILOT KILLED

ADMISTON, England, July 6 (AP)—A top secret jet fighter on trial for the Royal Navy air arm crashed and burned yesterday. The plane, the twin jet Supermarine 525, fell into a barley field. The pilot, 29-year-old Lt. Comdr. Anthony Rickell, was killed.

Air authorities have said the 525 was believed to be the fastest plane ever designed for operation from an aircraft carrier. A supply ministry spokesman said it was making "initial evaluation trials." These are tests taken before the model would be put into production.

PEARSON First Boston Corp. Has Lines Into Eisenhower Administration

Two of Its Men Planted in Budget Bureau When Dixon-Yates Project Was Concocted—Also Other Ties.

By DREW PEARSON
(Copyright, 1955.)

WASHINGTON.
THE FIRST BOSTON CORP., two of whose men were planted inside the Budget Bureau when the Dixon-Yates project was concocted, is an outfit which might well be given a careful once-over by the Senate Anti-Monopoly Committee. Its operations affect not merely Dixon-Yates but the manner in which certain bankers have put key men in government positions.

The First Boston is not in Boston, and it is not the staid old New England firm the name indicates. On the contrary, it is the "J. P. Morgan of Wall Street" today. J. P. Morgan is now barred by the Roosevelt legislation that followed the depression from engaging in stock and bond flotation, and is now a conservative bank whose members are worried over current inflation.

Meanwhile, the First Boston Corp. has become what J. P. Morgan once was—the biggest underwriter of utility companies in the country. It is also bitterly anti-TVA and bitterly anti-public power.

Close Ties With White House.
It has close ties with the White House through Sidney Weinberg, chairman of the Wall Street firm of Goldman-Sachs and a member of President Eisenhower's golfing cabinet; also through Gen. Robert Cutler of the First National Bank of Boston, parent of the First Boston Corp. Until recently, Cutler was a member of the White House staff.

It also has close ties with the Treasury through Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey. One of its directors, Arthur A. Van Buren, is a director of Secretary Humphrey's Pittsburgh Consolidated Coal Co., biggest coal company in the world.

George D. Woods, chairman of First Boston, is also close to Harold Stassen and Eugene Black, head of the World Bank. Black sent him on a tour of India to make a report on its investment possibilities, while Adolph Wenzel, the man who was planted inside the Budget Bureau to help concoct the Dixon-Yates deal, has now gone to work for the World Bank.

Stassen and Ebasco. Likewise, Ebasco, the engineering subsidiary connected with the Dixon-Yates project, is connected with the World Bank.

ALSOP Visitor Finds Moscow Full Of Surprises

Among Them Are 'Krem Cola,' and Roadside Advertising.

By STEWART ALSOP
MOSCOW.

THIS PLACE IS CHOCK-FULL of surprises, big and small. Consider a sampling of the small surprises. The wallpaper in the hotel room turns out, on close inspection, not to be wallpaper at all. The elaborate pattern is painted on.

You can buy a bottle of a sweet and horrible drink known as "Krem Cola," in dual tribute, presumably, to Coca-Cola and the Kremlin.

A good many men here, as soon as they begin to go bald, take heroic measures. They shave their heads bone clean. The Kremlin cars have a special built-in honk, like the crowing of a rooster with laryngitis, to warn lesser citizens out of the way.

The Russians go in heavily for roadside advertising, in favor of toothpaste, peace, vodka, kindness to cows, ice cream sodas, and so on. The results would not impress Messrs. Barton, Durstine and Osborn. The commercial purpose is mysterious anyway, since all consumer goods are snapped up, almost regardless of price, as soon as they appear in the stores.

Abacus for Adding Machine.
In the free market, for example, peasants do a brisk trade at fat prices in what appears to be ordinary goldenrod. The abacus is a universal substitute for the adding machine, even in the state banks.

This last surprise serves to suggest what might rate as a medium-sized surprise—Russia's odd old-fashionedness. The future which John Reed professed to see looks remarkably like the not-too-distant past, preserved with fly-in-amber fidelity.

Take one example. This reporter has just lunched in one of Moscow's two or three most expensive restaurants (all restaurants are expensive, but this one is hideously expensive). The restaurant looks precisely as it must have looked 50 years ago. The green and gilt ceiling, the frescoes meant to deceive the eye, the vast chandeliers, the

Industry Booms in Peru, Freest Economy in South America; Deal With St. Louis Firm a Result

A. S. Aloe Co. Equipping Large Lima Hospital—President Gains Confidence of U.S. Capital by Removing Most Dollar and Profit-Removal Restrictions.

By RICHARD DUDMAN
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

LIMA, July 6.
INDUSTRY, financed largely by United States capital, is booming in Peru in what probably is the freest economy in South America.

In a continent where pegged currencies, import restrictions and profit-remittance controls are the rule, President Manuel A. Odría has created what one of Lima's busy North American bankers calls a classic example of a free economy.

Among the results are the three and one-third million dollar "Aloe contract," signed last May 19 by A. S. Aloe Co. of St. Louis and the Peruvian government for the equipping of the huge employees' Central Social Security hospital nearing completion in Lima.

Odría began public life as a dictator in 1948, but was elected president in 1952. Now he is called emphatically "the constitutional president of Peru." He began financial reforms shortly after seizing power.

Ends Fixed Value of Sol.
He abolished the fixed value of the sol, the Peruvian coin, slightly larger than a United States 50-cent piece, and let it find its own level. It has been steady at 19 to the dollar since last October.

He took off most restrictions, standard devices in most South American countries for conserving dollar balances. Imports of automobiles recently were resumed after being barred for a year, but the embargo is understood to have been aimed more at bailing out overstocked automobile dealers than at holding the sol steady.

Probably most important, Odría removed all restrictions on remittance of profits to foreign-owned companies doing business here. A company's Peruvian manager simply buys dollars at any bank without asking any government permission and mails a draft to the firm's headquarters in the United States or wherever else it may be.

Remittances are so strictly controlled in some other countries—notably Argentina, Brazil and Chile—that foreign corporations must content themselves with piling profits back into elaborate South American offices. In many cases it is virtually impossible to take profits out of the country.

There had been dire predictions of runaway inflation, but Odría successfully rode out a monetary crisis last year and came close to balancing the national budget. He had not had to touch a $30,000,000 loan commitment granted by the United States Treasury, the International Monetary Fund and the Chase National Bank to support the sol. In fact, the Peruvian Reserve Bank has been buying dollars since last September to keep the sol up to 19—in effect supporting the value of the dollar here.

Odría, a lifelong army man, is no economist, but he is a good listener. Those who know him say he has followed good advice so well that his fiscal policies are the best in South America.

Although the Aloe contract is not among the biggest of the new financial undertakings here, it provides a good example of the faith United States business has in continued Peruvian stability. Aloe actually is a minor partner in the deal. Of the three and one-third million dollar commitment, Aloe is putting up only $212,000. Major partners are International General Electric, with $1,100,000, and Grace & Co. with $1,300,000.

Aloe Prime Contractor.
An International General Electric representative explained that Aloe was brought in as prime contractor when it was feared German and French bidders would argue successfully that G.E. and Grace had no experience in equipping hospitals. Their part in the deal has been minimized thus far, and it is called the "Aloe contract."

Under the contract, shipments of equipment are starting immediately. The Peruvian government pays 10 per cent down and the balance over the next five years, at 5 per cent interest. Financing is entirely by the participating companies, without

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

'No' to More Daylight

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
Your editorial, "An Extra Month of Daylight," prompts this response. When the people of St. Louis voted to adopt "Daylight Saving" in 1947 they did so only after being bombarded with a lot of propaganda extolling the benefits to be derived from its adoption.

Eight years have passed since its adoption. Eight years of actual experience. Don't you think it fitting and proper to examine the record and see what the experiment has really accomplished in comparison with its sponsors' glowing promises? Let's take the first one, automotive safety. Isn't it a fact, Mr. Editor, accidents and fatalities involving autos are higher now than ever?

Now No. 2. Youth welfare. Again Mr. Editor, isn't juvenile delinquency greater now than ever and isn't it still increasing?

No. 3. Savings on electric bills. I can only say mine and those of my friends and acquaintances show the same, if not higher figures, than ever before.

No. 4. Gardening. Just how much gardening actually went on? How much was harvested? The drought and heat of the past few years have eliminated gardening very effectively.

No. 5. Pure pleasure. Now you are getting somewhere. For the golfers and tennis players it was and is a boon and as I see the picture they alone are the ones who reap any benefits, if you want to call it that, from it.
H. J. GUTTING.

Reforming Postal Pay?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
The recently enacted postal pay raise bill provides a feeble 6 per cent raise for the low-salaried clerks and raises of from 20 per cent to 58 per cent for the supervisors of the postal service. This is what President Eisenhower referred to as the greatest reform in the postal service in a hundred years.
DANIEL ROSENBLUM.

Action on a Highway

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
Can't something be done about this highway situation? Can't someone force the County Council to reach a decision and let us home owners "off the hook"?

We are willing to give up our homes. A year has passed since we were told that property on the route of the Daniel Boone Highway. We are anxious to do remodeling and repairing but feel this is a waste if the houses are to be condemned.

We have even signed a petition and this was presented to the County Council with more than 4000 signatures for quick action. Still we wait! The threat of "no action" on this highway has taken the incentive out of keeping up property values and home appearances.

Why not let the voters decide on the highways and not leave it up to a select few? We are tired of this political football game.

A Swell Fellow

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
I am one of the fathers of the 2,000,000 boys who have been brainwashed into thinking Davy Crockett was a swell fellow. It makes no difference whether he was or not, as long as the kids think he was a good man and try to follow his lead.

And now Homer's decided to tell them what a bad man he was. Why not tell the kids there is no Santa Claus or no Easter Bunny or that George Washington and Abe Lincoln were no good? TED COTTON.

Where Faith Is Needed

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
It is my belief that no dependable disarmament can occur until confidence of the one side in the other is engendered. No system of inspection can be entirely effective without faith—confidence—in sincerity of motives and actions. Such building of confidence seems at present only a dream. But it must come. There can be no disarmament and peace without it. The confidence-building process will be slow and as Chancellor Adenauer has just said, we must be patient. Patience and prayer are powerful instruments for good. In that direction lies help. It may be the A-bomb has awakened humanity to a long lost sense of brotherhood, devoid of national or racial hatred.
Kirkwood. ROSCOE NUNN.

Wondering About a Party

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
I wonder if Reader John J. Balentine, the State Representative from New Hampshire who supplied you with an analysis of recent Democratic victory and near victories in New England, is even near correct? I wonder whether or not Democratic gains in his area were due more to the fact that the Republican party has been offering less of what can be considered logical candidates? When a party long in power begins to think its election is a cinch and offers candidates and performs in office with that idea in mind, that party is due for a fall. And it did!
ROBERT M. PARKS.
Brentwood.

The Next Target

With the municipal improvement bonds voted and various projects well advanced on the drawing boards, the next essential step in bringing St. Louis up to date is the adoption of a new city charter.

Mayor Tucker has made what may well be considered the opening appeal in a new—and, we trust, final—phase of the campaign for this reform. It should be brought to a climax this fall with the election of Freeholders empowered to draft a brand-new charter for the voters' approval.

No matter how many bonds St. Louis may issue or how it may tax itself, the city's condition will not be satisfactory until it gets a larger measure of home rule, and better administrative machinery for the exercise of that home rule.

Surely it is time that mayors, lesser officials and citizens' committees should be relieved of endless trips to the state capital for grants of authority on exclusively local matters. These involve no state money and do not affect Missourians beyond the metropolitan area. But through their legislators, these unaffected Missourians sometimes have more control over St. Louis affairs than St. Louisans have through their elected aldermen.

It is time, too, as the Mayor says, that St. Louis should have greater authority to protect itself against some of its own. There is, for example, a standing invitation to abuse in the decentralized manner in which city money is now collected and paid out—without even an independent audit. Quite aside from dishonesty, that is just bad business, sheer inefficiency. And inefficiency always costs money.

More serious are the vestigial "county offices" which the city is compelled to support without real control over them. An example is the Sheriff's office. While city employees are under civil service, these offices have jobs available for patronage. And so their occupants have an inordinately strong influence on the city's political organizations and, through these, on its government.

But by now St. Louisans should have heard enough of the handcuffs and hobbles put on St. Louis by a charter adopted in 1914—when it was impossible to anticipate many contemporary necessities—and the state law which deprives St. Louis of the right to do anything not specifically mentioned in that old charter. The time has come to tear it up.

Yet St. Louisans must realize that a serious obstacle is in the City Hall itself. For their own reasons, some aldermen would rather operate under the antiquated rules. They cannot deny all need for change, but they promise to achieve it by charter amendment. This is stuff and nonsense if only because each amendment must be approved in an election just like a whole new charter.

But citizens can let the Aldermen know what they want. They can also free themselves of legislative frustration to a considerable extent. They can adopt a new charter. Thus they have a fundamental power of home rule which should be invoked for the city's progress. A summer of missionary work should bring this to pass in the fall.

Republican Help Is In Order

Speaker Rayburn is fully justified in checking it up squarely to President Eisenhower to get some Republican support for the Administration's public housing bill in the House Rules Committee. When the bill came up in committee last week, Republican votes were against it. This produced a 6-to-6 split and that amounted to a recommendation against the bill.

Since housing is one of the areas of legislation concerning which the President registered his complaint against the Democratic Congress last Wednesday, Mr. Eisenhower is under particular obligation to give some attention to the Republican opposition to his legislation. Surely it is not unreasonable to expect the G.O.P. members to give the White House some help on its proposed legislation.

Or now that he has blasted the Democrats who have been helping perhaps the President intends to build a fire under the Republicans who have been blocking.

Alcoholics Anonymous or Anyone

One of the reasons for the success of Alcoholics Anonymous, which has closed its twentieth anniversary convention here, is the tolerant spirit in which A. A. approaches its work. Members of the organization avoid dogmatic answers to alcoholism and employ techniques suited to an individual case, but mainly they offer a friendly hand to those who need a friend. As a former New York broker told the convention, "We should never proudly assume that A.A. is a cure-all. We should always be friendly and open-minded toward every new development." The speaker received a standing ovation, and he deserved it. His philosophy would prove helpful to many organizations which are not anonymous.

Three rains in three days—what is July trying to do, set a record in its first week?

Born in a Blizzard

Down here in Missouri we have it pretty easy. This bit of philosophizing comes of going through the special edition of the Daily Plainsman celebrating the seventy-fifth anniversary of the founding of Huron, S.D.

Huron was born the year of the blizzard, the like of which neither Strike-the-Ree, chief of the Sioux, nor Spotted Tail, chief of the Brules, had ever seen. Eleven feet of snow fell, making the James river at Huron rise 23 feet above normal the following spring. The town was cut off from the outside world from January to May, and trains ran then only if pushed by hand over the shaky places in the roadbed.

Adversities like these produced such a hardy breed that the Huron Volunteer Fire Department 65 years ago set a world's record in hose cart racing which stands to this day. Thirty-eight seconds flat, 300 yards with a 500-pound cart and 350 feet of hose manned by a 16-man team.

"But the roughest task," writes Editor and Publisher Robert D. Lusk in his anniversary editorial, "was the mid-1930s. Huron had 3-D—drouth, doud storms and depression—long before Hollywood coined the term." The James river at Huron was completely dry. Bones of famished cattle littered the plains. Seas of dust blotted out the sun and darkened the town at mid-day. But the grandchildren of those who had been tough enough to wade into Huron through water everywhere the year the town was born were tough enough to hang on with almost no water anywhere.

Like Huron, one third of our nation is arid—or deficient in rainfall, as the euphemism goes. So is one third of the great globe itself. Therefore it is fortunate indeed that America has produced the kind of Americans who could weather the Great Plains and keep on weathering it this three quarters of a century and more.

Revulsion in Argentina

Juan Peron's appeal to his enemies for a political truce contains a strange note approaching humility. Ordinarily a dictator who has crushed a revolt does not appeal to the vanquished to accept his "open hand."

Only a few weeks ago the Argentine police were arresting Catholics and Peronist mobs were stoning churches. Peron exiled two bishops. But now his Government is in communication with the Vatican and efforts are being made to patch up the conflict with Rome.

Two weeks ago Peron's army put down a brief and bloody revolt of naval elements and there seemed no doubt as to who was boss in Argentina. Yet here is the dictator appealing for peace and even replacing a series of his own high officers. What is the explanation?

Some Buenos Aires dispatches state that the Army which protected Peron is now demanding payment in terms of more realistic and popular governmental policy. Some reports even predict that Peron himself will leave office in the fall.

These reports are speculative. They must be measured against the fact that Juan Peron has survived a series of economic and social crises and even used them to strengthen his hand. But it does appear that Peron's victories against the church and rebellion have not consolidated his power.

If anything, Argentina is enduring a natural and national revulsion against bloodshed which has affected many factions from the Peronistas to their opponents. A Radical party leader in exile, reviewing the events which led to the tired and torn Argentina of today, placed blame on Peron but said the opposition was also guilty.

A dictator who promises peace and progress may misuse his power repeatedly, as Peron has done, but he cannot succeed for long in violence with his own people. In that respect Peron's moment of victory has become an uneasy one.

A Weather Ship for the Gulf

A weather-reporting ship will go on duty soon in the Gulf of Mexico, according to Representatives Boggs and Thompson of Louisiana. The funds will be provided from an extra $4,055,000 that Congress put into the Commerce Department appropriation for improvements in the hurricane and storm-warning system.

The principal value of a weather ship is to planes and seagoing ships. For eight years the United States has co-operated with 14 other nations in maintaining a chain of weather ships for the North Atlantic Ocean Weather Station Program. The ships have proved their worth time and again although in 1953 the Administration's economy ax came within a hair's breadth of scuttling them. Protests from meteorologists and airliner pilots played a part in saving the ships. The addition now of a station in the Gulf of Mexico is further proof of the Administration's realization of the value of the weather ship.

It is likely that the loss of a National Airlines DC-6 with all 46 persons on board in a terrific storm that sprang up suddenly on Feb. 14, 1953, off the Alabama coast played a part in the decision to post a weather ship in the Gulf. This belief is reinforced by a paragraph from the Civil Aeronautics Board final report of May 27, 1954, on the accident:

The probable cause was the loss of control followed by in-flight failure and separation of portions of the airframe structure while the aircraft was traversing an intense frontal-wave type storm of extremely severe turbulence about the severity and location of which the pilot had not been fully informed.

With the addition of a weather ship station in the Gulf, the chances of another such airliner catastrophe as that of Feb. 14, 1953, should be greatly reduced. It is surprising that steps were not taken sooner to get a weather ship in that area so heavily traveled by plane, ship and small craft.

One Russian Sees the Way

After all the nonsense of the Lysenkos, it is a pleasure to be able to agree with an official Russian scientist—A. N. Nesmeyanov, president of the Soviet Academy of Sciences—that the peaceful use of atomic energy offers "majestic prospects" for his country and to all mankind.

Even without atomic energy, the development of natural resources in the almost empty regions of Asiatic Russia has always promised a substantial improvement in living standards. And this is true not only of Siberia. Had there been a genuinely co-operative world atmosphere since the war's end, vast productive enterprises might have been undertaken at less than the cost imposed on nations by the effort to insure their security. New areas could have been opened up and old ones rehabilitated.

Nesmeyanov, however, seems to be no Utopian. He qualified his promise with a warning of the military threat of the atom. But the masters of his government can do much to minimize this. As Walter Lippmann said, the horrors at their command may keep the great powers from releasing them, but the terror-weapons also may fortify the stubbornness of governments, convincing them that they are beyond the compulsions of force and so need yield little to each other. Armed men, however, need not refuse to deal with each other according to reason. Only fear and avarice can dictate such folly. Men can rise above both.

So the question for Nesmeyanov to ponder is whether his own rulers will help the world to rise at least to a higher level of self-interest.

Check This Carefully

A few days ago the newspapers carried an architect's sketch of a proposed memorial to the late Senator Taft of Ohio. As planned, the monument would rise 100 feet above the grounds of the National Capitol.

Congress should look this idea over very carefully. Obviously there cannot be a stone memorial of large size in Washington to every deceased Senator of distinction. As Senator Scott of North Carolina says: "After all there are 48 states and two parties." Only a few Presidents have been memorialized in Washington; and it is only in recent years that the Jefferson memorial was added to the group that includes the Washington and Lincoln memorials.

This reservation is no discredit whatever to Senator Taft. Ohio is free to provide him with just such a memorial as it prefers. Indeed nearly 25 years ago Ohioans raised a memorial to the late President Harding in Marion, O. Actually a President who died of cancer as Robert Taft did might much better be memorialized in a way that would help conquer the disease.

Senator Green of Rhode Island is chairman of the Senate Rules Committee to which the Taft monument bill has been referred. He puts it well when he says that the committee will take a "most careful look" at the precedent that would be involved.

"AND WHERE SHE STOPS NOBODY KNOWS"

A Senator's View of Lyndon Johnson

The Mirror of Public Opinion

New Senator from Oregon says liberal Democrats cannot blame Majority Leader, who has suffered heart attack, for lost opportunities in Congress; he found Senator Johnson sympathetic on party issues; but liberal causes stretch beyond party lines.

Senator Richard Neuberger of Oregon in the New Republic

George Norris once said, "Mine has been a lonely pilgrimage." As a new member of the United States Senate, I believe Norris's experience is a lesson we are going to have to keep in mind. This, in essence, is my personal reaction to the current complaints over the strategy and tactics of the Democratic party leadership in the Senate.

Of course, Lyndon B. Johnson is not as liberal as George W. Norris. Who in politics is, for that matter? Yet I think Johnson is as liberal as he can be and the effective leader of the Senators who sit on the Democratic side of the aisle. We hold a 49-47 margin over the Republicans, and even this majority of onion-peel proportions depends on "conversions" rather than on victory won at the polls.

It exists because (1) my Oregon colleague, Wayne L. Morse, changed his party affiliation from Republican to Democratic, and (2) because Strom Thurmond of South Carolina, triumphant as a write-in candidate over the regular Democratic nominee, has voted with the party which tried to keep him out of the Senate.

What a Single Defection Means

Lyndon Johnson could cease to lead a majority the moment any one Democratic Senator decided Johnson's leadership did not please him. A single defection would throw the Senate into a deadlock of 48 to 48, with Vice President Nixon holding the decisive vote. And even a casual canvass of the Democratic roster would indicate a number of prospects for such a bolt were Johnson to seem to be "too" liberal.

In fact, Johnson can tally among his "followers" at least three or four Democratic Senators who actively supported Eisenhower for President in 1952. Minority Leader Knowland faces no comparable problem. Republicans are far more orthodox.

There is a nervous tendency to saddle Lyndon Johnson with some of our own shortcomings. I hear Johnson criticized because he favored turning over the tideland oil reserves to the states, because he now wants to take natural gas pipelines out from under federal regulation. It is claimed that a majority leader, particularly a Democratic majority leader, should rise above such heinous local pressures.

Interests of Constituents

I do not agree with Senator Johnson in either of his stands which have lured such criticism. But I wonder how much we liberals of modern vintage have a right to assail Johnson for succumbing to the special interests of his Texas constituents.

For example, when it came to removing the oppressive penalty taxes from colored margarine, most contemporary Senate liberals voted with their dairy constituents and against the same consumers whose welfare they champion on the natural-gas. I think only Estes Kefauver warned that everyone's civil liberties might be imperiled by the so-called anti-Communist bill which was whooped through the Senate in 1954.

To be quite candid about it, I cannot understand why Lyndon Johnson is expected to display Victoria Cross political qualities when his liberal critics are not themselves bent double with the weight of decorations won for bravery under heavy fire.

Johnson cannot be fairly blamed for some of the lost opportunities which have occurred thus far since Congress convened:

1. Echo Park. This is the proposed dam which will breach our National Park System with commercial development for the first time in history. In a dubious effort to get some Rocky Mountain Republicans to vote for such bonafide projects as Hell's Canyon, many Senate liberals actually gave strong support to Echo Park.

2. Salk vaccine. If anything has stirred the conscience of America, it is the harsh stand taken by the Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare toward the safety and distribution of the new anti-polio vaccine. Yet efforts in the Senate to underscore this situation have been, at best, disorganized and sporadic. And Senate liberals failed to take advantage of the existing circumstances to present a long-range health program.

Protests From 'Security Risks'

3. Prevailing wages. After the Davis-Bacon Amendment providing for payment of standard wage rates was included in the Gore Highway bill in committee, an amendment made its appearance on the floor to eliminate this guarantee of fair pay in the spending of approximately $18 billion in public funds. This presented a traditional opening for Senate liberals, who had fought for a decent wage rate. But the vast majority of Senate liberals were not even on the floor when the perfunctory debate occurred.

4. The Security program. If my office is typical, every Senator is buried beneath a cascade of letters from men and women who have been separated from either federal military or civilian service as "security risks." But the fight now being made by ex-Senator Harry P. Cain, for all his faults, should be receiving the active and continuing support of some of the articulate liberals.

Although this may bring some skepticism, I would venture the thought that sheer physical exhaustion figures in some of the lost opportunities of the current session.

Persistence Is Needed

Still, the coal miner must toll when he is tired, and so must Senators. George Norris had a dogged persistence, and this is one of our needs today. Nor can any lack of such qualities be rightfully attributed by us or by our liberal adherents to the Democratic leadership. Lyndon Johnson, for example, wasn't within cablegram distance of the decision by Senate liberals to let the Echo Park issue go by the boards. In fact, Johnson himself might have been on the conservation side if the Democrat liberals had made a fight of it.

Have we gone so soft that we embark only on expeditions which take us no more than a discus throw from the majority leader's chambers? If Norris had waited for an official fiat from either political party before he hit the high trail to reform, the TVA and rural electrification would still be due about the year 2000.

GENIUS REQUIRED

From the Lawrence (Kan.) Outlook.
"A modern farmer must be a combination of mechanic, financier, executive and laborer. He should understand fundamental economic principles and the wonders of soil chemistry. Hybrid vigors, antibiotics, hormones, fungicides, or, antibiotics, hormones, fungicides, nematodes, the ring test and cost accounting are parts of his daily vocabulary."—The Nation's Agriculture. Quoted to show the reason why there is an increase in the number of vacant farm homes. Nobody is smart enough to be a farmer.

No Idyllic Interlude

A VILLA IN SUMMER, by Penelope Mortimer. (Harcourt, Brace, 272 pp., $3.50.)

The pleasant title of this novel is misleading. It is no idyllic interlude in a sylvan setting. That very disappointment is of a piece with the cynicism which pervades the book.

When Andrew and Emily Addams are offered a house in the country it looks as if it would mean blessed liberation from cramped existence with two young children in a London flat designed for childless couples. But disillusion quickly sets in. It rains. The help quits. The vicar is hostile, more so after his lumpy daughter forms a sticky attachment to the new family. Schooling—the family stays on past summer—leads to many complications. But worst of all, with the change of locale Andrew and Emily find no escape from the noise of their own dull lives. This is the crux of the story.

The writer skillfully presents scene after scene in which husband and wife miss the moment for genuine sympathy, for tenderness, or for laughter together. She shows a fine appreciation for the inter-personal subtleties of marriage, toward which, however, it is hard to believe she feels kindly.

Her own attitude may be summed up in the words of Eric, headmaster of the school, amateur psychiatrist, mischief-maker par excellence, as he is snarling Emily: after a long quote from D. H. Lawrence on real love, he goes on, "Real life is to be alone, disregarded, taken for granted. A scapegoat for an upset liver and a guilty conscience." These are smart words, but hardly reassuring.

There's not one of the disreputable lot of gossip men and vain women who spike up-country life with stops at the village pub that has a more positive outlook on life. Indeed, readers of post-war World War I fiction will find odd familiar tones of general disintegration in this book. The author keeps the story from bogging down in its own mire by plenty of dramatic action, not always credible, unless one believes that with those characters anything can happen. The children in the story make a particular appeal, victims as they are of the miserable adults.

Penelope Mortimer writes with competence and, now and then, brilliance.

Study of Red Propaganda

WORLDWIDE COMMUNIST PROPAGANDA ACTIVITIES, edited by F. Bowen Evans. (Macmillan, 22 pp., $1.)

Last year Communist nations spent over three billion dollars on propaganda. This valuable study, based on unpublished reports of United States Government representatives, outlines Red objectives, lists leading international Communist fronts, breaks down publishing and broadcasting activities. Broadcasts are analyzed by areas, hours of time and regional objectives. The editor, F. Bowen Evans, has taught and studied at Columbia University.

Communist propaganda's chief goal is to drive a wedge between the United States and its allies. In areas that are not yet vulnerable to Communist takeover, it "seeks to create neutralism and anti-American sentiment." The troubles of colonial and underdeveloped areas, the Reds chant, are all caused by Western "imperialism." By blandishments, they appeal to the world's hope for peace, and by threats they work on the world's fear of war.

In July, 1954, the study says, a strategic shift in Red propaganda became noticeable, with greater emphasis on the possibility of "peaceful co-existence." Also, there was an intensified East-West trade campaign, and increased cultural exchange with Western Europe.

WALTER LIPPMANN

False Notions About Disarmament

WASHINGTON. THERE IS A GROWING IMPRESSION that the Soviet Union would like to talk seriously about armaments. Mr. Molotov has been saying so in private conversations and in the Soviet proposals of May 11 there are some striking passages which show that the Kremlin has been taking a new look at modern war.

This does not mean that they are likely to accept the proposals which we have been making during the past 10 years. There is no more chance of that than there is of our accepting their proposals. If anything at all is to come of the new discussions, it is that they are to be lifted above what Mr. Selwyn Lloyd once called "the morass of disagreements," it will be necessary to rethink and to redefine the problem of armaments.

Molotov

Council, to the General Assembly, and to all states—all of them "inherently" incapable of waging war—"to permit appropriate action to be taken."

If Victory Were Improbable.

The Soviets, luckily for us, would never look at these proposals, having no intention of inviting Western intelligence agents to see the inside of their military and industrial system. The fallacy of the conception we have been working with is, I believe, to suppose that there is such a thing as absolute disarmament—such a thing as making war inherently impossible. The alternative conception is to recognize that each nation's armaments are relative to the armaments of his rival and adversary—no matter whether the military forces are at a high level or at a low level.

Reserves and Production.

In a United States memorandum of 1952 we laid it down that "the goal of disarmament is . . . to prevent war . . . by making war inherently . . . impossible." We have assumed that the way to attain this goal was under a system of supervision and control to reduce armaments to some point at which war would be inherently impossible to wage. But is there any such point?

In effect these schemes would, if they could be enforced, reduce the military establishment in being and the stockpiles of munitions; the advantage in war would then depend on the mobilization of reserves and of manufacturing capacity.

The goal—to make war "inherently impossible" is itself inherently impossible. For the proof we have only to look at how elaborate and Utopian are the schemes put forward to attain the goal.

As the powers are to agree to make themselves inherently incapable of waging war, they are to agree, as a Western memorandum of a year ago said, on "all types of weapons, all types of armed forces, and military facilities of all kinds." Think of it.

The Little Tin God's Job.

They are to agree even on the number of "military rifles, carbines, revolvers and pistols"; for wars can be waged, with rifles, carbines, revolvers and pistols.

To supervise and control these infinitely complicated agreements we have been proposing that all the powers agree to construct a little tin god, to be known as the Authority with a capital A: "The Authority would be empowered to supervise and control progressive and continuous disclosure and verification of all armed forces, including para-military, security and police forces, and all armaments including atomic armaments."

And what is the little tin god to do if it finds a violation of the agreement? The little tin god is to report to the Security

HICKEY DESCRIBES DESEGREGATION HERE

Tells Educators' Convention It Has Been 'Outstandingly Successful.'

CHICAGO, July 6 (UP)—Philip J. Hickey, Superintendent of Instruction of the St. Louis public schools, said yesterday that desegregation of schools will provide not only a "more democratic" community but more value for the taxpayer's money.

Hickey reported on his city's desegregation program at the National Education Association meeting.

Hickey said the St. Louis experience in integrating white and Negro school populations has been "outstandingly successful" because of careful advance planning, whole-hearted community support and firm execution.

He told the meeting St. Louis perhaps was not typical of all segregated school areas because it is a "border" city where integration in other segments of society has been progressing for years.

He said at the time the Supreme Court outlawed segregation there were 39 schools for Negroes in St. Louis, plus a number of special schools.

Integration by Stages.

He said St. Louis embarked on a year-long program of gradual integration starting with junior colleges and colleges because the students and faculty of these have more "social maturity." He said the program has progressed through the high schools and will be completed in September when the elementary and technical high schools are integrated.

Hickey said a careful redistricting of school areas as part of integration has had the beneficial effect of easing the burden on over-populated schools and filling up under-populated schools.

He said he believed integration would result in the city "becoming a more unified and more democratic American community and in its public school system becoming a more truly efficient servant of such a community."

At the same time, he said the city will receive greater value for its tax dollar "because of the elimination of unnecessary duplication of facilities, reduction in expense of transportation, and elimination of waste in classrooms at a time when classrooms are at a premium."

Student Participation.

Hickey added that students themselves were handed much of the responsibility of making integration work. He said they participated in meetings and wrote articles and welcoming editorials for school papers.

Already, he said Negro children have become active in sports and organizations of former white schools and have been elected to important student posts.

John Lester Buford, superintendent of schools at Mount Vernon, Ill., was nominated to be new president of the N.E.A., and Martha Shull, a Portland, Ore., teacher, was nominated for first vice president. Nominations are tantamount to election, Friday.

Grandma Wins $32,000, Faces $64,000 Question on Bible Now

MRS. CATHERINE E. KREITZER hugging Holy Bible after correctly answering $12,000 Biblical question on television quiz show.

Pennsylvania Woman Has Week to Decide Whether to Take Chance to Double Money.

NEW YORK, July 6 (AP)—Mrs. Catherine E. Kreitzer has a week to decide whether to take the $32,000 she has won on a television quiz show or risk losing it in a try for $64,000.

The 54-year-old grandmother from Camp Hill, Pa., survived the next-to-last hurdle in the CBS program, "The $64,000 Question," when she gave correct answers to a three-part Bible question last night.

A devout Bible reader all her life, Mrs. Kreitzer had chosen to be quizzed on the Bible when she started on the program two weeks ago. That night she reached the $8000 mark and last week came back to win $16,000.

Among for the $32,000 last night, she was given the names of Matthew, Peter, James the Greater and James the Less and was asked to complete the list of the 12 apostles.

For a moment it appeared she might lose out when she skipped John. She quickly ran through the list a second time, however, and named the missing one as well as Andrew, Philip, Bartholomew, Thaddeus, Thomas, Simon and Judas Iscariot.

She had no trouble with the remaining two parts of the question: How did Matthew and Peter make their living and who was the father of James the Less? She replied without hesi-

FRANCE DREW MOST U.S. TOURISTS IN EUROPE IN 1954

WASHINGTON, July 6 (UP)—France played host to more American tourists last year than any other western European nation. But some of the biggest spenders went to Italy, Spain and Scandinavia.

The Commerce Department said 244,000 Americans visited France, spending a record $72,000,000. Excluding trans-Atlantic fares, this was an average of $297 each.

The department said 183,000 Americans visited Italy and spent $64,000,000, an average of $348. About 55,000 Americans went to Spain and Portugal and spent $18,000,000, an average of $320. Some 57,000 Americans visited Scandinavia, spending a total of $20,000,000, an average of $351.

Britain attracted 221,000 tourists, the second largest total. They spent $64,000,000, an average of $293 each.

HEARING ON OZARK EXPRESSWAY ROUTE

County Sets Meeting on Proposed Change in Sappington Area.

A decision by the State Highway Commission to reroute 2.6 miles of the proposed Ozark expressway in the Sappington area will be the subject of a public hearing before the St. Louis County Planning Commission Aug. 16, it was announced today by M. Eugene Baughman, county planning director.

That part would connect Sappington road with U.S. Highway 66. As previously routed, the expressway would go northwest and meet Highway 66 near its intersection with Lindbergh boulevard. Under the new plan, it would go almost directly west from Sappington and Eddie and Park roads and join 66 at the Meramec river, at Sylvan Beach.

Myer Abelman, urban area engineer for the highway commission, said the new route would cost less because fewer buildings would have to be cleared away for the right-of-way.

He said the change resulted from agreement by the commission and the Federal Bureau of Public Roads to designate Highway 66 through Missouri as a freeway, with access from adjacent property prohibited, instead of a highway with controlled access.

A public hearing is required by state law in order for the new route to be included in the county's master plan for highways.

L. Gordon Davis, Republican member of the county council, said he would move at a council meeting this afternoon for approval of an agreement with the highway commission designating the route of the Daniel Boone expressway through Richmond Heights. Under that plan the expressway would connect with the Express Highway a short distance east of Skinner boulevard.

MRS. KATHARINE F. HURST ESTATE VALUED AT $142,138

The estate of Mrs. Katharine F. Hurst, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick W. Freier, Jr., 10 Frontenac drive, Frontenac, was valued at $142,138 in an inventory filed yesterday in probate court in Clayton.

Principal assets included diversified stocks with a market value of $120,424; cash, $14,919; and bonds, $6,795. As Mrs. Hurst died intestate, under state law the estate is divided equally between her two young sons, Robert H. Hurst Jr. and Frederick W. Hurst. They now live with their father in Berkeley, Calif.

The Hursts were divorced. Mrs. Hurst was killed in a sports car accident in Atlanta, Ga., on June 4. She had moved there a month previously from St. Louis. She was 34 years old.

RESHEVSKY BEATS RUSSIAN 2½ TO 1½ IN CHESS MATCH

MOSCOW, July 6 (UP)—Samuel Reshevsky, top chess player of the United States, scored a major upset last night by winning a four-game match with world champion Mikhail Botvinnik of the Soviet Union.

Reshevsky and Botvinnik drew three of their four games, including last night's final one, when the Russian had to fight hard to draw in 31 moves. Reshevsky had won the first game of the match, giving him a score of 2½ points to 1½ for Botvinnik. The world championship was not at stake in the team match.

The Russians already have won handily on total points. The score after last night's play at the end of all fourth-round games stood at 21 for the Russians to six for the Americans. Five games are still to be completed from earlier rounds.

PRESIDENTIAL PAPERS BILL PASSED IN HOUSE

Provides for U.S. Operation of Libraries Built By Private Donations.

WASHINGTON, July 6 (UP)—The House approved a bill yesterday providing for federal operation of presidential libraries built with private donations.

The measure would set up for the first time a system for preserving private papers of American Presidents, many of which have been lost or dispersed in the 166 years of the Republic's existence.

Libraries for the Truman and Eisenhower collections are now in the process of formation. They would be the only two immediately affected by the bill.

The measure was passed by voice vote and sent to the Senate.

Representative John E. Moss (Dem., California), said the cost for each library probably would run about $150,000 a year with offsetting revenue from visitors' fees cutting the net cost to about $100,000.

Eventually, he said, 12 or 15 such libraries may be operated and the total cost of formation might be $1,500,000. He said it would be "money well spent."

The bill would allow the General Services Administration to accept as a gift for the Federal Government presidential libraries built by private donation to house papers, recorded speeches and other possessions of past, present and future Presidents.

Moss said he doubted that former President Hoover's papers, which were turned over to Stanford University, will be donated to the Federal Government under the new program.

The Truman library is to be built in Missouri and the Eisenhower library in Kansas, both with private funds.

THE SPORTS BEAT

by John P. Carmichael

The Chicago Daily News-Post-Dispatch, Special Dispatch, Cincinnati, July 6

THE true confession of "Preacher" Roe, in which the former Dodger pitcher admitted throwing illegal spitballs during his big-league career, leaves Birdie Tebbetts, the Cincinnati manager, unmoved.

"They all tell the truth when they're through," he said. "Personally I think it's a most over-publicized and under-pitched story, although... and he stopped, and blinked his pale blue eyes at Jim Dykes, the Redleg coach.

"You played behind Howard Ehmke in 1929 when he fanned 13 Cubs in that first World Series game," continued Tebbetts. "What was he throwing?"

Dykes lowered his dark glasses over that pug nose. "Well, I did hear later that there was a little mud on some of the pitches," said Jim blandly. "Made the ball move a little better."

"Personally I don't mind anybody throwing spitballs," said Tebbetts. "Only I don't want 'em to show it to me. Let's have a little intrigue about it..."

The Redleg pilot was a master of such intrigue when he caught Tommy Bridges at Detroit years ago. Tebbetts actually fixed the spitball for Tommy.

"I'd put the juice on it," he admitted, "and I developed a knack of throwing the ball back to the mound so that it didn't rotate or spin."

Right on the Top. O BRIDGES could catch it right side up, you might say, and the spit was there on top for him to put his fingers on when he was ready. Everybody knew he was throwing one, but couldn't see him do anything to the ball. We only used it on tough hitters in tight spots."

Back in Tebbetts' early days the Tigers had a spitballer named Hal McKain, who wasn't too hot as a straightaway pitcher, but who could use a "doctored" ball, i.e., not a spitball, but a roughed-up spheroid. So necessity became the mother of invention.

Tebbetts filed a subpoena named Hal McKain, who wasn't too hot as a straightaway pitcher, but who could use a "doctored" ball, i.e., not a spitball, but a roughed-up spheroid. So necessity became the mother of invention.

Every time McKain put a new ball in play, "Birdie" would call for an outside toss and as he picked it up, he'd swipe the ball across the rivet and etch a small furrow in it.

"We were a success," laughed Tebbetts, "until I finally had to quit. I didn't dare look down, of course, to make contact and sometimes I'd miss with the ball and lacerate my fingers. My hand finally got cut up so much, I couldn't stand it."

There are, naturally, some pitchers today who use the outlawed spitball in time of stress, just as Roe confessed in his recent magazine article. Tebbetts named a few without hesitation. And, of course, if there's any protest by the opposition, the ball is called for inspection by the umpires.

It Happened in '54. BUT sometimes before it gets to them, it is dropped on the ground or thrown away. . . . Accidentally. . . . Until the evidence is wiped off by contact with dry or dusty surfaces.

"I don't want the spitball restored legally," insisted Tebbetts. "But I think it's kinda fun to throw it. It's done now. . . . And it's not always as effective as generally believed."

In fact the Cincinnati manager recalled a day from the 1954 calendar on which a certain National League right-hander faced Ted Kluszewski, the Redleg slugger, with two men on base in a close game. Ted had treated this veteran pretty rough on previous occasions and he decided to take extreme precautions. He "loaded" the ball with spit and let 'er go.

"It broke beautifully," remembered Tebbetts, "but Kluszewski, who didn't know what was coming. . . . and wouldn't have cared if he did. . . . put the ball 30 rows into the rightfield stands. Little things like that have a disturbing effect on a pitcher."

"And 'Birdie' screwed his features into an expression of utmost innocence. Prime exponents of the spitball, when it was part of the pitchers' manual, were Clarence Mitchell and Ben Grimes and Frank Shellenback, among others. . . . And when they threw it, you almost got a bath in the bargain. . . ."

Mrs. Parker Gains Third Round in Munny Tennis Meet Mrs. Marcelina Parker, seeded No. 1 for the Municipal tennis tournament, advanced to the third round of play yesterday with a decisive 6-1, 6-0 victory over Mary Bonkud.

Also entering the third round was Erika Puetz who defeated Betty Carapeen, 6-1, 6-3, and Johanna Kohler, 6-2, 6-0.

Harriet Meike defeated Mary Glendenin, 6-0, 6-4, and Jane Hudlin defeated Louise Friedman, 6-2, 6-0, in other matches.

In the men's singles, Ted Simmons eliminated John Reeves, 6-0, 6-1. Neil Drury defeated Joe Haffner, 6-0, 6-1, and Chuck McKinley advanced on a first round default by Lee Pine.

Long Shot Triumphs. WESTBURY, N. Y., July 6 (UP)—Judy Tass beat Doc Hanover by a length and returned $57.90 for $2 last night in the featured Roosevelt Raceway D'Arigian was third. The win was Judy Tass' fifth in 14 starts this year. She returned $17.90 for place and $7.90 for show.

Furgol Among Early Leaders in British Open Golf With 71

Trails by 2 Strokes; Nelson Has 72 Round

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, July 6 (UP)—An angered Ed Furgol made the best showing of the five Americans in the British Open golf championship today when he shot a first round 71 that left him only two strokes behind three deadlocked leaders.

Syd Scott of England and Dai Rees of Wales, who were runnersup in 1954, and Eric Brown of Scotland all shot "old" St. Andrews course to share the first day lead in the 72-hole tournament.

Of the five Americans who qualified Monday and Tuesday for the tournament proper, all but Johnny Bulla of Pittsburgh fared well. Veteran Byron Nelson of Roanoke, Tex., and amateurs Joe Conrad of San Antonio, Tex., and Jimmy McHale of Wynnewood, Pa., each shot an even par 72.

Bulla, throwing clubs in disgust because of his poor putting, carded a 75 that left him six strokes off the pace.

Despite his fine round that included two birdies on each nine holes, Furgol angrily blasted officials at the Royal and Ancient Club for what he termed poor treatment of visiting pro golfers.

Nelson, 43-year-old former United States champion, had a 38-34 and might have done better had it not been for his putting. He, too, had trouble, barely missing disqualification before teeing off.

Conrad, the 1955 British amateur champion who led the Americans in the two qualifying rounds, shot a 37-35; McHale, also an amateur, had a 36-36, and Bulla a 37-38, blowing up on the last five holes.

Nelson Almost Disqualified. An official of the Royal and Ancient club hurried to the first tee and reminded Nelson against taking some practice shots down the first fairway. The veteran American pro, asked to pose for photographers on the first tee, dropped a dozen balls, took a driver from his caddy, and made a few practice swings.

Eric Brickman, secretary of the club, then hurriedly approached and warned Nelson that he would be disqualified under the rules of the tournament if he hit a practice shot down the fairway. Nelson promptly picked up the golf balls and left the tee.

Furgol, who today became known as "the angry man of St. Andrews" because of his displeasure over treatment by tournament officials, played around with exaggerated deliberateness. He pondered every shot with extraordinary care and often checked the wind direction as many as five times for one shot. He also took time out to clear minute bits of grass and scraps from the greens even when they were not in the path of his ball.

But His Game Improves. As a result, although his style of play exasperated officials, the fans and other players, Furgol's game was excellent.

He sank a 12-foot putt for a birdie on the first hole and put his approach two feet from the pin on the second for another birdie. Furgol lost one stroke to par on the fifth when he hit into a bunker and two-putted from 14 feet. He also bogied the ninth by three-putting from 12 feet.

The withered-armed United States pro shot another birdie on the short eleventh by putting his tee shot within one-putt distance, and added another bird on the 360-yard twelfth, where he drove to the edge of the green and two-putted.

On the seventh, he lost one stroke to par when he shot an approach short and then

All of the 36-hole qualifying rounds were discarded and the 94 survivors started from scratch as the 72 holes of the tournament proper got underway today in warm but slightly breezy weather with only a slight breeze crossing the course. However, the wind was expected to increase by the time the four other yanks got half-way through their rounds.

Gorman, Yankee Castoff, Sparks A's Surge to 10 Wins in 12 Games

NEW YORK, July 6 (AP)—There were snickers when the Kansas City Athletics shelled out $50,000 to get Tom Gorman, last March—but maybe it wasn't such a bad deal after all.

The A's took a sizeable risk in the deal and it looked worse when Blackwell and Kryhoski departed for the minors. But now Gorman has come through with the big payoff.

Only a so-so relief pitcher in three trials with the Yankees, Gorman has looked almost brilliant for the A's. He flashed his stuff again last night, putting down an eighth-inning rally and going on to beat the Cleveland Indians, 4-3.

It was the tenth victory in the last 12 decisions for the A's and Gorman, a 29-year-old right-hander, has won two of them and saved five others. For the season, Gorman has made 29 appearances, nailing up a 4-1 record (the defeat came on an unearned Boston run May 13) and saving nine other games.

The bespectacled New Yorker, who won his chances with the Yankees on his minor league showing with the old Kansas City Blues, came in against the Indians with the score tied at 3-3 on Jim Hegan's homer off starter Bobby Shantz. The little lefty left with two on and two out and Gorman got Al Rosen on a foul pop with his first pitch to end the inning.

Gorman retired the Tribe in order in the ninth. Joe DeMaestri and Hector Lopez, each homered to bring the A's home safe. Lopez smacked his third of the season in the eighth for the big run.

'Weekend Golfer' Becomes Britain's Hero

Unheralded 43-year-old Yorkshireman, FRANK JOWLE, who has been just an ordinary amateur "weekend golfer" became the toast of Britain when he won medalist honors in the British Open championship tournament at St. Andrews, Scotland. Jowle scored a sensational 135 total for 36 holes, second lowest in tournament history. He is here shown besieged by autograph hunters as he finishes his qualifying round.

missed a four-foot putt, taking a five. Not even this fine round could curb his irritation. Although he had nothing but praise for the St. Andrews course previously, he was critical today.

Bobby Locke of South Africa, who has been British Open champion three times, shot an opening round 74 and also complained about the condition of the course.

"On the ninth and tenth holes I played perfect shots which landed in divot holes and cost me fives," Locke said.

Bulla Looks to 75. Johnny Bulla of Pittsburgh, a perennial entry in the British Open, shot a first round 37-38. 75. He was even par through the first 13 holes but shot bogies on the fourteenth, fifteenth and eighteenth to mar his card.

Bulla, troubled by poor putting, stalked angrily from the 18th green. He had thrown his clubs, especially his putter, in the air during his round. When finished he did not bother to turn in his card personally but left the job to the official marker. Bulla also ignored the regular exit and stalked down the fairway and jumped a fence on the way to his hotel.

Bulla three-putted three greens. His tee shots were long and straight, but his approaches were off just enough to leave him with sizeable putts. On the 18th hole, he did not even bother to line up his second putting attempt and missed a six-footer by four inches, giving him a bogey.

Champion Shoots 71. Among the other early finishers, Henry Cotton of England, who has won the Open title three times, and Cecil Denny, also of England, each shot a 70. Peter Thomson of Australia, the defending champion, and Harry Weetman of England each carded a 71.

Dennis Smalldon, former Welsh champion, shot a 70 to tie Denny and Cotton for second place among the early finishers.

All of the 36-hole qualifying rounds were discarded and the 94 survivors started from scratch as the 72 holes of the tournament proper got underway today in warm but slightly breezy weather with only a slight breeze crossing the course. However, the wind was expected to increase by the time the four other yanks got half-way through their rounds.

Wins at U. City. Mrs. Fred Breuckner, with a net of 33, won first flight honors in the weekly tournament sponsored by the University City Women's Association. Mrs. Robert Potashnick, 35, won second flight honors and Mrs. Pearl Schultz, 46, had low net in the third flight.

In the Ozarks With Stokely

By Z. Lee Stokely Ozark Sportsman and Outdoors Writer.

The first forecast of Ducks Unlimited, Inc., indicates a hatching and rearing year that will be comparable to that of the outstanding 1952 season. July and August are the months which make or break the size of the duck flight that wings southward when the season opens in the fall. Both weather and water conditions to date have been excellent. High precipitation has produced ideal nesting conditions. Birds are nesting on high points safe from the usual flooding.

Rains have hampered agricultural activities and a major portion of the broods will be on the move before farming operations threaten the nests. Alberta, Manitoba and Saskatchewan reports are all favorable at present. Biologists believe that there has been sufficient rainfall to eliminate any threat of drought this season.

Observers for Ducks Unlimited, United States Fish and Wildlife Service, Canadian provincial departments and various state wildlife agencies are now in the field to report the progress of this year's hatch. Missouri is represented by Yuell L. Willis and Richard Vaughn. Willis has been assigned to duck banding operations in Saskatchewan. This province sends many a mallard down the Mississippi flyway. Vaughn will work out of Fort Severn, near Hudson's Bay goose breeding grounds.

Appropriations Cut. Reduced appropriations for programs pertaining to waterfowl preservation and propagation have forced the Fish and Wildlife Service to dip into duck stamp funds for its general operations. The total cut was more than $1,500,000. Several bills have been introduced in this session of Congress that would require the Fish and Wildlife Service to spend not less than 40 per cent of the duck stamp receipts for the purchase of additional waterfowl lands. A large part of the duck stamp money at present is being spent for maintenance and development of waterfowl refuges.

The 214,000 acres of marshlands that have been purchased with duck stamp funds and some 3,250,000 other acres of waterfowl refuge land have been developed and are being maintained with this money. Currently the Service is farming 98,925 acres to raise food for the ducks and geese that frequent the refuges. At certain times of the year about one-half of the continent's population of waterfowl is dependent on these areas.

Waterfowl habitat in Canada is becoming more restricted each year. Consider the prairie pothole area, covering 217,000 square miles of fertile land dotted with marshes and ponds, in Alberta, Manitoba, Saskatchewan, the Dakotas and western Minnesota. This area is the breeding ground for a third of the continental duck population. Today, it is yielding to the demands of an intense agriculture program and in the last two years some 44,000 potholes have been drained. In the United States a total of $4,543,009 was received from the sale of duck stamps in 1954, and only $494,614 was spent for the purchase of migratory waterfowl refuges.

Comeback from Low in '52. In 1952 the duck population was at its lowest. Water areas in Canada and the northern nesting states all but disappeared. Waterfowl had reached the lowest point in history. Severe restrictions on the lake were ordered, but control of the hunter kill was far from the answer to the basic problem of where the birds would find suitable nesting cover, food and protection.

Today, the outlook is bright. But one or two extreme drought

Holtmann Wins First Match in Mid-West Meet

CINCINNATI, July 6 — Al Holtmann, St. Louis, survived the first round of the Western tri-state tennis tournament here yesterday, defeating Karl Kamrath, Houston, 9-7, 6-1.

Wimbledon champion Tony Trabert advanced easily through the first two rounds but fourth seeded Sam Giammalva of Houston, Tex., was ousted by an unheralded player from Dayton, Ohio.

Trabert, playing on his home court at the Cincinnati Tennis Club, defeated Chalmers Raliff of Cincinnati, 6-1, 6-1, 6-1, and John Ben of Oklahoma City, 6-3, 7-5.

Giammalva was whipped by Barry MacKay, 19-year-old Dayton player, 7-5, 6-6, 6-3.

Angry Furgol Blasts Scots And Their Revered Golf Links

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, July 6 (UP)—Ed Furgol, former United States Open golf champion, said today he and other pros were "disgusted" with the treatment accorded them by St. Andrews officials at the British Open tournament.

"I have endured discomforts and irritations that no visiting name player ever has had to endure in the United States," said Furgol after completing his opening round today with a one-under-par 71. "And I am not alone in this, for all visiting professionals, especially Americans and Australians, are disgusted with some of the treatment meted out here."

Furgol's anger was aroused yesterday over an incident involving his protegee, Mike Krak of Weirton, W. Va., in the second qualifying round. Krak's chances of qualifying for the tournament proper were hurt when a decision by Alex Hill, St. Andrews' one-man complaints committee, cost him two strokes. The penalty was for a lost ball which all spectators in the vicinity believed was stolen by a spectator.

"That really finished me," sputtered Furgol, who strode around the course today grimaced and irritable.

Furgol has been dissatisfied with arrangements since his arrival. He has complained about having to change clothes at a hotel rather than be taken to dressing rooms at the St. Andrews clubhouse. He said overseas players have been staggered by old prejudices against professionals still existing at the Royal and Ancient club, long held in high esteem by all Scots.

"The curt dismissal given Krak's plea makes us think we won't get a fair deal here," Furgol continued. "That's all we want, a fair deal. But will we get it?"

Furgol, who previously had won the hearts of the Scottish galleries by his gentlemanly action, turned "tiger" today. On the second hole, when a small boy asked him for his autograph, Furgol angrily knocked the book to the ground with a backhand sweep.

He also paced irritably around the tees when delayed by slow players and persisted in clearing minute bits of paper and loose grass from the greens even when they were not in the line of path with his ball.

"The fairways here make you gouge your shots," he commented. "What St. Andrews needs is a complete cleaning and pressing job."

Stockhams to Meet Aubuchons for City Legion Title

Kirkwood In County Playoffs

By John J. Archibald
Belleville fails to retain the state championship it won in last year's American Legion junior baseball play, it won't be because of a lack of good pitching. In six games, Belleville hurlers Teddy Tedesco and Kent Weisenstein have allowed just three runs, yet Belleville has lost twice.

One of the defeats was a 1-0 loss to Nashville, in which the visitors obtained two hits. Belleville's other defeat was by Fast St. Louis, when the East Siders made three hits good for a 2-0 triumph.

The Belleville club, coached by Norman (Manny) Schlueter and Vince Oughten, is assured of a spot in the Shaughnessy playoffs that will determine the state play this year, although it trails East St. Louis, which has a 5-1 record. The top two teams in the North and South divisions will meet in a two-losses-and-out tournament next week.

Norm Biebel, manager of the Belleville team, is seeking practice games with St. Louis teams. He may be contacted at Adams 3-4425J.

Granite City Leads.
Granite City is all but mathematically sure of one of the Northern Zone playoff spots with its 6-1 record. The north group has a 10-game schedule. Five other teams have nearly equal chances of getting in the playoffs with Granite, Edwardsville, Alton, Wood River, Collinsville and Venice, all have three or four defeats, with numerous ties and postponed games still to be run off.

Yesterday's rain pushed St. Louis county's Zera-Smith League two days closer to a possibility of real headache. The two final games were rescheduled for tomorrow evening, which allows little time for a playoff if either two or three teams wind up tied for first place.

The county playoffs will be held Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday at Baldwin, with Kirkwood representing the south part of the suburban area. Either Thomann-Boothe, Creve Coeur or Pine Lawn posts could still win out in the Zera-Smith loop at Heman Park.

Leads Hitters.
Catcher Rich Rogers is leading the hard-hitting Stockham Post team with a .516 average for eight games. He has 16 hits in 31 times at bat. Rogers, who was on the All-District basketball teams for two years in succession, had a .419 average for champion Beaumont in the Public League this season.

One of the two Riverview Gardens high school players on the Stockham squad, Second Baseman Frank Bevoilo, has the second best average, .435.
Stockham will meet Aubuchon-Dennison for the city title Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

The Maplewood Post team, which took third place in the national finals last year, provided the "picture of the year" for American Legion junior baseball. Immediately after Maplewood was eliminated from the tournament by the eventual champion, San Diego, the Maplewood players went to the San Diego dugout to congratulate the winners, and a newspaperman got a picture of this action, which was reproduced on the cover of the Legion's baseball rulebook this season.

Two players who are identifiable are Catcher Hank Kuhlmann and Second Baseman Marshall Witterton, but others can be seen in the background. Lou Brissie, the Legion baseball commissioner, said he thought the picture best expressed the purposes of the program.

Maplewood, which was eliminated from further competition by league rival Kirkwood, will have eight players back next season. Only Pitcher Jackie Satterwhite will be left over from the 1954 team.

Maplewood broke even on a two-game exhibition trip over the holiday weekend, losing at Canton, Ill., 9-1, before 2000 people, then defeating Jacksonville, 7-3.

Lennon Leads Voting For All-Star Berth
LOUISVILLE, Ky., July 6 (UP)—Injured Minneapolis Outfielder Bob Lennon today lead all selections in the tabulation of the first four days of balloting for the American Association all-star team.

The big left-handed slugger from Brooklyn, N.Y., leads with 14,899 votes. He also leads the association in both home runs and runs-batted-in despite the fact that he has been out of action since June 14 with a shoulder injury.

The second highest vote total of 14,688 votes was collected by Third Baseman Rance Pless, also with the Millers, to shade Frank Malone of Louisville by about 800 votes.

The closest race was between Don Blasingame of Omaha and Bob Richardson of Denver for the second base post. Blasingame has a total of 12,668 votes to 12,513.

The fans will select 19 players on the all-star team and two will be named by All-Star Manager Kerby Farrell of the Indianapolis Indians.

The all-star game will be played July 21 with the team leading the association on July 11 providing the opposition. Four teams are still mathematically in the running for that honor. They are Minneapolis, Omaha, Toledo and Denver.

Newly Crowned Champion Back Home

TONY TRABERT, new Wimbledon tennis champion, and his wife SHAUNA (right) are welcomed home on their arrival at Cincinnati by Tony's parents, Mr. and Mrs. ARCH TRABERT. Tony was quoted as saying he may turn professional in time for the winter indoor season.

Three Jockeys In Close Race At Fairmount

With only 13 nights of racing remaining before the close of the Fairmount Park meeting, it is almost certain that the three-way fight for riding honors will continue. Right now, the veteran Rafael Sanabria, who twice has won the jockey championship at the Collinsville course, leads with 29 firsts, followed by Billy Gummow with 28 and Clarence Meaux, 27.

And there are several others, who with a real "hot" night could get into the thick of the battle. They are Bruce Brinkley, Charles Billeaud and John Delahoussaye.

Brinkley with 19 has the best winning percentage, his 23 firsts coming out of 123 mounts. Sanabria's wins have come from 166 efforts for a winning percentage of 17, the same as that owned by Bobby White, another ex-champion, who was off to a late start. White has had 77 mounts and has been in the winner's circle 13 times.

Fourteen jockeys now riding at the course have piloted 10 or more winners.

Since his return after a 10-day suspension, Meaux has failed to pilot a winner. Sanabria took over the lead July 4, while Gummow was handling Mrs. T. M. Pruett's Fay's Reaper in a $10,000 handicap at Ak-Sar-Ben.

Not a single jockey has managed more than three winners on any one program. Seven have scored a "triple." They are Meaux, Brinkley, Terry Murphy, Dale Dew, Billeaud, Johnny Clemens and White.

Standings of the leading jockeys:

Jockey	W	L	P	S	Pct.
Sanabria	29	78	14	17	.17
Gummow	28	78	21	20	.16
Meaux	27	78	25	27	.14

Roberts	8	78	12	15	.10
James	10	78	11	9	.12

In the 403 races that have been run at the meeting, there have been eight deadheats—three to win, two to place and three to show. Gerties Last and Horse Fly divided the long end of the purse, May 12. Pinko and Son of Honor ran a deadheat to win May 14 and Miss Juliet and Coletown Maid did it June 29.

Another jockey is sitting out a 10-day suspension. He is Roy Duncan, a recent arrival, who had piloted three winners since coming here from Ohio. Duncan rode at Fairmount 14 years ago and this is the first time he has returned.

A nine race program, starting at 8:30 o'clock is scheduled for tonight.

There are eight winners among the nine horses listed for tonight's feature over the six-furlong route. The only non-winner, Sangamon Girl, was second in her last out. Whiz-a-Bit and Fast Song have each been in the winner's circle three times; San Andrea, Grand Cells, Quarter Lady and Nile Prince, twice, while Brown Ariel and Miss Kirkwood have each won one of their starts.

The program will finish with three distance races.

Road, Rosewall and Rex Hartwig Are on Australian Cup Team
LONDON, England, July 6 (UP)—Australian Davis-Cup team manager Harry Hopman said that Lew Hoad, Ken Rosewall and Rex Hartwig would play in the North American zone eliminations.

The Australians have to meet Mexico, Brazil, Japan and the winners of the European zone before gaining the final.

Hopman said, "It is going to be pretty strenuous but I think we will get through. Our fellows played rather erratically at Wimbledon but I think they were short of tournament practice."

Hopman later left for New York with Rex Hartwig. The other members of the team will follow later.

BAASTAD, Sweden, July 6 (UP)—Lennart Bergelin, Sven Davidson, Torsten Johansson and Staffan Stockenberg were named to represent Sweden against Chile in the semifinals of the European zone Davis Cup eliminations at Baastad, July 15-17.

Pirie Sets Record.
LONDON, July 6 (AP)—Britain's Gordon Pirie last night ran the mile and a half in 6 minutes, 26 seconds to break the unofficial world record for the distance. The previous best time was 6:31.2, set by Hungary's Sandor Iharos.
There is no official world record for the distance, which is not recognized by the International Athletic Association as a competition event.
Pirie ran against three other Londoners at the Paddington track, where Roger Bannister trained for the world's first 4 minute mile.

Match Play to Decide Girls' Golf Tourney

NEW YORK, July 6 (UP)—For the first time since the event was inaugurated seven years ago, the girls' junior golf championship will be decided entirely by match play when the 1955 tournament is held at the Florence, S. C., Country Club, Aug. 15-19.

The United States Golf Association announced that the change was made so that the girls will compete for their championship in exactly the same format as the women's amateur championship. In previous years, the competition had started with a stroke-play round to determine the 16 qualifiers for the championship and subordinate flights.

The field for the girls' tournament is restricted to amateur golfers who will not reach their eighteenth birthday by midnight of Aug. 19. The winner will be invited to enter the women's amateur championship the following week at the Myers Park Country Club, Charlotte, N. C., if she has not already entered. The tournament was won last year by Miss Margaret Smith of St. Clair, Mich., but she is too old to defend.

Ashburn Is Passed Up By Durocher

If I picked Ashburn, the American League would have us at a disadvantage."

Durocher said he talked the matter over with National League President Warren Giles and "we felt we had to have some right-handed power on the team to win."

Ashburn admitted he was disappointed at being left off the team but added with good grace that the one picked by Durocher "will do all right."

"You bet I wanted to be chosen," Ashburn said, "but they'll do real well with the fellows they have."

Regarding the charge that he was purposely giving Maglie more rest, Durocher wouldn't dignify it with a reply. He did say, however:

Other Managers Helped.

"I went along entirely with the consensus of the other managers on the pitching staff. I did not pick the pitchers myself."

Four right-handed pitchers and three southpaws were named to the N. L. squad. The staff was headed by Don Newcombe, Brooklyn's 14-game winner, and the other right-handers were Robin Roberts (12-7) of the Phillies, Gene Conley (9-5) of the Braves and Sam Jones (9-9) of the Cubs. The left-handers chosen were Rookie Luis Arroyo (9-3) of the Cardinals, Jos Nuxhall (8-5) of the Redjacks and Harvey Haddix (5-9) of the Cardinals.

Durocher chose Del Crandall of the Braves and Burgess of the Redjacks to back up Campanella, the catcher selected by the fans. He also designated Gene Baker and Randy Jackson of the Cubs, Stan Musial of the Cards, Gil Hodges of the Dodgers and Johnny Logan of the Braves to augment the fans' infield choice of Red Schoendienst of the Cards, Ernie Banks of the Cubs and Mathews and Kluszczycki.

In the outfield, Durocher picked his own Willie Mays, Hank Aaron of the Braves and Frank Thomas of the Pirates. The fans chose Duke Snider of the Dodgers, Del Ennis of the Phils and Mueller.

Named as coaches by Durocher were managers Fred Haney of the Pirates and Mayo Smith of the Phillies. Bob Buhl and Chet Nichols of the Braves were designated batting practice pitchers while coach Bob Keely, also of the Braves, was named batting practice catcher.

Turley Named on Squad.

The six Cleveland players Lopez picked were pitchers Early Wynn and Herb Score, infielders Bobby Avila and Al Rosen and outfielders Larry Doby and Al Smith.

While Lopez skipped Skowron, who is hitting .365, he named two other members of the Yankees, right-handed pitcher Bob Turley (10-7) and left-hander Whitey Ford (10-3). Rounding out the American League pitching staff are two White Sox hurlers, right-hander Dick Donovan (9-2) and left-hander Billy Pierce (5-5), southpaw Billy Hoelt (8-3) of the Tigers, and right-handers Frank Sullivan (11-6) of the Red Sox and Jim Wilson (5-8) of the Orioles.

Lopez also chose catcher Sherm Lollar and shortstop Chico Carrasquel of the White Sox, first baseman Vic Power of Kansas City and outfielder Jackie Jensen of the Red Sox.

American Leaguers picked by the fans were Mickey Vernon of the Senators, Nellie Fox of the White Sox, Jim Finigan of the Athletics and Harvey Kuenn of the Tigers in the infield; Ted Williams of the Red Sox, Al Kaline of the Tigers and Mickey Mantle of the Yankees in the outfield, and Yogi Berra of the Yankees behind the plate.

Moore in First Bout at 13? Armstrong Says He and Archie Started Boxing Here in 1930

LOS ANGELES, July 6 (AP)—Everyone agrees that Archie Moore, light heavyweight champion, is old for a fighting man, but exactly how old is a disputed question.

Archie's ring record gives his birth date as Dec. 13, 1916, at Collinsville, Ill. This would make him 38.

But former triple champion Henry Armstrong said today he and Archie started fighting in St. Louis in club smokers in 1930.

This would mean that Archie was boxing when he was 13, which is hard to believe.

Archie's record book lists his first match, in St. Louis against Sammy Christian, in December 1936. This would have Archie launching his career when he was 20—rather late for a youngster admittedly hard pressed for money or a regular trade at that stage of life.

Armstrong, now 42, in an interview with Sports Editor Sid Ziff of the Mirror-News, said: "Archie and I started boxing

Tom Hughes of St. Louis End Coach of Colts

BALTIMORE, July 6 (UP)—Former All-America Tom Hughes, who played football with the University of Missouri and Purdue, yesterday was named end coach by the Baltimore Colts.

Hughes was an All-America, in 1945 while playing with Purdue—a team he later coached. He also served a brief coaching stint with the University of Oregon. He has been head line coach at the University of North Dakota for the last three years. He played pro football with the Los Angeles Dons in 1946.

Hughes, a native of St. Louis, replaces Charley Winner, who becomes backfield coach. Another Colt newcomer, Frank Lauterbur, is the tackle coach, and veteran Frank (Red) Cumiskey remains as guard coach.

Hughes' residence in St. Louis is 4147 Flad ave. He graduated from Roosevelt High in 1940.

Engine Wear Reduced 40% with New Trop-Artic Motor Oil

THE DIFFERENCE IN WEIGHT IS A DIFFERENCE IN WEAR!

The two identical sets of piston rings shown on the scales were subjected to the same kind of test in the same automobile engine, a test equivalent to 2500 miles of normal stop-and-go driving by an average car owner. The set of rings on the left, lubricated with ordinary oil, lost considerable weight, which indicates extensive wear. But the ones on the right, lubricated with Phillips 66 Trop-Artic Oil, showed scarcely any wear at all.

IT'S PERFORMANCE THAT COUNTS!

The difference in piston ring wear illustrated above proves an important point about the performance of motor oils:

Most engine wear occurs when you first start your car or under stop-and-go driving conditions with an engine that hasn't warmed up. It takes a very special kind of oil to flow quickly and protect your motor when you start, and then to protect moving parts from sludge and varnish after the engine heats up. Trop-Artic All-Weather Motor Oil gives you this double protection. It won't get too thick, nor too thin. That's why, compared to older types of oils, it can even double engine life.

In a motor oil it's performance that counts. And Trop-Artic gives super performance all year around! You'll get easier starting... you'll save gasoline... and you can save 15% to 45% on oil consumption. Prove it for yourself! Get Trop-Artic Motor Oil from your Phillips 66 Dealer.

HARRY DEXTER WHITE CRITICISM ASSAILED

Ex-Treasury Aid's Brother
Calls Eastman Charge Ridiculous.

BROOKLINE, Mass., July 6 (AP)—The brother of the late Harry Dexter White has termed as "nothing short of ridiculous" a statement by Senator James O. Eastland (Dem.), Mississippi, that White had a worldwide commercial espionage system reporting to him.

Nathan I. White, brother of the former Treasury official, said in a statement yesterday that Eastland's summary "is an example of the sophistries to which some congressmen will resort in order to keep alive their fading charge of '20 years of treason'."

Eastland said on Sunday excerpts from the diaries of former Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau showed Harry Dexter White's "knack of seizing power and for broadening and deepening any authority given him."

Harry Dexter White died in 1948, three days after he denied being a Communist in testimony before the House Un-American Activities Committee.

Nathan White said Eastland did not choose to include in his press release "the laudatory statements made about White which appear in the committee report." Eastland is chairman of the Senate Internal Security subcommittee.

"When," Nathan White continued, "shortly after Pearl Harbor, Morgenthau phoned Secretary of State Cordell Hull that he had appointed Harry White his right-hand man, Hull said that White was a 'very high-class fellow' and that he was 'a very suitable man' for the job."

"Nor did Senator Eastland choose to quote Mr. Morgenthau's statement to the committee that 'White was one of the few men outside the business world who had thorough training and experience in the international monetary field.'"

Morgenthau told Eastland's group June 1 that while he was secretary of the Treasury he had no reason to question White's loyalty. He said that he did not learn of the charges against White until sometime after he, Morgenthau, resigned from the Treasury.

GENERAL MOTORS DIRECTORS VOTE 3-1 STOCK SPLIT

Move—Shareholders to Act on It Sept. 23 —Prices Rise.

NEW YORK, July 6 (AP)—The Directors of General Motors
Corp. have voted for a three-for-one stock split, subject to stockholders' approval at a special meeting Sept. 23.

The surprise announcement came yesterday afternoon after the New York Stock Exchange had closed for the day. G. M. stock had risen $3.75 a share in the day, closing at $113.37.

On the West Coast, where news of the split arrived shortly before exchange closed, G. M. prices jumped to $118.75 a share in San Francisco and $121 in Los Angeles.

It took an hour and 45 minutes after the opening today for Stock Exchange members who specialize in trading G. M. stocks to match buying and selling orders at what they considered a fair price. Then a block of 85,000 shares sold for $128, up $14.62. Greatest difficulty was in getting enough shares to match buying orders.

It was probably the biggest single transaction, moneywise, in the Exchange's history. Exchange officials said, involving $10,880,000.

Two years ago, Charles E.
Wilson, former G. M. president, sold his 40,000 shares at Government insistence with the Cabinet post. At today's
worth $5,120,000—almost double the price two years ago.

At one time this year G. M.
sold as low as $89.50.
The corporation, largest manufacturing firm in the world, gave no reason for the split, which would increase the number of shares outstanding from nearly 93,000,000 to about 279-000,000.

The special stockholders meeting to vote on the proposed split is to be held at the company offices near Wilmington, Del. By far the largest single holder of
G. M. stock is E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co., which owns 21-000,000 shares.

With the split, du Pont will own 63,000,000 shares.
Recent Sale Recalled.
G. M.'s present outstanding stock includes 4,380,000 shares sold in March to raise $325,000-000, the largest financing job ever carried out by an industrial firm.

Holders of G. M. stock at the time were permitted to buy at the price of $75 one share of new stock for every 20 shares owned.

Prices of G. M. stock in 1954 ranged from $58.75 to $98.75.
The lowest price at which stock has sold this year was $89.50.
The company last year paid total dividends of $5 a share. So far this year it has paid two dividends of $1 each.

G. M. has split its stock four times before. The last was a two-for-one split on Oct. 21, 1950.

The first time G. M. split its stock was in 1920 when it gave 10 shares for one. Four years later the company issued one share for four. Then in 1927 it split two-for-one and in 1929 gave 2½ shares for one.

Since the end of World War II, General Motors has carried out a vigorous expansion pro-

HEADS BAR'S TAX GROUP

Robert D. Abbott, 46 Broadview drive, Clayton, has been named chairman of the taxation committee of the Bar Association of St. Louis. T. Hartley Pollock, president, announced today.

The 31-member committee will offer lectures and symposiums to assist lawyers to aid clients with taxation problems, and will work for tax laws which are simpler and more easily administered, Pollock said.

gram and by the end of this year will have spent $4,000,000-000 on new plant, space and equipment in the United States and Canada.

G. M. already manufactures more than half the cars produced in this country.

In addition to the stock split,
the special stockholders meeting will be asked to approve a recently announced revision in pension plans for employees receiving hourly wages.

Also to be submitted for stockholder approval at the Sept. 23 meeting is a savings and stock purchase plan for some 100,000 salaried G. M. employees in the United States.

The plan, approved by the directors yesterday, would run for successive periods of five years each. Employees would be allowed to invest up to 10 per cent of their salary, and for every dollar they invested the company would contribute another 50 cents.

The employee contribution would be invested half in Government saving bonds and half in G. M. stock. All of the company's contribution would go into
G. M. stock.

The stock purchase program also includes a retirement-thrift plan in which salaried employees would participate on the same basis as in the savings plan.

FIRST DEFICIT LOAN OF U. S. FISCAL YEAR

Humphrey Offers Investors
$2,750,000,000 of Securities.

The New York Herald Tribune Post-Dispatch
Special Dispatch

WASHINGTON, July 6—Secretary of the Treasury George M. Humphrey made his first deficit financing move of the new fiscal year yesterday by offering to sell investors $2,750-000,000 of Government securities.

He waited only five days after the beginning of the new year —fiscal 1956—to launch his deficit operations. He must borrow from eight billion dollars to 10 billion dollars before Jan. 1, but will repay most of it out of tax collections in the following six months.

His $2,750,000,000 offering will include two billion dollars of 1½ per cent tax anticipation certificates maturing March 22, 1956, and $750,000,000 of 3 per cent

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH

long-term bonds. The bonds originally were issued last February and mature in 40 years.
Treasury officials said the borrowing plans will have little effect on the interest rates business men must pay for commercial loans.

The $750,000,000 bond offer will attract a "very modest" amount of money that otherwise would have been available to finance home mortgages and business expansion plans, the officials said.

Siphoning off a modest sum from the booming housing market is desirable, they declared.
But they stressed that the borrowing operation will not have a major impact on the availability of home-building funds.

The Treasury decided to borrow $750,000,000 of long-term money because a survey revealed that it could take that amount "readily and without difficulty," the officials said.
The bond offering marks a further small step toward achieving the Eisenhower Administration's goal of lengthening the maturity of the federal debt.

The deficit financing announcement comes on the heels of an earlier Treasury disclosure that it plans to borrow an additional $100,000,000 a week by increasing its weekly bill offerings.

This, together with the $2,750-000,000 borrowing, expected to meet Treasury deficit money needs until some time in September or October, officials said.
The Treasury's next task will be to refund $8,477,000,000 of 1½ per cent certificates that fall due Aug. 15.

3 MORE RESERVE DIVISIONS FOR SOUTH KOREA INDICATED

SEOUL, July 6 (AP)—A Defense Ministry spokesman said today the United States has tentatively agreed to support the creation of three more South Korean army reserve divisions.
This would increase the total
South Korean ground force from 31 to 34 divisions. South Korea has one marine and 20 army divisions on active duty. Ten army divisions are in reserve.

First National Enlarges Board of Directors and Advisory Board, Completes Modernization of Several Departments

Expansion on all fronts best describes mid-looking forward to opening many more as

WITH FIRM HERE

Warren W. Simonds, an Alcoa consulting engineer from St. Louis, already has arrived and plans to spend a year here supervising installation.

Peru has an important natural advantage over many of its neighbors. It has diverse sources of foreign exchange, as contrasted with Bolivia, where a drop in the world price of tin can bring about a severe financial crisis. Peru's exports are about 30 per cent from tin, 30 per cent from minerals, 30 per cent from agricultural products, 10 per cent from sugar and 10 per cent from other goods.

One of the biggest new undertakings is the Toquepala project of the Southern Peru Copper Co., for which American Smelter & Refining Co. and the Export-Import Bank each put up $100,000,000. It is expected to be producing low grade copper in about five years.

Peru's hopes to become an important oil exporter lie in the wild Amazon country on the east slope of "The Hill," as the Andes mountain range.

A small Texas-owned firm, the Ganso Azul-Blue Ganso Petroleum Co., is the only commercial producer in the area. It has been producing oil since 1920. Transportation by truck across "The Hill" is expensive. The Ganso Azul-Blue Ganso Petroleum Co. is growing demands in its own region.

Oil Explorations. Several of the major companies now have completed explorations and are beginning commercial drilling. If their wells come in, the major oil fields expected to build a pipeline across the Andes at an estimated cost of $100,000,000 to $200,000,000.

One of the more ambitious undertakings here is a jungle colonization project of the Robert G. Le Tourneau Co. of Longview, Tex. The company is clearing a 30-mile road through the jungle in the Pachitea river area of the east slope.

Peruvians admire Le Tourneau's energetic road building effort, envy the Texas food delicacies flown in by its construction camp and chuckle over his claim at his headquarters city—"Welcome to Tournavista, Peru!" But some wonder whether Peruvians can be induced to steady on the cleared jungle land when their land is to be had for the taking.

Despite the generally friendly atmosphere for foreign investment, there are some difficulties to be faced.

Chief among these is the lavish social security program, one of the highest in the world. It costs the employer pays most of the bill, and at least four out of five of the employees are covered. Peruvians receive at least 80 per cent of their pay for three months, an employee considered permanent for every year, and he is paid for every year he has worked. In addition, the employer must give him three months' notice or three months' extra pay.

After 20 years, an employee automatically gets a 30 per cent pay increase, and before that the Government may order nationwide pay increases from time to time. When he has worked 35 years, the employee retires on full pay and gets an extra 35 months' pay in a lump sum. Another difficulty is high interest rates for local capital. Banks charge 10 per cent on deposits and 12 per cent on loans.

The explanation for these high rates lies partly in generous interest paid by banks—3 per cent on sight deposits and 6 per cent on time deposits. National law demands banks to keep half of cash on deposit in the Central Reserve Bank. Rates for services in the United States rarely go above 20 to 22 per cent.

Training Programs. Training programs of the United States Point IV technical assistance program are helping remedy a serious shortage of skilled labor, technicians and engineers.

There are problems common to most Latin American countries. One typically Latin American problem is the threat of foreign-owned property. It has been little cause for worry here, but only instances of Peruvian expropriation were seizures of German and Japanese property in World War II.

Peru's 1952 petroleum law share net profits 50-50 with the government. It is strong with the government, but private oil developments will never be seized. Such considerations raise the question of what will happen when President Odría's term ends next year.

The constitution prohibits his running for reelection. He automatically becomes a senator. Observers here expect a drastic change. As one put it, Odría's vote is the only one that will count in the 1956 election.

For all his free economy and constitutional status, President Odría is very much a dictator. His censor must pass all outgoing cables, the press is controlled—and political opposition is not permitted.

Odría was the only candidate when he was elected constitutionally in 1952. He is expected to choose his own successor, who in turn is expected to run unopposed in 1956.

An acquaintance of the president quipped that what would happen to his policies after 1956? "I go to the Senate I will organize a new political party and the same policies."

SENATOR JOHNSON
STILL SERIOUSLY
ILL, DOCTOR SAYSWASHINGTON, July 6 (AP)—Senator Lyndon Johnson of Texas, Democratic majority leader, is showing improvement from the heart attack he suffered Saturday but still is in serious condition, an attending physician said today.

Dr. James C. Cain of the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn., met with reporters at Johnson's office and gave details on the nature and possible effects of Johnson's illness. Earlier, the Johnson Medical Center, where Johnson is a patient, said he was "progressing satisfactorily."

Dr. Cain said it might be six months before it can be determined if Johnson can ever resume his duties as Democratic leader or engage in further rigorous political campaigning. Regarding heavy campaigning, Dr. Cain made it clear he thinks Johnson should not do that even if the Senator feels he can do it. He said Johnson's health is not as good as it once was, but he is getting him up to a room level shock and drop in blood pressure. His condition then became critical.

heavy filigree table silver, the immense table Secord Empire standard lamps supported by smirking cupids—nothing can have changed. Nothing, that is, except the food, the prices, and the guests, mostly dowdy family groups and tough-looking types, eating alone or in neckties.

Kremlin is a surprise. Americans are accustomed to visualize the Kremlin as cold, sinister and forbidding. Perhaps this mental image was fairly accurate in the days when it was state policy to keep the Kremlin and its famous occupant aloof and mysterious. But a campaign has been underway for some time to popularize and demystify the Kremlin, and the image is accurate no longer.

The elegant Czarist palace, including the small Eighteenth Century palace where Stalin used to live, have been painted a bright, butter-yellow, with white trim, and the roofs are a handsome green. Now the Kremlin is pretty—that is the word for it. At the same time, instead of remaining mysterious behind its handsome high walls, the Kremlin has become a tourist attraction and one of Europe's most rewarding.

Ivan the Terrible's coronation throne, the 10th-century Czarist coaches with panels of ivory and enamel, and the Imperial emeralds considerably larger than hen's eggs—such things are worth a case of "museum feet" and the gawking crowds of "progressive delegations" and the collective farmers peering round with a countryman's awe. For that matter, it is the unexpected sight of neat, handsome men, hurrying along for an appointment.

Yet, in an odd and paradoxical way, the really big surprise about this place is that it is so unsurprising. Across the gulf of fear and hate which divides the world, here—who detest the system here—who include most westerners as the other side of the moon, and of Moscow as a collection of mud huts filled with a strange and hardly human race of people. Yet Moscow is essentially a city like any other city on earth, with its big cities, with its big buildings, and a great many people of all sorts.

Western diplomats complain that intelligent visitors with no trace of Communist sympathies are pressed simply because Moscow is not as bad as they expected. Thus Moscow evades the same advantage as the Soviet government abroad, when it is for once, in a way like any other government. What is really most surprising of all, however, is that this shabby and essentially ordinary city, deficient in both gaiety and consumer goods, should have been for so many years a shining Mecca to millions of people in Asia and Europe.

Commission and T.A.A. had been against Dixon-Yates. Dixon-Yates has now resigned to go back to his law practice in Pittsburgh.

Behind him in the SEC, however, remains Robert McDowell, head of the Division of Corporate Regulation, which has responsibility for enforcing the Holding Corporation Act. McDowell is from the Wall Street firm of Sullivan and Cromwell, which in turn is the law firm of the First Boston Corp.

McDowell is an Eisenhower appointee. When the Dixon-Yates project came before him he excused himself. He helped to pass on the problems of the combine which his old law firm helped originate from a vantage point inside the Eisenhower Administration.

George Frazier, 447 S. Main avenue, suffered a severe fracture of the right leg and head injuries Tuesday night when he was struck by an auto-truck in the 4200 block of Manchester at City Hospital.

Police said Frazier, 39 years old, was struck by a car driven west on Manchester by a man named George Frazier, a salesman, 636 North Geyer road, Kirkwood.

Burning Tree Club Was Unique Even Before Eisenhower Joined

It Is Strictly Stag, Anti-Social and Anti-Business—Also Has No Luxuries.

By EDWIN A. LAHEY

The Chicago Daily News Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch. Copyright 1955.

WASHINGTON, July 6—

President Eisenhower has made the Burning Tree club the best known golf course in the world.

Even before Mr. Eisenhower began to take his relaxation at a distinction of their own.

The traditional distinction of Burning Tree was precisely what made membership so appealing to its most distinguished golfer. It is strictly stag and it is strictly anti-social and anti-business.

In the locker room, in the showers, on the course, or in the grill, Mr. Eisenhower enjoys his status as a private citizen.

He never hears a word of public business while he is within the premises of Burning Tree.

"It's the only place I know where you can get away from business," says John L. Sullivan, a Washington lawyer.

"Many years ago a member asked a Senator on the golf course if he had made up his mind about a piece of legislation then pending. This member broke a strict rule in mentioning business, and he was suspended for a year.

except perhaps for a New Year's eve party.

The club has no swimming pool, and nothing that comes under the head of "luxury." Membership is limited to 250

resident members.

The initiation fee is $1000, and the annual dues are $360. About half the resident members are government officials or members of Congress. The other half Washington business men or professional men.

Mr. Eisenhower has been a member of Burning Tree since 1946, and is not the first President to be a member.

Former President Truman belonged to the club, but didn't play golf.

Club members and officials have become very self-conscious about the importance of keeping privacy for President Eisenhower.

The club manager, J. W. Harvey, said very stiffly when asked some questions over the telephone: "I do not give out information about the club."

The President's foursome is frequently made up of associates in the government who are also members of Burning Tree. His

Sherman Adams, press secretary James Hagerty, and many members of Congress.

RIVER PROGRAM FUND BILLS GO TO JOINT CONFEREES

House and Senate Versions Are $45,500,000 Apart — Compromise Likely.

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP)—House and Senate versions of appropriations for the waterways program, $45,500,000 apart, headed today for a joint conference committee which will compromise the difference.

The Senate was that much more generous than the House when it voted yesterday for a $565,763,000 Army Engineer outlay for dam-building, flood control and navigation in the fiscal year that started Friday.

As passed the bill would provide $411,273,000 in construction money, $83,566,000 in operation and maintenance funds, $33,040,000 for the lower Mississippi; $5,940,000 for surveys; $9,400,000 for general expenses and $2,400,000 for the Niagara remedial works.

One Amendment Added.
In whipping the legislation through, the Senate made only one change in recommendations of its Appropriations Committee—it added $80,000 for planning of the Vicksburg (Miss.) harbor project.

The only other amendment offered was defeated. It would have increased appropriations for construction of Dardanelle dam by $550,000 and planning of Beaver dam by $75,000. Both projects are in Arkansas.

In passing the bill on a voice vote, the Senate gave approval to an appropriation of $7,500,000 to resume work on controversial Tuttle Creek dam in Kansas. The House also has approved this item so the final version of the bill which goes to the White House is certain to provide that sum.

House and Senate conferees, in working out a compromise bill, will consider only those items differing in the two versions of the bill.

Funds for Missouri Work.
For Missouri, the Senate and House both voted $2,000,000 for work on the Missouri river from Kansas City to the mouth; Cape Girardeau $750,000; Carthage $367,000; East Poplar Bluff and Poplar Bluff $314,000; Perry county drainage and levee districts, 1, 2 and 3, $500,000.

The Senate added $500,000 to the House bill to start construction of the Pomme de Terre reservoir in Hickory county, Missouri.

Both the Senate and House provided these amounts for planning projects: Missouri-I-Bear Creek reservoir $50,000; Canton $50,000.

At stake in the House-Senate conference will be money for 46 projects added by the Senate to the House bill and increases over House allowances for nine others.

Largest Single Item.
Largest single item added by the Senate was $5,500,000 for flood control features of the Markham Ferry "partnership" project in Oklahoma. A state agency will finance the remainder of the $30,000,000 dam.

As approved by the Senate, the bill was $46,788 higher than requested by President Eisenhower and $122,398,900 greater than last year's appropriations for the program.

On reclamation construction, both houses—the Senate acting yesterday—voted $146,040,000 in new funds for various projects but the Senate program, allowing for a $6,000,000 carryover, would be slightly larger.

The Senate bill would include these items not provided for in the House measure: $4,000,000 to begin construction of the Yellowstone dam on the Big Horn river in Montana. The dam will be a feature of the Hardin unit of the Missouri basin project, which will have a final cost of $95,000,000.

The Senate would allow $300,000 to begin construction of the Deer Creek power plant on the Provo river project in Utah, $500,000 to begin work on the talent division of the Rouge river project in Oregon, $475,000 to start work on a power plant for the Roza division of the Yakima project in Washington, and $900,000 to begin construction of the Owl Creek unit of the Missouri river basin project in Wyoming.

The Senate added $125,000 to the House bill for a study of the Granite Falls-Benson-Fargo power transmission line in Minnesota and North Dakota and $60,000 for study of a power line from Fort Randall in South Dakota to Grand Island, Nebr.

WILD DOGS HARRY HORSEMEN RIDING ON BRIDLE PATHS

The New York Herald Tribune Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch
SCARSDALE, N.Y., July 6—A pack of wild dogs which has been harrying horsemen on the bridge paths along the Hutchinson River Parkway was sought today by police who killed four of the marauders over the weekend.

The dogs, mongrels with an apparent streak of German shepherd, appeared several weeks ago. In general, they stayed in the thick woodlands by day but came out in mornings or evenings to look for food.

Several riders on the bridge path report having been chased by the pack, which numbered about 10 dogs. Nobody has been bitten.

FUNERAL OF ALBERT V. ELIAS TO BE HELD IN SCRANTON, PA.

BABY HANGED WHEN CAUGHT BETWEEN BED AND WALL
Arthur D. Pikey, 1-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ruben Pikey, 1831A North Market street, was pronounced dead at DePaul Hospital today after his parents had rushed him there when they found him hanging between the edge of a bed and the wall.

They told authorities the baby had cried during the night and that in order to calm him, their daughter, Martha, 10, had taken the child into her own bed. Apparently the baby had crawled out of the bed, which was the top bunk of a double deck bed, and had been caught by the chin and neck between the wall and the bunk, they said. Police said death was apparently caused by strangulation. An inquest will be held.

HOLES IN CHESTNUT STREET FILLED, TRAFFIC RESUMED

Traffic was resumed today in the 500 block W. Chestnut street after city work crews filled two holes in the street caused by a break in a water main yesterday. One of the depressions was six feet deep and the other four. A small break in a water main washed out the side of an abandoned sewer more than 100 years old, causing the collapse.

Westbound traffic was diverted at Broadway yesterday, and this morning eastbound traffic was diverted at Sixth street. Chestnut is an alternating one-way street.

U NU THINKS MOST IN U.S. WOULD LET RED CHINA IN U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., July 6 (AP)—Burma's Premier U Nu said today he got the impression that most of the responsible people in Washington are not against seating Red China in the United Nations. He told a press conference it was his impression that the problem was the timing of the seating. Asked if he felt that the timing was concerned with the presidential election of 1956, he replied he did not believe so. "The American leaders," he said, "are bold enough to do things regardless of elections. If they think it is the thing to do, they will do it."

Burma long has advocated giving Peiping the seat now held by Nationalist China.

FINED $50 FOR CRUELTY IN BEATING STRAY DOG

John E. Hunter, of the 1400 block of Blair avenue, was fined $50 today after he was found guilty of cruelty to animals by Provisional Police Judge Richard Daly.

Witnesses testified that Hunter, a Negro, beat a stray dog with a stick so severely that it had to be destroyed.

Hunter, who was arrested yesterday, said the dog, which had wandered into his living quarters, had lunged at him.

JUDGE SETS ASIDE DIVORCE FOR MAN WHO RE-ENLISTED

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio, July 6 (AP)—Marine Walter Sheets is still married. Judge J. E. Kinnison of Jackson county yesterday vacated the divorce granted last week to Sheets' wife, Nancy Ann, after the judge said he learned Sheets was going to remarry her. Sheets re-enlisted in the Marine Corps at Cincinnati last week. He told the recruiter he was eligible for a second hitch because his divorce had left him with only three dependents—his children, ages 3, 2 and 6 months. The Marines would not let him join with four dependents.

Court attaches said the judge vacated the divorce on grounds it was obtained fraudulently. That left the divorce still pending and Sheets still married.

Court attaches were wondering whether the Marines now would discharge Sheets because of fraudulent enlistment. They pointed out, however, Sheets thought he was divorced when he re-enlisted.

2 FINED $100 IN BEATING OF FELLOW PRISONER

Two prisoners held at police headquarters were fined $100 yesterday by Police Judge Robert G. Dowd for peace disturbance on a complaint they beat a fellow prisoner Frank B. Kinderman, and forced him to eat soap. Notice of appeal from the fine was filed by the two prisoners, Donald Lee Murry, 17 years old, of the 2300 block of North Eleventh street, and Charles H. Rodebaugh, 20, living in the 1200 block of Wright street. Two other prisoners named in the complaint were discharged. All four had pleaded not guilty.

Kinderman, 31, a laborer of the 4400 block of North Broadway, was being held suspected of burglary and larceny. He said the attack occurred shortly after the four other prisoners were placed in his cell. No reason for the assault was given.

REJECTED SUITOR ADMITS KILLING RICH DIVORCEE

Law Student Says Woman Humiliated Him by Falling Asleep as He Talked.

LOS ANGELES, July 6 (AP)—After 14 hours of questioning a law student who worked as a house boy in her home last year today admitted beating, stabbing and strangling to death a wealthy young divorcee. Police said John R. Crooker Jr. admitted killing Mrs. Norma McCauley, 33 years old in the bedroom of her Bel Air home yesterday because, he said, she rejected his love and humiliated him by falling asleep as was talking to her. Crooker was taking to the scene early today and re-enacted the killing, police said. He demonstrated how he hid in a clothes closet and emerged when Mrs. McCauley, mother of three, returned from an independence day cocktail party at the home of her father, millionaire contractor J. A. Thompson Sr.

His Account of Killing. "About midnight Norma came home and went into a bedroom," he was quoted as saying. "I followed. We talked about an hour, with my trying to get her to come back to me. She either went to sleep or pretended to go to sleep on the chaise longue. "When I tried to wake her up to continue our talks, I could not arouse her and this incensed me. I started to choke her and shake her with both hands and she started to scream. "I put my left hand over her mouth to muffle her screams and reached in my right hand coat pocket with my right hand for a knife that I had found earlier. "I stabbed her several times with the knife while she tried to fight me off. She bit my left hand. Then I knotted the stole she was wearing around her neck and held it with both hands until I was sure she was dead. I saw her purse nearby, took whatever money was in it and drove home and went to bed."

Named by Neighbor. Crooker was arrested at his apartment yesterday after a neighbor of the victim told police he was a rejected suitor of Mrs. McCauley and had threatened to kill her. Police found a number of impassioned "intellectual" letters from Crooker to the victim in her house. Police said Crooker denied he was the cause of Mrs. McCauley's divorce last March 3 from Frank E. McCauley, business man and former Air Force ace. He said he quit his job as house boy because of "pressure" from her parents. His former wife and two children are here. He is working his way through Southwestern Law School. Mrs. McCauley's body, stabbed five times, was found in her hilltop home by one of her children.

FRENCH FLYING SAUCER

Latest addition to flying saucer aircraft is this French Aerodyne, unveiled in Paris by designer Rene Cousinet. The plane, almost 27 feet in diameter, has upper and lower circular sections which will revolve in opposite directions when powered by three 135-horsepower engines and the turbojet reactor visible under the machine. Pilot and passengers will be carried in the cupola at top center. Further experimentation will take place when engines are installed in the machine, which Cousinet hopes will be ready to fly next year.

The Pacifier Is Back

By Glen R. Shepherd, M.D.

WE'VE COME FULL CIRCLE again. Pacifiers for babies actually prevent the thumb-sucking habit. That's the latest word.

Thumb-sucking is nothing to get alarmed about unless children continue it past the age of five. It's entirely normal until the age of two. The trouble is, that once established, the habit may be hard to break.

DR. LOUIS F. RITTEMEYER JR., of the University of Tennessee College of Medicine has reported a study on 364 children to find out the value of pacifiers in preventing thumb-sucking. He comes out all in favor of them.

His study shows that more than four times as many children not using pacifiers became thumb-suckers as do children using pacifiers. Of the 315 children who didn't use pacifiers 84, or 27 per cent, became thumb-suckers.

THUMB-SUCKING is nothing but a nuisance until age five. But it may be a hard habit to break once a baby starts it. In fact, of 60 children in this study who sucked their thumbs, 17 children were still sucking thumbs at the ages of five, six, and even past seven years. That is not good.

After a child is two thumb-sucking may mean that the child is overly anxious or otherwise emotionally disturbed. However, a child doesn't begin to suck his thumb after he's two unless he's sucked his thumb earlier. Therein lies the beauty of the pacifier.

It gives baby something to gum and suck on harmlessly. It isn't nearly as dirty as the baby's thumb. It does not lead to air-swallowing or colic. In fact, pacifiers are used by some physicians to treat infant colic. Even Dr. Benjamin Spock has publicly come out in favor of the pacifier.

THERE IS NO PROBLEM in discarding a pacifier. As Dr. Rittelmeyer put it, "The pacifier is not, like the thumb, always and everywhere available at the flick of a wrist. The habit of (thumb-sucking) is more easily broken if temptation is more than arm's length away." He claims that children usually give up the pacifier before the age of two years. If they don't, the parent can conveniently lose it any time after the second birthday without any fear that baby will begin thumb-sucking.

He adds that there is no harm in letting the baby continue to use the pacifier "to go to sleep" if he wants it.

This Job Is Almost a Vacation

Sky Masterson Role in 'Guys and Dolls' Is Snap for Norwood Smith—He's Played it 700 Times

By Mary Kimbrough

IT WAS back in the days before World War II that a young geology major at U.C.L.A. looked around the mineralogy lab, noticed that most of his fellow students were blinking wearily behind thick-lens glasses and suddenly knew that science and bifocals were not his dish. He didn't know what else to do, but his Phi Gamma Delta fraternity brothers suggested he sing for a living.

Looking back over the years, Norwood Smith isn't quite sure at this point whether the brothers' suggestion was serious or sarcastic, but that makes no difference now. He took them up on it, started to study while working in a gas station, became a radio singer with his own show and from there went into the theater with a coveted Broadway role as one of his first jobs.

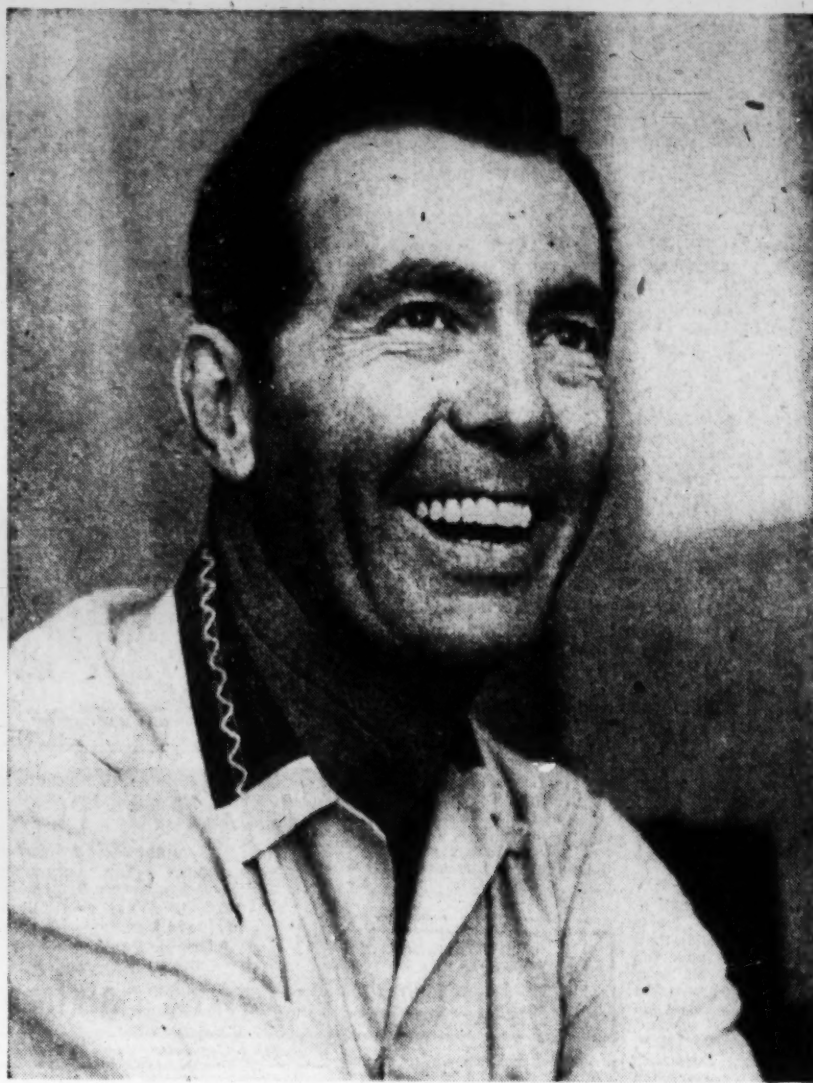

The way Smith tells it, you get the idea that his leap from field trips and filling stations to footlights was a simple jump. It was, in fact, for someone whose only singing formerly had been with the congregation at church or with the brothers at the Phi Gam house. But it didn't happen overnight because there were seven years of hard study, plus long months of overseas military service before Smith could really launch his career.

That career has brought him to St. Louis this week where he portrays—for the 700th time—the role of Sky Masterson in "Guys and Dolls" at the Municipal Opera. The first 300 or so times were on Broadway, as replacement for Robert Alda, and since then he has been repeating it on tour and in summer stock.

"That keeps you from getting stale and maybe blanking out. It happens to all of us."

But Smith is glad for a little relaxation in his busy schedule. Since he stepped into the Broadway role in September, 1952, he has had exactly one week off from rehearsals or performances. That's how smoothly his career has run.

"It seems that it always has been that way—except for a few months of starvation in New York," he smiled. "I guess I'm just a lucky guy, but I know it takes more than just plain luck to get by in this business."

If that's all you have, you may get to first base, but you die right there. You have to have talent and the ability to grab those opportunities when they start knocking."

Looking back on his career, the slender six-footer admits he's somewhat amazed at the way he was able to make his way through the first hard years.

He had never even thought of singing as a profession until his fraternity brothers urged him to sign with a music teacher. But once he had made up his mind, he aimed high. It was to be the Metropolitan Opera.

"All the time I was studying, and even while I was in service overseas, I kept thinking about the Met. I was released as a major in 1946 and two weeks later I had my own radio show in Los Angeles. I tried to throw in a few arias, but gradually it developed into a popular and semi-classical program.

"While I was there, I was heard by the west coast representative for Rodgers and Hammerstein and he had me audition for the role of Gaylord Ravenal in the touring company of "Showboat." I got the part and we toured 71 weeks."

That was the beginning of Smith's stage career. Back from there, he resumed his radio show but decided to go east in 1951 and try his hand at Broadway.

"There again things seemed to work out just right," he said. Two weeks after I got there, I replaced the lead in "The New Moon" at one of the summer theaters and had several engagements before going back into New York as the featured singer at the RKO."

Then the bubble burst and he started walking the streets looking for work and picking up what singing jobs he could.

"One was as a church soloist and one day Ginger Rogers was in the congregation. She came to me afterward and said that was the first time she had ever been 'sent' by a church solo."

At that point, the strange intermingling of paths which some call fate ended the rough days and put him back in business as a singing actor.

"Several years earlier," Smith said, "I had auditioned for the Sky Masterson role on the west coast for a touring company, and almost had it, but at the last minute Allan Jones was chosen. Later in New York, just at the time when I couldn't find much work, I wangled a club date and a woman who happened to hear me suggested that I see a cousin of hers who worked in a big agency. I did and happened to mention the west coast audition. He filed it away in his mind with the other information."

"The very next week, by coincidence, this particular man had lunch with the producer who had turned me down for the role. He was then looking for a replacement for Robert Alda in the Broadway cast. The agency man suddenly remembered what I had told him, mentioned my name, the producer remembered me, and that's how I was hired."

After appearing in "Guys and Dolls" on Broadway and on tour, Smith replaced Peter Cookson in a leading role in "Can-Can" and played it for a year.

"Unfortunately, all my big roles have been as replacements for others. I'm looking forward to the time when I can open a show," he laughed.

Not that Smith is complaining about his progress. After all, he has become something of a long-run specialist, with 375 performances in "Showboat," 417 in "Can-Can" and 700 in "Guys and Dolls." Not bad for an ex-geology major.

He also is becoming adept as an on-stage gambler, as Gaylord Ravenal in "Showboat" and Sky Masterson in "Guys and Dolls" are among the most fabulous gamblers of the theater. "But off-stage," he laughed, "I'm no good. I lose my shirt."

My Day

Wage Rise And Increased Cost of Living

By Eleanor Roosevelt

HYDE PARK. THE settlement of the steel strike and the increase in the price of steel to $7.50 a ton will mean a rise in cost of building and in many products that use steel. These increases in wages and manufactured steel are greater than expected, but certainly the rise in wages and perhaps even the increased cost of steel will not cost the public as much as a long steel strike would have. And the relief at not having a long-drawn-out and bitter struggle is great.

The Government, since there was no immediate emergency, was able to take a neutral, hands-off stand, and the results of the negotiations were purely the results of collective bargaining between management and labor.

Rises in wages are always asked for on the basis of the need to preserve purchasing power in the group of people who spend most of what they earn immediately and to keep pace with the increased cost of living. The rises in prices, of course, are always said to be a necessity to cover increases in wages.

HERE, I think, there is room for a real study to be made, because it is obvious that these rises in prices increase the cost of living to all wage earners. There is always the question concerning the point at which this has to stop. Increases in wages do not really increase purchasing power. These rises in wages must be granted with an eye toward the stabilizing of our economy and should be covered by economies made by management in certain areas.

Not long ago I read a report by Leon Keyserling, noted economist, who said we could increase the well-being of our people and have full employment if we take certain steps, which he enumerated and dwelt upon. Now, it seems to me, that this is a wages-and-increased-living-costs question that Mr. Keyserling should devote a real study to, as sooner or later it has to be faced.

THERE IS one thing that always impresses me at the beginning of a holiday. One should be looking forward only to pleasure, yet one is always faced with warnings of the number of people who will be killed on the roads.

I have often wondered if there is some way we could beg our citizens to drive more slowly during the vacation weekends. Perhaps one way would be to set 50 miles per hour as the speed limit everywhere and hope that this might lessen the occurrence of accidents. Of course, this would not hold on major highways such as New York's Thruway, which I understand requires 60 miles per hour, but I imagine here and on other major arteries 60 miles per hour is no more dangerous than 50 on the regular highways. Perhaps we could get voluntary observation of such a rule and have acceptance noted in some way on license plates or drivers' licenses.

Let's Explore Your Mind

By Dr. Albert E. Wiggam

1. IS "SEX APPEAL" IN ADVERTISING ALL IT'S ADVERTISING TO BE? YES ☐ NO ☐

Answer to Question 1. It must be, or, as Psychologist Melvin C. Hartwick says in "How to Use Psychology for Better Advertising," it wouldn't be used as much. Lines like this surely pay their way: "He vowed he'd be a bachelor, but her eyes captured him." "A man thrills to the spell of a sweet, soft voice." Haldeman-Julius made a fortune by changing titles of his Blue Books. For instance, "Fleece of Gold," sold 6000 copies; under title of "Quest for a Blonde Mistress," it sold 50,000 copies. A book about Louis XIV didn't sell until title was changed to "The Loves of a Lustful King."

Answer to Question 2. Yes. Parents must do a great deal of reading to get the lines to understand the meaning of much of their conversation, says Dr. Ralph K. Meister, director, Moseheart Laboratory for Child Research. Children communicate by facial expressions, gestures, "unreasonable" or provoking behavior, in a myriad of ways. We learn how they think and feel by keeping our eyes, minds, and hearts open. This way we can keep "lines of communication open between parent and child."

Answer to Question 3. Experts say: Keep away from show-offs, weaving drivers, drivers defying traffic regulations, horn-blowers, daydreamers, and those who try to race you. This is the art of defensive driving. Keep clear of a car that's banged up. Dents may indicate an "accident-prone" driver. Stay within speed limits. Tests prove that a steady 55 m.p.h. will get you there faster than speeds ranging from 35 to 75 m.p.h.

Tomato Sauce Omelet

An omelet makes a delicious lunch when it is filled with a fresh tomato sauce. To make the sauce, skin and seed the tomatoes, then dice; cook in a little butter or margarine with sliced mushrooms, chopped parsley and a little onion or garlic; season well with salt and freshly-ground pepper.

Contract Bridge

By Ely Culbertson

IN AN ALL-EXPERT game so-called preventive doubles are frowned upon—the partner represents the implication that he must be prevented from making a foolish or dangerous move. The fact remains, however, that there is a definite need for such double even in the most exalted company—and when one's partner is not an expert and makes no claim to that high estate, the preventive (or warning) double becomes virtually mandatory. Consider this case:

South dealer.
North-South vulnerable.
♠ 1062
♥ 1073
♦ 64
♣ 9854
♠ 44
♥ A1082
♦ 9875
♣ AQ7
♠ J73
♥ Q654
♦ 32
♣ J632
SOUTH
♠ KQ985
♥ K ♦ AKQJ10
♣ K10

The bidding at rubber bridge:
South West North East
1♠ Dbl. Pass 2♥
4♠ Pass 4♠ Pass
Pass 5♥ Pass Pass
5♠ Dbl. All pass

The "swing" was substantial: South went down three, for an 800-point penalty, whereas East-West would have gone down three, for a 500-point penalty.

Everybody at the table except East (who did nothing of his own volition) played an important role in this farce, but it was North's performance that is the subject of this discussion.

Beyond question, North had a horrible hand, but in view of the bidding he had heard, that very fact was a good reason for doubling five hearts. South had not opened with a two-bid, hence there was no conceivable chance that he could make 11 tricks with North's miserable support, but South had already indicated in such strenuous bidding that there was every reason to fear that he would keep on if given the chance. True, North couldn't take that chance away altogether, but he could put in the double which would carry a strong warning even if it could not "prevent."

This is not to say, of course, that South should have bid five spades—he certainly should not; he should have doubled five hearts—but North, as the more experienced member of the pair, should have protected himself and his partnership. Incidentally, West's five-heart call was no thing of beauty.

Wedding in Late July For Elizabeth Wade

A black and white photograph showing a group of about ten children and a few adults gathered outdoors. In the foreground, a young boy is seated at a table, focused on a craft project. A sign on the table reads "Honey - 1st". Other children are standing around the table, some looking at the boy's work. In the background, there are trees and a banner hanging across the scene. The overall atmosphere is one of a community or school event.

At Last! No More Stiff, Boardy Clothes—Sta-Puf Rinses All Washables Soft Again!

A Miracle for Diapers!
 STA-PUF makes diapers and baby clothes petal-soft as baby's tender skin itself. No more scratchy stiffness, even when you wash in hardest water. And STA-PUF makes diapers far easier to pin. No strong finger-pressure needed. Used by leading diaper laundries and hospitals. Kind to skin—kind to hands. Protects fabrics—clothes last longer.

Greatest Washday Discovery in 100 years! Not a soap, not a detergent, not a water softener. STA-PUF is a totally new kind of washday product unlike anything ever known before. All you do is pour a little STA-PUF into your final rinse water and presto!—everything comes so soft and fluffy that you can hardly believe your eyes! Harsh, "boardy" bath towels fluff up like magic!

Wash-stiffened baby clothes and sweaters lose their irritating scratchiness in a jiffy! And even inexpensive muslin sheets come out feeling like percale! STA-PUF is perfect for use in tubs, automatics or regular washing machines. And clothes come off the line almost wrinkle-free—are far easier to iron. Much of your flat work dries so beautifully smooth it needs no ironing at all!

RINSED THE OLD WAY

You SEE the Difference! The bath towels on the left were rinsed the ordinary way—while the towels on the right (rinsed with STA-PUF) are more than half again as thick. This is visible proof of the washday wonders that STA-PUF performs.

Remember—Detergent-washing Hardens Clothes—

Hot Weather Through Tomorrow

St. Louisans can expect hot weather to continue through tomorrow as a pleasant night brought on by a pleasant rain. Meteorologist Harry F. Wahlgren said there is a likelihood of occasional showers or thundershowers through Friday.

This "most general and generous rain," Wahlgren said, caused temperatures to drop from 92 at 5 p.m. to 72 at 6:30 p.m. The weather station at Lambert-St. Louis field reported 1.1 inches of rain. The mercury dropped there from 90 at 5 p.m. to 69 at 5:45 p.m. during the showers, which were accompanied by gusts of winds up to 52 miles an hour.

Elsewhere in the nation, 90-degree temperatures were reported yesterday in most sections except the Rockies. These included 99 at New York, 97 at Boston, 93 at Albany, N.Y., and 92 as far north as Portland, Me. It was 101 at Newark, N.J. Yesterday's high was 107 at Gila Bend, Ariz.

Heavy rain in Missouri measured 1.35 inches at Grifton 1.16 at St. Charles, 1.6 at Windfield and 1.34 at Clarksville. In St. Louis, yesterday's showers increased total precipitation to date to 16.03 inches as compared with normal, 20.38.

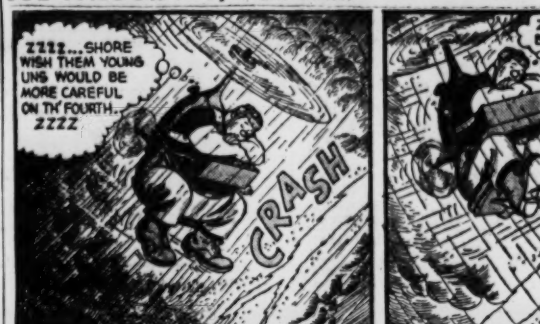

Worried about the next generation being soft? Just step out to any park where the kids are playing hardball and the fathers are playing softball.

Efforts to wean the younger set away from Davy Crockett are making slow progress as one of them claims the King of the Wild Frontier would have been even greater if he had lived in this era of short left-field fences and the lively ball.
